INTRODUCTION.

IT was not until the commencement of the seventh century that the doctrine of the efficacy of prayers, in alleviating and shortening the sufferings of purgatory, was fully recognised by the Church of Rome. A school for chanters was at that time established by Gregory the Great, the Chantry being a small chapel, or enclosure, within a church, and sometimes a distinct and separate building at a distance from the church, in which an altar was erected and consecrated, and a priest appointed to chant certain prescribed services for the welfare of individuals, specified by name, whilst they were living, and also for the repose of their souls after death. The latter provision involved the doctrine of purgatory, and the belief that the sacrifice of the mass was a propitiation for sin. Obits, anniversaries, month's minds, and similar services mentioned in this volume, were only various forms of ritual and prayer for the expiation of the sins of the departed. The solemn and pompous grandeur of the Church of Rome, especially in the funeral service in honour of the illustrious dead, was in some measure imparted to these humble foundations; and those who wished to pay a tribute of respect to the memory of the great or good had an opportunity of gratifying their feelings, not only at the time of the obsequies and on the commemoration day, but sometimes daily throughout the year. These posthumous honours were not temporary — they were designed to be enduring in the truest sense of the word; and names of celebrity were long remembered and enshrined in grateful hearts, and handed down to posterity as if written in the page of history. Sorrow was not always here a mere expression of deep feeling, but assumed a religious aspect, so that they who mourned were not dispirited; they had hope that their prayers and offerings were profitable and useful to the dead. The Church fostered the feeling, and by so doing acquired influence and dominion, but did not foresee with her usual sagacity that the time would come when every thing in religion would be judged, adopted, or rejected by its agreement with an infallible and inspired standard. The dead have always been regarded by all nations with reverential feelings, but

They are at rest.

We may not stir the heaven of their repose

By rude invoking name, or prayer address

In waywardness to those

Who in the mountain grots of Eden lie,

And hear the fourfold river as it murmurs by.

The era of some of the Lancashire Chantries rises as high as the thirteenth century,¹ although the greater part of them may be assigned to the later Plantagenet and early Tudor period.

These were of two kinds — the permanently endowed and the precariously endowed chantry. For creating the former the licence of the Crown, to alienate lands in mortmain for the maintenance of the priest, was required after the statutes of 7 and 13 Edward I. and 15 Richard II.: nor could founders acquire lands for this purpose, unless held by other than soccage tenure or by knight's service, without the royal permission. These were called Foundation Chantries, and the incumbents, presented by patrons, were legally instituted, and the Ordinary exercised canonical jurisdiction over them. An example of the latter is where a chapel was built and an altar dedicated, but there was no foundation. This was called a "capella indotata;" and there were many such in Lancashire, which, not being endowed, as in numerous instances they ought to have been with the tithes of the district belonging to them, but supported by the voluntary offerings of private and individual piety, could not resist the fate which so precarious an income rendered ultimately certain. After having been sustained for a time by the payment of a monied rent, and without the ancient parochial organisation, some of them became neglected and fell into decay,² the altars being disused and sometimes actually removed, thus affording a striking demonstration of the weakness of the voluntary system. These insecurely endowed altars were described as chantries,³ although the officiating priests were generally styled stipendiaries⁴ and not incumbents. Their ecclesiastical position was lower than that of the regularly bene-ficed chantry priests, as they were nominated, paid and removed by the family of the founder at their individual pleasure, which sufficiently accounts for the licence of the bishop not being obtained nor required. Had such been the case, a life interest in the appointment would have been conveyed, and the names of the incumbents recorded in the registers of the diocese. It is worthy of remark that several of these small private foundations having a chalice or a bell or some trifling article belonging to them, were not deemed too inconsiderable for the notice of the king's commissioners, and were eagerly seized by those sordid and quick sighted officials,⁵ for to them, as well as to the dragon of Wantley, "houses and chantries were geese and turkies."

Free Chapels were places of worship exempted from all relation to the mother church and also from episcopal jurisdiction, an exemption which was an equivocal privilege, obtained immediately from the Crown, or appended to ancient manors originally belonging to the Crown.⁶ There was only one chapel in Lancashire which possessed this privilege.⁷

Oratories also were built by private individuals, resident upon their property, at their own expense, for there never was a time in which voluntary effort was not active in the Church, and were generally little more than domestic chapels appurtenant to manor houses. They were located sometimes in quiet situations, remote from the mother church, which at some seasons was inaccessible, especially to the aged and infirm, owing to bad roads and bad weather; and were found convenient in large parishes for the dependents of the founders, as well as for the neighbouring population, which by this means had some of the ministrations of religion, if not all the public means of grace, carried to their homes and doors, and a grievous and dangerous evil thereby wisely averted. The consent of the Crown was not necessary; but it was requisite, before divine service could be performed in these chapels, to obtain the bishop's licence, which was always granted sparingly, out of regard to parochial communion rather than from fear of rivalry or from opposition to the parish church. It has been stated that an oratory was not built for saying mass, nor was it endowed, but simply ordained for prayer;⁸ and yet the "divine offices," for the solemnization of which licenses were granted, included the saying of mass by "a fit priest," and sometimes sermons and sacraments.⁹ A bell could not be put up either in an oratory or chantry without the permission of the diocesan, and we have many instances of this privilege being granted in Lancashire.¹⁰ There is evidence of some of these oratories having had chantries founded within them and of their having become, after the suppression, parochial chapels.

These rural chantries were always founded with some mark of dependence on the mother church, although the chaplains often aided the parochial clergy in the performance of divine service.¹¹ The inhabitants of a distant hamlet, who were accommodated with a chapel by the forbearance of the rector or vicar of the parish, were required, as a proof of their subjection and an evidence of their obedience, not only to pay their tithes and Easter dues, but also to repair to the mother church on the greater festivals; and their humble minister, on these jubilant occasions, was required to accompany them. Immemorial custom, in after times, was pleaded for such an observance, and doubtless, in some instances, the custom was coeval with the erection of the chapel. Nor was this all. The people were expected, as an evidence of their dependence, to bear along with them their special oblations and offerings, and the chaplain to pay the dues and to render the service, which had been reserved from the earliest time for the benefit of the parish church. This reserve impoverished the chaplain, but it established the sacerdotal superiority of the rector. The former was also required to accompany the latter in his annual perambulation in Rogation week, with banners, hand-bells, and the reading of psalms — a duty which would often be found in the North of England, owing to the great extent of the Anglo-Norman parishes, oppressive and sometimes utterly impracticable. In some parishes the incumbent of the mother church exacted an oath of obedience of the curate of a chapel; and this anomalous act of submission on the part of one priest to another was enjoined by a constitution of Archbishop Winchelsey (1294–1313) in the thirteenth century.¹² Neither the oath nor the penalties of its violation seem to have been enforced with much stringency in this diocese ; custom and common sense probably interposed to enlarge the construction of the canon, and its infringement was not unsparingly punished.¹³

If the origin of all these Foundations could be told, how many social incidents and touching events would be revealed, some of them startling as the visionary revelations of the "Divina Commedia," and others illustrative of all the tenderness of our nature in many a sad story of domestic blight and desolation. There can be no question that sympathy and affection had much to do with their origin, independent of superstitious feelings; a contemplative more than an intellectual, and a speculative more than a Scriptural, bias influencing the founders. In some instances they were a sort of monumental tribute to preserve the names of those sleeping in the vault beneath the altar, and, as such, they were the offspring of gratitude and love. The memorial pillar and the animated bust, the glowing window and the graceful statue, were not unknown in past ages, when cultivated taste and refined art were predominant in the Christian Church; and whilst many selected these forms as an embodiment of their deep and earnest feelings, others selected, as a fitting shrine, the chantry and its priest. Nor were these confined to birth, or rank, or to any distinct class of people. We have instances in this county of their foundation by the most distinguished members of the royal family;¹⁴ by the highest dignitaries of the Church;¹⁵ by the most renowned members of the nobility;¹⁶ by knights celebrated for chivalrous deeds;¹⁷ by gentlemen without the distinction of coat armour;¹⁸ by devout and successful merchants;¹⁹ by humble parish priests;²⁰ and by aged widows.²¹

Nor must we assume that the only object of these Foundations was that prayers might be offered for the dead, and saints, instead of God, invoked by the officiating priest. In all of them prayers ascended for the living as well as for the dead, and in all was manifested the keen sympathy of the rich with the poor, for the relief of whose external wants alms were constantly distributed. Some of the later Foundations were simply charitable endowments by persons of sound religious life, who devoted a portion of their private means, by testamentary bequest, to the benefit of their suffering fellow creatures, and, grateful for their own blessings, secured to the poor what was probably distributed amongst them in alms during the lifetime of the donors. In others it may be inferred that the poor, who had hitherto been forgotten, were remembered on the approach of death; and the influence of conscience or remorse, or some kindred feeling, swaying the mind, led to the fulfilment of duties which had been neglected in the time of health, and on the delegated performance of which the founders partly rested their hopes of salvation. In some instances restitution was contemplated by them. But whatever the inducement might be — and such is the complexity of human motives that it cannot always be penetrated — the founders were not slow in making provision, generally in their last moments, for feeding the hungry and clothing the naked on the anniversary day of their death:²² nor did they omit to provide for the efficient relief of spiritual destitution in large parishes,²³ and for the aid of over-worked and meanly endowed incumbents in the performance of the daily service.²⁴ The education of the young in grammar and the ordinary learning of the times was often specially enjoined,²⁵ and active co-operation with the parochial clergy was not unfrequently required as permanent duties of the chantry priests.²⁶ These were some of the conditions annexed to the lands given, as the founders declared in their deeds of gift, for the glory of God;²⁷ but they also charged what they so gave with the maintenance of masses for the dead: and although "the continuous miracle" was avowedly set forth, and "blasphemous fables and dangerous deceits" were publicly taught, we have here a record of active piety and well-doing, through clerical agents, quite independent of superstitious and selfish feeling, which ought to have exempted these devout Churchmen from the charge of being "unprofitable servants." But it was one of the misfortunes of the first half of the sixteenth century that the peculiar union of simple charity and mediæval error, which distinguished these institutions, was identified in men's minds with arbitrary rule; and statesmen had no scruple about measures which some would now think almost a greater evil than the evil which they were meant to remedy. The real utility of Chantries consisted precisely in those noble and distinctive attributes which Fuller so happily assigns to biography — to preserve the memory of the dead and hold forth examples to the living, to furnish instruction to the people, and to gain some glory to God; but we have to complain of the founders, as Sir Thomas Browne did of historians, that they often set down things which ought never to have been done or never to have been known.

The Chantry Priests could hardly be otherwise than poor men, as their stipends were regulated by various statutes of the realm, and were always limited in amount, and the annual revenues of the Lancashire chantries ranged from thirty shillings²⁸ to ten pounds,²⁹ the average probably being not much more than eight marks, or 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* each, per annum, after the payment of the deductions, reparations, quit-rents and tenths to the Crown.³⁰ Few of them appear to have held livings in plurality, although this old canker of the Church had widely spread before the Reformation, and we find here and there instances of its existence amongst these humble clergymen.³¹ One of the merits of Chaucer's Poure Personne is, that and the lord chancellor Booth and Gardyner of Lancaster strictly enjoined residence, and prohibited a plurality of livings,³³ although dispensations were obtained for absence from chantries as well as from parochial cures; and there is some ground for concluding that the chantry advowsons were bought and sold. There are also bargains which strongly resemble simoniacal contracts,³⁴ and the abuse of patronage was notorious.

The vested rights of the mother church were never allowed to be invaded by the founders of chantries, and there is no instance in the reports of these commissioners of any tithes or oblations being received by the priests. The foundation of the great family of Booth at Eccles was endowed with the rectory of Slaidburn and the advowson of Bethom, but it was a collegiate as well as a chantry institution, and, notwithstanding the bounty of the archbishop and his episcopal brother, seems to have failed in securing the benefit of their testamentary devise;³⁵ and the well-endowed chantry of Lathom included the support of the hospital and the meritorious dole of a penny a day to the eight poor bedemen.³⁶ There was one fluctuating source of income which often aided the exigencies of a mean living. Individuals, in their misconception of divine truth, were in the habit, especially about the time that the Reformation was struggling into existence, of bequeathing sums of money to chantry priests, for limited terms, to celebrate at their altars religious exequies. Sometimes the period extended from the day of the death to the day when the funeral solemnity was kept;³⁷ at others, for one, two, or more years;³⁸ frequently the service for the dead with a solemn mass, in which the name of the deceased was introduced, was only celebrated annually on the day of the death, and was called an obit;³⁹ and, strange to tell, sometimes only "when the priest was disposed;"⁴⁰ sometimes, "at his discretion;"⁴¹ sometimes, "at the discretion of the executors;"⁴² and, in one instance, "only as long as a lease of lands continued."⁴³ Few persons think their own faults very flagrant or inexpiable; and it is curious and suggestive to find some individuals requiring prayers for a year, others for a more limited term, and the generality for an indefinite period, during their probation in the purgatorial regimen. A short course seems to have been often prescribed by laymen, whilst archbishops and curates, who taught the doctrine, and the confession is humiliating, needed ages to purify them.

There is something significant and pleasing in the small bequests made to these chapels from time to time, and also in the social condition of the donors. A widow, deprived in early life of her husband, is admonished by sickness and pain of his place of sepulture, where her own remains were soon to be laid, and she gives various specific articles for the better and more becoming solemnization of the rites and ceremonies for the dead.⁴⁴ Another widow thoughtfully and unostentatiously bequeaths communion plate from a similar motive.⁴⁵ Another matron presents a piece of needle-work, embroidered by her own hands, which had occupied many solitary moments and beguiled many weary thoughts, and in devoting her time, labour and small means to the service of the sanctuary, she had, doubtless, found much solace.⁴⁶ A knight gives precious altar-cloths of silk, also hangings of cloth of gold and of russet satin, formerly belonging to a great prelate, and questionless, on that account, of rare value, to be made into vestments for the observance of ecclesiastical order and ritual decency in the service of chantry chapels.⁴⁷ And the great and, it may be, the ostentatious parish priest, who affords us a glimpse of the social condition and habits of the higher parochial clergy of his day, had an eye, not to the aggrandizing of his family, but to the charity that "never faileth," when he ordered well nigh a hecatomb of oxen and sheep to be slain and prepared for "all comers" on the day of his burial, that they might pray for his soul's weal and thus, according to his strange creed, "bribe the rage of ill-requited heaven."⁴⁸ To all these devout persons, and to many others their contemporaries, reformatories and ragged schools, prisons and penitentiaries, hospitals and asylums, were not quite unknown, but they also recognized some of the other accredited forms which charity assumed in their day, and left to their successors in the Church labours and responsibilities which still affect the religious and social welfare of the whole people.

We learn from the household inventories of the colleges of Manchester⁴⁹ and Eccles⁵⁰ that at the time of the Reformation even the fellows, whose position was in all respects superior to that of the chantry priests, had neither the comfortable dwellings, nor the decent furniture, nor, probably, the wholesome food of the poorest curate of the present day. The common dining hall was furnished with a table and wooden benches; one silver salt-celler and twelve silver spoons comprised all the plate, unless the three goblets (evidently concealed from the commissioners, but afterwards "found out for the king")⁵¹ belonged to the college; and a dozen napkins, four table cloths, and four towels,⁵² must be deemed an inadequate supply for their daily requirements, but their linen-press did not contain any other. How little they knew of the dormant wonders of commerce, of the luxury of woven cotton fabrics, or of the matchless texture and beauty of Manchester "goods"! It is true that each fellow furnished his own "chamber,"⁵³ but its furniture was not elaborate, as it consisted of a truckle bed, a stool and a chest. At that time there would be about the college, with its surrounding landscape and balmy air, its pleasant gardens,⁵⁴ little cloisters and monastic gloom, a "religio loci" which has not quite disappeared, although marred by the clouded welkin, the tainted gales, and the tumultuous din of the city. It must be admitted that in many respects, its former state is not a loser by a fair comparison with its present, as the clergy, associated together under the guidance of a warden, were honourably distinguished by their active labours,⁵⁵ well-husbanded resources, extensive charity, and liberal hospitality, even by the impartial confession of those who had no good will towards them.⁵⁶ The household stuff of the college of priests at Eccles was of a still meaner description,⁵⁷ and so we may reasonably conclude was the collegiate residence itself, whilst the wills of some of the priests seem to indicate a state of poverty closely allied to that mendicancy,⁵⁸ which now flourishes luxuriantly amongst the begging friars within the area of St. Peter's at Rome.

In the hard and tasteless period which immediately preceded the Reformation it would be interesting to know how these chantry priests lived upon their small stipends whilst working out the great duties of life, and what their habits, tastes and predilections were. Theological questions were afloat, and polemical disputations were beginning to occupy and influence thoughtful minds. In the North there were always stronger religious feelings and lustier zeal than in the South, which led to the observation that "where the air is keenest the religion is purest," although occasional instances opposed to the atmospheric theory, as it has been called, occur in the following pages; and there can be no question that some of the inferior clergy were contemptible for their poverty, among the rich, their ignorance, among the refined, and their bad morals, among the devout,⁵⁹ which in a large class bound by unnatural vows might be expected; but if learning, refinement and devotion existed at all, we may presume that they would be found amongst the clergy. Residence was not general, although the chapel itself was regarded as the house of the chantry priest, whose "chamber" was sometimes over the chancel; and as the sanctus bell⁶⁰ was tolling daily, and oftentimes twice in a day, for mass at the same altar, the priest must have been at hand ready with his orisons and benisons as well for the lowly dead as the godless living.

⁵⁹ Whitaker's Whalley, p. 146. — Jewel complained that the mass priests were ignorant and superstitious, and he called them "lanterns without light" (Works, vol. iv. p. 910); and Becon, with too much party rancour in his coarse but racy language, accused them of being addicted to the alehouse, to dicing, carding, hunting, bowling, hawking and bibbing, which are not clerical recreations, but were probably the ordinary pursuits and amusements of the educated classes of the age, and some of them, possibly, innocent in themselves. — Works, vol. iii. p. 282.

⁶⁰ The saint-bell calls; and, Julia, I must read
The proper lessons for the saints now dead;
To grace which service, Julia, there shall be
One holy collect sung or said for thee.
Dead when thou art, dear Julia, thou shalt have A trental sung by virgins o'er thy grave;
Meantime, we two will sing the dirge of these,
Who, dead, deserve our best remembrances.

Herrick's Hesperides, No. cccxxxvi., vol. ii. p. 194.

Occasionally we find, as at Liverpool,⁶¹ Burnley⁶² and Ribchester,⁶³ an appropriate house and garden provided for the accommodation of the chantry priest; but for the most part he had one or two small rooms in a half-timbered hut, with little light, no fire place, and an open chimney, with turf burning on the hearth between Michaelmas and Candlemas, and a yule log at Christmas. A bench or a stool, a wooden bedstead and a mattress of straw, would comprise the furniture and household comforts of these ecclesiastics. It is hardly to be supposed that the priest had a servant to stock his larder or minister to his culinary wants, and he probably prepared his own frugal fare. This would consist of salted meat twice a week. On the day of his patron saint, or on some great anniversary, he would have fresh meat and fish, and on high festivals a double mess. Beans to boil, and oatmeal for porridge, with "haberdine," ling, red-herrings, cheese, oatcake and apples, would be ordinary food, whilst eggs, coarse barley-bread and fresh fish would be amongst the luxuries of the table, and were not very sumptuous refectations. The repeated fasts of the Church would not be, with such a dietary, inconvenient duties.

The habit or costume of the chantry priest in Lancashire was a coarse frieze cassock with a leathern girdle, thick clogs, and a felt hat or none at all. Sometimes he carried, like the laity, a dagger, and sometimes was not over scrupulous in its use.⁶⁴ To guard against cold in a generally humid and always capricious climate, the older and feebler priests had a stouter cassock in winter, some of them "not being curious or scrupulous what colour or fashion it be;"⁶⁵ and as the infirmities of age crept on they, beyond many others, must have felt that "life protracted is protracted woe," and their chief consolation must have been that, although hard measure had been dealt them here, a reward awaited them, and that it was not far distant.

Nor were the priests generally of the peasant class, as we find amongst them younger sons of some of the highest families in the county.⁶⁶ Some of these appear, from the bishops' ordination lists, to have been educated in the monasteries, and others at the English universities; but they were often compelled, owing to their penury, to occupy and cultivate their bits of glebe to eke out a scanty and precarious subsistence.⁶⁷ They were poor without professing poverty, and their ordinary life being half monastic, self-indulgence, extravagance and luxury, it may be inferred, would be a rare occurrence; but promotion still rarer, as we find in that century, as well as in the last, that "slow rises worth by poverty oppressed."

Of all the measures by which unprincipled men disgraced the Reformation, none contributed more, by the manner in which it was conducted, to injure that excellent cause, than the suppression of chantries.⁶⁸

After the dissolution of the monasteries and the exhaustion of their plunder, the king and his courtiers turned to the chantries, collegiate churches, hospitals and guilds, in all of which masses for the dead were solemnized, and a specific form of belief thus maintained which had long been a theory, but which had ultimately been declared to be a fixed truth of the Roman Catholic Church.⁶⁹ If reformation had been desired, this one condition of founders, of "teaching for doctrine the commandments of men," might have been repealed, and much would still have been left for a learned and discreet clergy to do; but that would not have satisfied covetousness, although it might have prevented sacrilege. The Government considered the property of these foundations not so much national property as the property of the king, who was ready to secularize and monopolize it for any purpose he pleased. Principles of equity, justice and legal security were set at nought, and the recognized rights of property disregarded. That the State had not furnished the endowments, or done any thing for the support of the chantries, was obvious to every one. The endowments were all individual donations from age to age. The State had even limited the donors in their benefactions, but had guaranteed to protect what they had given, and then violated the promise. That gross error was taught, along with much that was good, is manifest, but to refute error there was no need of employing the strong arm of power, as other and better weapons were at hand. In the 37 Henry VIII. the lands, goods and possessions of these foundations were settled by an arbitrary parliament on the king, and a commission was issued to ascertain their history and value, the following "Return" made to the Crown by the royal commissioners being the result. The statements may be considered as those of eager partisans, who knew what was required of them, and who were well-disposed to carry out the policy of the Government. The facts appear to have been, upon the whole, carefully collected and well marshalled; but there is a tendency to vagueness of statement which sometimes mars the usefulness of the information. Greater precision might have been secured, more accuracy as to founders, more point as to dates, and more copious abstracts of foundation deeds. There can be little doubt that the clergy and patrons were sensitive, uncommunicative, and averse to these prying investigations and frequent parliamentary commissions upon the internal affairs of the Church. They were not disposed to do any thing directly to bring about a result which the majority of them must have contemplated with dismay. Many of the chantries are returned as being without plate or ornaments, and yet in all there must have been a chalice and paten, a missal and an alb, but in various instances these were concealed and withheld. It is probable that the former articles would often be of lead or latten, or some inferior metal, and belonged to the priest himself, as the remains of such articles have been frequently found in coffins of the pre-Reformation ecclesiastics, so that they had been buried with their owners.⁷⁰

⁷⁰ Archæologia, vol. xxxvi. p. 182; Proc. Soc. Antiq. p. 286, Dec. 1860. We learn from Cæsar that the Gauls were in the habit of depositing with the dead those articles which were esteemed the most valuable to them in life. "Omnia quæ vivis cordi fuisse arbitrantur in ignem inferunt, etiam animalia." And there are proofs of a somewhat similar custom amongst the Britons, as celts, daggers, beads of amber, gold, &c., are now discovered in barrows and graves. — Sir R. C. Hoare's Tumuli Wiltunenses, p. 10. In the year 1824 several ancient leaden coffins were removed from Trinity chapel in Rochdale church (p. 270 post) to prepare the way for the construction of an arched vault, and in one of the coffins was found a small narrow-necked vessel with a round fluted body, either of coarse opaque glass or of light pottery. It was called a lachrymatory, and was about five or six inches in height. This vessel could not be older than the end of the fifteenth century (when the chapel was founded), and was probably a sacramental, and not a sepulchral, vessel. There was also in the same coffin a small tin or metallic box, only a few inches in diameter, which had suffered from corrosion, and was not preserved. The former relique was in the possession of Mr. Hugh Oldham, schoolmaster, in 1829.

The interior decorations of the greater part of the Lancashire chantries appear to have been meagre, and the founders do not seem, except at Manchester, Ribchester and Eccles, to have produced any noble or remarkable architectural work. Patrons made the necessary fabric repairs from time to time, and not always before they were needed.⁷¹

In the 1 Edward VI., c. 14, parliament gave the youthful king the last sweepings of the chantry lands of which his father had, from any cause, not held full possession. Cranmer and Tonstall alike faithfully remonstrated and discreetly pleaded, from different motives, for the preservation of the chantries, but in vain. The statute expressly provided "that nothing therein should extend to any chapel made for the ease of the people dwelling distant from the parish church, nor to any such like chapel, whereunto no more lands &c. than the chapel yard, or a little house, or close, did pertain;" and this clause ought to have saved many of the chapels desolately situated amidst a widely-scattered and increasing population, in the outposts of large towns like Rochdale and Blackburn, from the fiat of spoliation: but such was not the case. In many instances the parishes came forward wisely and well, and purchased the chantry chapels, obviously, at almost nominal prices,⁷² of the king's commissioners, as chapels of ease to the mother church; but they were stripped of every thing that was necessary for the performance of divine service, in conformity with the established religion, even to "the communion plate" and the "one bell,"⁷³ which Somerset pretended was quite sufficient to summon the people to prayers. By the operation of the act 2 and 3 Queen Anne, c. 11, they were constituted benefices with the cure of souls, and thereby obtained, where they did not before exist, the ordinary parish rights of administering the holy sacraments and of sepulture. Some of the families and representatives of the original founders, who had embraced a better creed and approved of the general acts of the saint-like king, looked upon this act of rapacity and destruction with an anxious eye and shuddered, whilst many of the old men, like Southworth and Towneley, bitterly exclaimed, with grief and indignation, "The heathen have come into thine inheritance, O Lord, and thy holy temples have they defiled;" and it might be said, without much poetical figure, that "the shrines all trembled, and the lamps grew pale."

Nor was this the only evil which was felt. The foundations being impoverished or destroyed, the people deprived of their old pastors and neglected by their new ones, were left in a state of ignorance and vice fearful to contemplate, and many of the extensive parishes of Lancashire, which even at that time ought to have been subdivided and their chapels competently endowed, and supplied with our admirable parochial system and the reformed liturgy, were deliberately left without any clergy. On the suppression of the chantries in the year 1548 the number of the clergy in Manchester, including the chantry priests, amounted to twenty-two;⁷⁴ in Winwick parish to fourteen; in Blackburn to the same number;⁷⁵ and in Prescot to eleven; and all the large parishes were similarly provided, the cantarists, as they were styled, at the same time being actively employed in doing parochial work. When the latter were silenced, and retired upon miserable and ill-paid life pensions, the voice of religion for a long time almost ceased to be heard, for at Bishop Downham's visitation in the year 1562⁷⁶ there were not more than two or three clergymen in each of the large parishes in his diocese, and the greater part of the old chapels, with their wide chapelries, had not even one. This lamentable state of things may be partly accounted for from the fact that the queen, at the very beginning of her reign, publicly inhibited all preaching;⁷⁷ and although this solemn obligation of the clergy to "preach the Word" was afterwards restored,⁷³ it was long discouraged by Elizabeth, who thought that three or four preachers in a county were quite sufficient.⁷⁹ Thus the old tree, with all its cankered boughs and caterpillars, was stubbed and burnt, and it was long before the new set afforded to the remote districts of the North either fruit or shelter.⁸⁰

Queen Mary's first endeavour on coming to the Crown was to restore the lost patrimony of the chantries, and to accomplish that object another and third royal commission was issued.⁸¹ The canon law had denounced sacrilegious spoliation, and warned the purchasers of lands that the bargains were invalid and the sales void. The protests of the Church were disregarded and her censures despised, and with incredible rapidity, by grant, lease, sale or exchange, the property passed from one layman to another, until it became secularized and merged in a lay fee.⁸² "What the

as little as some in our age;" and he broadly states that the endowments of many of them were concealed and never came into the exchequer at all, being grasped by private but potent persons. Intimations to this effect appear in the following pages. Mary was able to restore very few of the chantries, and these had only a temporary existence. The lands vested in the Crown, which belonged to them, had been squandered. It is worthy of note that Henry VIII., who suppressed 2374 chantries,⁸³ provided with marvellous inconsistency, by his will dated 30th Dec. 1546, that immediately after his death all the Romish funeral services should be performed for him, and he gave a thousand marks to the poor who should assist at his funeral, and six hundred pounds sterling per annum, in land, to the Dean of Windsor, that he might provide masses for his (the king's) soul continually.⁸⁴ On the other hand Queen Mary, who had sought to restore the chantries, made no provision at all for the celebration of purgatorial masses.

After the Marian persecution had passed away the state of the Church was deplorable, owing to the scarcity of Protestant divines. The seed plot was well nigh exhausted by martyrdom and exile, persecution and poverty. Some golden grain indeed remained, sifted and winnowed from the chaff, but every parish had not the blessed privilege of possessing like Manchester an Oliver Carter, like Rochdale a Midgley, or like Preston a Daniel. Many of the rural chapelries in poor and remote districts were either entirely destitute of ministers, or afflicted with such as were illiterate and useless; or, what is nearer the truth, they were left to the wandering priests of the ancient Church, who, deprived of a seat of rest, roved through the country, carrying along with them their sacrificial vases and tattered missals, and administering in private the consolations of religion or superstition to their scattered flocks.⁸⁵

We are in the habit of looking back with an eye of pity on this period of our history, and, with a full consciousness of our superior intelligence and orthodoxy, of congratulating ourselves on our freedom from its errors, and from the pernicious influences of a mistaken creed; but we are apt to forget that if error was taught in those days, there was, at least, a well-meant earnestness in its dissemination, which, with the full light of sacred truth around us, and every obligation, sacred and secular, to urge us to the performance of our duty, it well becomes us to imitate, and, if possible, to surpass⁸⁶

It only remains to be added that some of the valuable materials which constitute the History of the Lancashire Chantries here printed, were first brought under the notice of the late Rev. JOSEPH CLARKE, B.A., the excellent Rector of Stretford, whilst collecting information for a history of his parish, by the LORD BISHOP of MANCHESTER. MR. CLARKE afterwards obtained, through the liberality of friends,⁸⁷ a full transcript of the several Reports of the Royal Commissioners from the office of the Duchy of Lancaster; but his early death prevented such portions of them being used as fell within the scope of his projected but incomplete undertaking, and he bequeathed the manuscripts to his respected Diocesan. On a more careful examination of their contents, his Lordship, whose thorough insight into whatever is important or valuable in historical inquiry is not less conspicuous than his uniform encouragement of all endeavours to prosecute and advance it, deemed the reports to be of sufficient interest to merit publication; and by placing them, with that view, at the disposal of their Council, has conferred an obligation, deserving of grateful acknowledgment, on the CHETHAM SOCIETY, and a duly appreciated honour on its Vice-President, by requesting him to become the Editor of the present volume.

⁸⁷ Amongst whom it would be an act of injustice to withhold the names of Miss ATHERTON, the BISHOP of MANCHESTER, J. C. HARTER, Esq., and JAMES DEARDEN, Esq., — the two last, long known for their philanthropy, now share the repose of "holy earth," and their funeral knell still sounds in our ears, and saddens our hearts. The expense of the office copies amounted to upwards of 30*l*.

² Instances occur in the following Survey of sagacious and bold individuals, who foresaw the approaching storm, resuming the endowments of their ancestors, and thus anticipating and defeating the spoliation of the King. If the authority exercised was illegal, it seems at least, in some cases, to have been successful.

² George Collier or Coleire was the son of Robert Coleire, a Frenchman, who came into England in the time of Henry VI., and settled at Darlaston co. Stafford, by Isabel his wife, daughter and heiress of Sir John Dodington of Dodington knt. — Ex. Inf. Tho. W. King Esq., York Herald. He was born 4 Henry VII. 1488, and at the age of forty was instituted, 2nd October 1528, as "George Collier A.M." to the office of Guardian of the Collegiate Church of the B. V. Mary of Manchester, vacant by the free resignation of George West, the last master or keeper, on the presentation of Sir Thomas West knt., the patron. — Blythe's Reg. Lichf. It is there recorded that Collier covenanted to pay an annual pension of 1*l.* to his predecessor during his natural life, apparently out of the revenues of the College. — Ibid. In 1535 (the year in which Dr. H. Ware erroneously states that Collier became Warden — Hist. Coll. Ch. p. 61) the King renounced the supremacy of the Pope, and declared himself to be the temporal head of the English Church; but Collier, faithful to the pontiff, refused to acknowledge the royal supremacy (ibid. p. 61) which did not however lead to his deprivation, as he held the dignity at the death of Henry VIII.

 Although it is stated in a MS. history of the Wardens (c. 37 Coll. Arm.) that he was deprived by Edward VI. for refusing to take the oath of supremacy, he certainly continued in his office until the College was dissolved in 1547, and then retired with a pension settled upon him by the King. — Dr. H. Ware's Hist. app. p. 388. He was restored, along with the College, by Queen Mary, 1556-7, visited Bradford the Martyr in prison, with a view to his conversion to the Romish creed, and seems to have been an active although probably not an intolerant supporter of that church. He died in Manchester, where he was deservedly popular (notwithstanding he had other preferment) according to Dr. H. Ware about 1557. In that year he was Commissary of Cuthbert Bishop of Chester (Lanc. MSS. vol. xvi. p. 341), but on the 12th July 1558, a minute inventory of the goods of “George Collyer, late Warden of Manchester, clerk, deceased,” was exhibited in the Consistory of Chester, “valued in his lyfe time by four honest and discrete men.” — Ibid. His effects at Manchester and at Stone in Staffordshire, where he had a house near the residence of his brother Robert Collier of Darlaston Esq., amounted in value to lxix^{li} xiiij^s xj^d, and monies owing him by Sir William Radcliffe and others amounted to liij^{li} vj^s viij^d. At his death he was aged 70.
 He was a liberal and bountiful churchman, and yet appears, from the text, to have ruled the College well, and to have had a due regard to prudence and economy in the administration of its temporalities. — Abridged from Fasti Mancun. a MS. He was buried in the West or Byron (now the Chetham) Chapel at the east end of the choir.

² This was used in performing the Easter mysteries in the choir by the priests, and represented to the people the Resurrection of our Lord. It was to these religious scenic representations, always popular with the unlettered, that Bradford the martyr referred, when he told the people of Manchester in King Edward's days, "as it were by a prophetic spirit," that, owing to their religious indifference, mass should again be said in the Collegiate Church, "and the Play of Robin Hood acted there," which in Queen Mary's reign came to pass. — Hollinworth's Mancun.; Latimer's Sixth Serm.

¹ Laurence Vaux or Vauce was born near Blackrod, in the parish of Bolton-le-Moors in the county of Lancaster, according to computation, about the year 1519. He was probably educated at the Grammar School of Manchester, then in its infancy and in high repute. He was entered of Queen's College, Oxford, but afterwards removed to Corpus Christi, the noble foundation of Bishop Fox, and of his judicious friend Bishop Hugh Oldham. At the latter college he was either Clerk or Chorister, and was much favoured by Mr. James Brookes, one of the Fellows, who afterwards became Bishop of Gloucester, and appointed Vaux his Chaplain. A. à Wood states that Vaux was ordained priest about the year 1540, which is an error. He went through the regular gradations of an Acolyte, Sub-Deacon and Deacon, and was ordained Priest in the Collegiate Church of B. Mary of Manchester by John Bird, Bishop of Chester, on Sunday next after the feast of St. Matthew the Apostle (September 21st), 1542. — Bishop Bird's Liber Ordinat. Lanc. MSS. In 1547 he was "Incumbent Fellow of the Collegiate Church of Manchester," and in 2 Edward VI. he was "one of the Priests Curates of the Parish of Manchester," and probably not at that time a Roman Catholic. On 19th March 1556, he was a Commissioner, along with Warden Collier, of the Bishop of Chester, and is styled in the commission "Fellow of the said Church" (Lanc. MSS. vol. xvi. p. 341); and in this year he was admitted to the reading of the sentences at Oxford, and was B.D. — Wood's Athen. p. 130. He succeeded Collier as Warden of the Collegiate Church in 1558, being the first instance of a Fellow advanced to that dignity. He refused the oath of supremacy, and was deprived by Queen Elizabeth in 1559. In a MS. "Account of the Wardens of Manchester College," written about 1730, the author (probably the Rev. Robert Asheton) says, that Warden Vaux (1558-59) bequeathed his library to the Standish family of Standish, and also the communion plate of the Collegiate Church, which Hollinworth says he took with him on his deprivation, to prevent what he regarded its desecration, and that he (Asheton) had seen some part of it in the possession of that family, and wished, as a generous act, the restoration of it to the Church. The plate, he said, consisted of a curious gilt paten inlaid with pearl for the consecration of the Host, with a very finely wrought pyx of plate in which the paten was laid up, and corresponding with it. — Rev. John Greswell's MS. Hist. Manch., p. 91, Chetham Library. He ultimately became a professor at Louvain, and probably a Jesuit. Never quitting the anchor of hope, although unable to steer the vessel of St. Peter in Manchester, he returned to England as a Seminary Priest in defiance of the public prohibition, and with hostile feelings towards the government of the Queen. In 1580 he entertained at his house in Lancashire his friends and colleagues Campian and Persons, who had chosen that county as the scene of their labours against the English Church. The Earl of Derby, the Bishop of Chester, and other members of the Council of the North, apprehended him, as they had done several times before his expatriation, and after examination he was committed as a recusant to the Gate House Prison, London, under the statute 2 Elizabeth. He died there, not according to Anthony à Wood about 1570, but certainly after 1581. — Abridged from Fasti Mancun., a MS., where several original notices of him exist, and a catalogue of his various publications.

and Richard Hunt, son and heir of Richard Hunt of Manchester gent. deceased (and of Margaret his wife) was defendant, of lands, messuages, &c., in Manchester and Salford. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xiv. p. 61; Byrom pedigree, appendix, Byrom Remains, vol. iv.) The Hunts of Hunt Hall were one of the oldest and best descended families in Manchester, held considerable burgage and other property there, and had been much connected with the church both before and after it was collegiate. They did not appear at any of the Heralds' Visitations, although they continued to live in Manchester until at least the beginning of the eighteenth century. This "Hall" and the family have alike disappeared, but their name survives in "Hunt's Bank."

His widow survived him, and married secondly Sir John Done of Utkinton, and had issue by him. — Ormerod's Hist. Chesh. vol. iii. p. 306. His post mort. inq. is dated 4 Henry VIII. — Ibid. vol. ii. p. 133.

² Thomas Galley, an opulent merchant of Manchester, connected with the family of the same name who founded a Chantry at St. George's altar.

¹ This chantry, dedicated to St. James, was "of the constitution of John Huntingdon, Chaplain, and of the foundation of Ralph [not Robert] Hulme, late of Manchester deceased" (Gastrell's Not. Cest. vol. ii. pt. i. p. 62, note), and arose out of the lengthened litigation, unhappy disputes, and I fear wilful dishonesty of at least some of Warden Huntingdon's trustees and their successors. Ralph Hulme (misdescribed in the text) of Hulme, the head of an ancient feudal family, a rich man, and connected by marriage with the Beswickes, the "merchant princes" of Manchester, both families being distinguished by their religious devotion, had succeeded his father, Geoffrey Hulme, as a trustee of the will of Warden Huntingdon's lands, which had been devoted by that aged dignitary to works of piety, and amongst others to the foundation of a Chantry in the Collegiate Church; but nearly half a century elapsed after Huntingdon's death before his Chantry was founded. It appears that Ralph Hulme had or claimed to have some vested family right in the "xxvi acres of land in Netheralport," with which the Chantry was ultimately endowed; but how he had become seized of the estate is doubtful, as it constituted part of the Warden's private property. The claim was, however, partly allowed, and an annual rent of vj^s viij^d made payable to him and his heirs from the lands, at the instigation of Sir Anthony Fitzherbert the celebrated lawyer, and Richard Hesketh Esq., also learned in the law. The Chantry was founded and the altar hallowed about the year 1507; the endowment from the land was C^s per annum, and a yearly obit was to be kept on the 11th November, being the day on which the munificent Warden died in the year 1458. Abstracts of the original deeds connected with this foundation are printed in Gastrell's Notitia Cestr. vol. ii. pt. i. pp. 59-62 notes, and the whole of them are of sufficient interest to merit printing in extenso. — (Lanc. MSS.) Ralph Hulme gent. ob. 15 Henry VIII. 1523, being succeeded by his son Stephen Hulme (mentioned on p. 12 ante), who was the father of Robert Hulme gent., living at the time of this inquisition. The family became extinct in the direct line in 1691, on the death of William Hulme Esq., founder of the Hulmean Exhibitions at Oxford. In 1535 the subsidy commissioners for the Deanery of Manchester assessed the "Cantaria ibidem, (in Eccles. Colleg.) ex fundatione Radulphi Hulme," x^s iiij^d for tenths, and ix^s iiij^d for the subsidy. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

² (Page 25.) This Chantry Priest occurs in Bishop Bird's Diocesan Visitation in 1547, and also during the Wardenship of Mr. Vaux in 1558 and 1559, as "Dn's Nich. Wousncrofte." — (Ex Archiv. Cur. Consist. Cest.) He was then an Incumbent within the Collegiate Church, and had doubtless been restored to his office by Queen Mary. He had a pension of 5*l.* a year for life assigned to him 2 Edward VI. (Found. of Manchester, vol. i. p. 389, append.), and was at that time "of the age of 60 years." — *E Libro B. Here about I passid over Medlok river and so within lesse than a mile to Manchestre."—(Itin. vol. v. p. 78.) This was before the Dissolution of the Chuntries, so that it is obvious the Derby family had possessed Alport Park independent of the Church. From his post mortem inquisition, however, taken in 1572-3, it appeared that Edward Earl of Derby purchased from Edward VI. "Over Alport, and three burgages in the Milnegate and Fennel street, in Manchestre, being late Chantry lands."—(Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) Chantrie of S. John
 Baptist

Thomas Johnson² preiste Incumbent there of the founda-da^on of James Stanley Bishopp of Elye to celebrate the^r for the sowle; of the saide Bishoppe and his ancestors.

¹ This Chantry, "in honour of our Lord Jesus Christ and of S. John the Baptist," was "in buildinge" at the death of James Stanley, Bishop of Ely, and some time Warden of Manchester, as appears by his will dated 20th March 1514-15, and proved May 23, 1515 (Testam. Vetusta, vol. ii. p. 535), and is here described as "the newe Chapelle." Although the Bishop made provision by his will for the building of "another Chapel at Manchester on the north side of the Church betwixt S. James's Chapel and the east end of the same Church," and gave "xx^{li}" a year for finding two Priests to sing in the said Chapel," it is not clear that his testamentary injunctions were immediately fulfilled, as on the xth March 18 Henry VIII. (1526) Sir John Stanley knight, his grandson, by deed of that date founded and endowed a perpetual obit and mass in the said Collegiate Church, to be celebrated by the Warden and Vicars there for the souls of James Bishop of Ely, Sir John Stanley, Dame Margaret his wife, and Ralph, William, Ellen, and Ann Stanley, together with a penny dole to be distributed every Good Friday in Lent, and xvii^{li} x^d to be distributed by Edmund Trafford Esq. and Sir Alexander Radclyffe knight, and their heirs and successors, to xx poor pensioners for ever, with certain fees to the Warden and Vicars for the time being. — Ex Archiv. Eccles. Colleg. de Manestr.

The founder was the youngest son of Thomas first Earl of Derby K.G., and was collated to a stall in St. Paul's Cathedral August 26, 1458, which he vacated in 1485, on becoming Warden of Manchester on the death of his uncle. He held this dignity until 1509. He had various church preferments of great value, for which he is supposed to have been indebted to his stepmother, Margaret Countess of Richmond and Derby. Thomas Baker (Soc. eject. Coll. S. Joh. Cantab.) says that this was the worst thing she ever did (Preface to Bishop Fisher's Funeral Sermon on her Death); but he seems to have forgotten that she always depressed the old adherents of the house of York, and influenced her son in the same direction, excluding them from all offices of trust and honour, which Lord Bacon says led to many vexations, and to some insurrections. In the MS. History of the Wardens (37 c. Coll. Arm. London) it is recorded that "at Manchester he built a most sumptuous Chappell on the north side of the Church, being xxviii yardes long and ix yardes broad, and a square Chappell on y^e north side of that again he built. He built the south side of the wood worke in the Quire; y^e seates for y^e Warden, Fellowes and Churchmen (Choristers), beinge xxx seates on booth sydes, and Mr. Richard Bexwicke that built Iesus Chappell builded tho^ther syde." This statement, which was made probably by Dr. Dee, as the MS. ends with his incumbency, refutes the account given of the supposed benefactor in the Foundations of Manchester, vol. ii. pp. 209 and 281.

On a brass plate over the door of the Chapel which the Bishop built was this inscription:

"Vanitas vanitatum et omnia vanitas."

On a brass on his tomb, with an effigy of a prelate in his episcopal robes, is this inscription at his feet:

"Of yo^r charite pray for the soule of James Stanley su^r tyme bushype of Ely and Warden of this Colege of Manchestur which decessed oute of this transitore world the xxii daye of March the yer of our Lord God M.CCCCXXV upon whos sowle and all cristian sowlls ihesu have mercy.

S' filii hom'i usq' quo gravi corde ut quid diligit' vanitatem et querit mundaciū

S' Utinam saperent et itelligerent ac novissima providerent."

Browne Willis gives the date M.CCCCXIV. — (b. ii. p. 357). The bishop died on the 22nd March 1514-15, so that the date on his brass is an error of the engraver. He wrote a singularly neat hand late in life. The seal which he used as Warden of Manchester (a good impression of which is appended to the foundation deed of St. George's Guild in the Collegiate Church) contained the figure of the Assumption of the B. V. Mary, with two small shields at the base, the first charged with the three bendlets enhanced of the Gresleys, and the second with the lion rampant of the De la Warrs. Superscription: "Sigillum Communis Collegii Beate Marie de Mamcestr," in old English characters.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Manchester assessed the "Cantaria ibidem ex fundatione nuper Episcopi Eliensis" for tenths viij^s and for the subsidy vij^s xi^d ob. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.)

member of his family, who might have known him personally, as the poem was written before 1562. After dwelling upon Thomas first Earl of Derby and his other children, the poet Bishop of Sodor and Man adds in his "Metrical Records of the House of Stanley":

 As manie, more pittie! sacred orders take
 For promotion rather than for Christe's sake
 And ofte, most long of frendes, the truth to tell
 It is a greate grace if such a one prove well
 Great abuse in presthood and matrimonie
 When fancie of frends shall chuse for y^e partie
 A goodlie tawll man as was in all England
 And sped well in matters that he took in hand
 King Henerie the VII a prynce noble and sage Made him Bysshoppe, for his wisdom and parentage
 Of Elie, manye a daie was hee Bysshoppe there
 Buylded Sommersame the Bysshoppes cheif mannere
 An grete vyander as anie in his daies
 To Bysshoppes that then was this is no dispraise
 Because he was a preiste I dare doe noe lesse
 But leave, as I know not of his hardinesse
 What preiste hath a blow on the one eare, sodainlie
 Turne the other lykewyse for humilitie?
 He wold not doe soe, by the crosse in my purse
 Yet I trust his soule fareth neuer the wurse
 For he did actes bouldlie divers in his daies
 If hee had been noe preiste had bene worthie praise
 He did ende hys life at merrie Manchester
 And ryght honorable lyes bvryed there
 In hys Chappell which hee began of free stone
 Syr John Stanley made it out when hee was gone
 God send hys soule to the heavenlie companie
 Farewell, godlie James! Bysshoppe of Elie."

The Chapel, now called the Derby Chapel, was admirably restored by the late Earl of Derby K.G., and is used for divine service. It possesses no architectural peculiarities or beauties except the simple and severe dignity of late perpendicular.

¹ In the 3 Edward VI. Edward Janny (see his Will, Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, pt. i. p. 157) and Richard Shalcross prosecuted Agnes Asheton and Lawrence Venables in the Court of the Duchy of Lancaster, for having forcibly entered and retained illegal possession of one tenement with its appurtenances, situate in Bollington and Lyme in the county of Chester, and late parcel of the new Chantry Chapel in Manchester. — (Cal. Plead. Duchy.) In the charter of 20 Elizabeth, 1578, Robert Janny is named as holding lands of the Collegiate Church of Manchester. — Charter eo anno.

² This chantry, on the south side of the church, dedicated to St. Nicholas, and still called "the Trafford Chapel," appears to have been attributed to the Gresleys, as founders, by oral transmission as no records have been discovered of its origin, although there is no evidence that Grelley's Chantry was situated between Smithy Door and Old Millgate. — (Found. of Manchester, vol. ii. p. 232.) A description of the old wainscotted "closet" and its canopied roof, prior to their removal, may be seen in the Foundations of Manchester, vol. ii. p. 268. Robert de Gresley, Lord of the Manor of Manchester and Patron of the Advowson of the Church, was living 2 Henry III. (1227), and ob. 12 Edward I. (1284), leaving by his wife Hawise (married 8 Edward I.), daughter and coheirss of John de Burgh Earl of Kent, Thomas Gresley, his heir, who was summoned to parliament as a baron, but who died unmarried 4 Edward II. 1311), when the inheritance passed with Joan his sister and heir, who married Sir John de la Warr, who became in her right baron of Manchester (ob. a^o 1342) and was ancestor of the Lords Delaware. — (Baines, vol. ii. pp. 172-7.) of this foundation is unknown, but the Chantry is obviously the oldest in the Collegiate Church. Hollinworth states that the Chantry of St. Nicholas was founded by Sir Thomas Booth knight, and conveyed by his son Thomas Booth Esq. to Sir John Trafford (Mancun. p. 54), both of them the heads of the most ancient and time-honoured houses in the county, and both of them celebrated for their patriotism and piety. Hollinworth's statement is not quite correct. Amongst the Trafford Evidences (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxv.) are various original documents connected with this Chantry. It appears from an English deed, dated on Tuesday next after the Feast of Pasche 6 Henry VI. (1428) that there had been debates and variances between Sir Edmund Trafford (the great Lancashire Alchemist) and his kinsman Thomas (afterwards Sir Thomas) Booth of Barton the elder, son of John Booth Esq. and of his wife Johanna, daughter of Henry Trafford of Trafford, and brother of William Booth, Archbishop of York; and that the contending parties had chosen as arbitrators Sir John de Pilkington, Sir John de Radclyf of Ordesale, Robert de Bothe, and Robert de Longley; who awarded that the said Thomas Booth should pay the said Sir Edmund Trafford xl^s at the Feast of St. Margaret next ensuing, for divers trespasses by him committed, — "And we award Sr Edmund Trafford to delyuer a dede of feoffmente of a certayne p^cell of londe in Bexwyk, wth y^e aduowson of a chauntrye the which y^e seid Sr Edmond has of the gyfte of y^e heyre of Bexwyk, in to y^e handes of Sr John Pilkington the s^d Sr John to kepe to y^e behove of y^e s^d Sr Edmond durynge [his life ?] yat y^e s^d Edmond or hys here hau oon p^sentement of y^e seid chaunter' yf yt fall in y^e lyf of y^e s^d Sr Edmond And yene aft^r yat he q^o hyse hav had oon p^sentemente or ellez deghe y^t yene y^e s^d Sir John shal delyu' y^e said dede to Thom' of the Bothe or his heyres Alsoe we the s^d awarde' ordeyne y^t y^e s^d Thoma' ne noon of hyse shal nez^r be agayne y^e s^d Sr Edmond ne noon of hyse of none mater yat towches y^e first p^rentment of y^e s^d chauntr' if hit fall in y^e lyfe of y^e s^d Sr Edmond and y^e parties to be friends." — (Ibid. p. 227.) Who the "heyre of Bexwyk" was does not appear, but the right to present to the Chantry had passed from the Gresleys and De la Warrs, and was in dispute between the Booths and Traffords.

The deed seen by Hollinworth is dated 12th January 39 Henry VI. (1461), whereby Thomas Booth Esq., son and heir of Sir Thomas Booth knt. deceased granted to Hugh del Scoles, Chaplain, one rood of his land in Bexwyk in the vill of Manchester, lying above the bank (super ripam) of the River Medlock, together with the Advowson of the Chantry of St. Nicholas in the Church of Blessed Mary of Manchester, to hold the said land and advowson with all advantages, to the said Hugh, his heirs and assigns for ever, without any condition saving the accustomed services to the Chief Lord of the fee, and the grant was attested by Sir Nicholas Longford knt., Alexander de Radclyff, John de Trafford, John de Gerard, and William de Radcliff Esquires.—(Lanc. MSS. vol. xiv. p. 91.) The conveyance to the Traffords is not amongst their Evidences; but we find from another source that the advowson was transferred with a parcel of land in Berwyk (Bexwick) by Hugh Scoles, Chaplain, to Sir John Trafford, by deed dated the last day of February 9 Edward IV. 1470, in the presence of Sir John Assheton, Sir Geoffrey Masey, Sir William de Bothe knts., John de Hulme, George de Hyde, and others.—(Ibid. p. 92; Hart. MS. cod. 2112; Lanc. MSS. vol. xiv. p. 32. And on the 20th March 8 (? 9) Edward IV. Sir John Trafford knt., Edmund his son, and “Hugh Scoles, Pryest of the Chauntree of Manchester,” demised two burgages in Manchester to James Chetham and Annes his wife, the garden belonging to one of the burgages being described as lying “betweene Edmond Berdesley’s Messuage and the lands of the sayd Chantrye,” to hold for iiij^{xx} (xvi yeres next ensuing, yielding to the said Hugh Scoles and his successors xv^s vj^d at four times of the year, and the Chethams to keep the same in repair.—(Ibid. p. 143.) On the 2nd May 1506, John Vesey LL.D., Archdeacon of Chester, instituted “Dom. Romald Hobson Capell.” to the perpetual Chantry of St. Nicholas in the Collegiate Church of B. Mary of Manchester, vacant by the death of Dom. Thomas Whitehead, and on the presentation of Sir Edmund Trafford knt., the true patron of the said Chantry.—(Ibid. p. 155.)

1506, May 2. Reginald Hobson instituted to the Chantry of St. Nicholas, Manchester, on the presentation of Edmund Trafford knt., vacant per mort. ult. Incumb.—Ex. Cart. Reg. Lichf.

1508, May 13. Mr. Henry Ryle to the Chantry of St. Nicholas in Manchester, vacant by the death of Reginald Hodgeson (sic) on the presentation of Edm. Trafford knt.—Ibid.

1514, April 2. Charles Gee cler. to the Chantry of St. Nicholas in Manchester, vacant by the resignation of Henry Ryle on the presentation of Edmund Trafford.—Ibid.

1542, May 31. Henry Ryle to the perpetual Chantry at the Altar of St. Nicholas in the Collegiate Church of Manchester, vacant by the resignation of Charles Gee, the last Cantarist or Incumbent there, on the presentation of Edmund Trafford of Trafford Esq.—Ibid.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Manchester assessed the “Cantaria ex fundatione Rob’ti Grielly—tenths ix^s iiij^d; subs. viij^s vj^d.”—Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

The Chapel has long been and is still used as the burial place of the Trafford family, but will probably cease to be such, owing to a recent act of the legislature.

first half of the 16th century. He was a native of Cheshire, and probably son of Henry Ryle of Styall, a branch of the old family of Ryle of Ryle or Ryll in Stockport parish. There formerly existed in painted glass in the fourth and fifth windows of the south aisle of Wilmslow Church, called Ryle's Chancel, "a man in a murrey gowne kneeling before a deske, and the inscription, 'Orate p' a'i'a Thome Ryle qui istam fenestram fieri fecit anno D'ni m^occcc^oxxv^o.'" In the east window also was the following inscription: "Orate p' bono statu Henrici Ryle de Styall, Margarete et Isabelle uxorum suorum, et puerorum suorum qui quidem Henricus hanc capellam una cum hac fenestra fieri fecit a^o m^occcc^oxxiii^o."— (Harl. MSS. 2151, 62; Ormerod's Chesh. vol. iii. p. 313, note.) "Harry Ryle," as he is described by Edward the Sixth's Chantry Commissioners, was born about the year 1484, being of the age of 64 a^o 2 Edward VI. His family had probably been retainers or agents of the Traffords for their estates in Wilmslow. On the 13th May 1508, being a young secular priest and patronized by the Traffords, he became Cantarist of St. Nicholas's Chantry, which he resigned in 1514. He was styled "Henry Ryle, bachelor of decrees, chaplain" (capellanus), 17th November 18 Henry VIII. and may have been one of the Vicars of the parish of Manchester. He became Rector of Wilmslow about 1537 on the death of Henry Trafford D.D., and resigned the living in 1542 to another Henry Trafford. — (Ormerod's Chesh. vol. iii. p. 311.) On the 31st May 1542, being still a Chaplain in Manchester, he was reappointed Incumbent of St. Nicholas's Chantry on the nomination of Edmund Trafford of Trafford Esq. Of this latter office he was deprived by Edward VI. His name does not occur amongst the clergy of the College or of the Parish Church in 1547 (2 Edward VI.), but he received at that time the annual income of this chantry, which amounted to 5*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*, and had also another living of the annual value of 7*l.* For the loss of his chantry incumbency he had a pension of 5*l.* a year assigned him by the Crown during his life. Dr. Hibbert-Ware erroneously calls him William Riley. (vol. iii. p. 389). Queen Mary restored him to his lost office in 1553 and he answered Bishop Bird's Visitation "Call" as a Chantry Priest in 1557. In the following year his name appears in the same Bishop's "Return of the Clergy of the Deanery of Manchester." In 1559 he was again deprived by Queen Elizabeth, and being now an aged man the impressions made upon his mind in early life had become indelible, so that to him Bradford's sound theology, unanswerable arguments, and martyr's death were alike powerless. At one time (1551) he occurs as a "procurator" or agent of Edmund Trafford, and was probably held in good estimation by him, although that somewhat versatile individual had embraced and abandoned both the Reformed and Roman Catholic creed, or more likely, to use a phrase of Anthony à Wood, was "a sider with all times and changes." It does not appear how he was related to Heury Rilc of ¹ The ancient Chantry of the Blessed Virgin Mary in the Trafford Chapel is stated to have been founded by the Traffords of Trafford, and a long succession of deeds relating to it exist amongst their Evidences, extending from 23 Edward III. to 24 Henry VIII. It does not, however, appear from these records that the Traffords were the founders, nor do they occur except as feoffees in connection with it. It is, however, possible that Adam le Tinctor and Richard del Hull may themselves have been merely feoffees for an early benefactor whose name has not been preserved. 23 Edward III. A^o d'ni 1349-50, on Thursday next after the feast of St. Nicholas, the Bishop, at Mamcestr', Richard son of Henry Doterynde of Mamcestr' gives and grants to William de Chorlton, Richard son of Robert, Roger de Chorlton, William son of John, and Richard del Hull a certain burgage in Mamcestr', which he had of the gift of Adam son of Robert le Tinctor (the Dyer), lying in the Middelgate, near Todelane. Witnessed by Thomas Buldre, Richard le Mareschall, Richard son of Hugh, John son of Adam, and Richard Pynchenegh. Seal of green wax, the shield charged with a cross engrailed. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxv. p. 123.

At Mamcestr' on Sunday next before the feast of the purification of the B. V. M. 19 Richard II. (1396) John del Scoles, Chaplain, granted to John de Radclyffe of Chaderton, Richard del Hull, John Rudd, John del Slade, Thomas le fysshier de Mamcestr', Hugh de Chetham, Roger le Roper, and Thomas de Bolton of Salford, three burgages which he had of the gift and feoffment of the said Richard del Hull, lying and being in the vill of Mamcestr', as plainly appears by the charter of the said Richard. To hold by the accustomed services due to the chief lord of the fee; and attested by Sir Richard de Radclyff, John de Hulme, William de Holand, Ralph de Prestwych, William Bulder, and others. — (Ibid. p. 119.) And on Monday in the festival of All Saints, 19 Richard II. Richard del Hull appointed John de Radclyffe of Chaderton to deliver seizin to Dom. John del Scoles, Chaplain, of these three burgages in Manchester, two of which were situate in le Denesgate opposite the Rectory house there, and the other in the Middelgate juxta Todelane. Indorsed "3 burg. in Mamcestr', Chantry B. V. M." — (Ibid. p. 120.) On Sunday next after the feast of All Saints, 3 Henry V. (1416) John del Scoles, Chaplain, conveys to Ralph de Prestwych senior, Ralph de Prestwych his son, Henry de Buckley, Nicholas de Pilyngton, Tho. de Oulgreue, John del Slade, Hugh del Slade his son, and William de

And at Mamcestr' on Thursday next after the feast of the purification of the B. V. M. 4 Henry V. (1417) Ralph de Prestwych senior and junior, Henry de Bucley, and the feoffees named in the last abstracted deed, demise to Elias, son of John de Bolton, part of a certain burgage in the Midulgate on the west side of Todelane, which they lately had of the feoffment of John del Scoles, Chaplain, meted und bounded anew, paying 8s. a year for all demands at the feasts of the Nativity of our Lord and of S. John the Baptist, and if the rent is not paid all the goods and chattels found on the premises to be distrained until the rent and arrears are paid; witnessed by Sir John de Byron knt., Sir John de Radcliff knt., Edmund de Trafford, John del Bothe senior, Thurstan de Holand, Thurstan de Holand his son, Edmund de Prestwich, James de Prestwich, Laurence de Hulme, and others. — (Ibid. p. 126.) Indorsed "Myngate in Mamcestr'; rent viij^s, not payable to Mr. Trafforth."

14th 9 Henry VI. (1431), Ralph de Prestwych, Thomas de Oulgreve, Nicholas le ffysher, John del Slade, Hugh del Slade, and William de Newton delivered and demised to John de Redych, Chaplain, three burgages in Manchester, which they lately had of the gift of Prestwych, Henry de Bucley, Nicholas de Pilkynnton, and Thomas de Myngate, now deceased, of which, two are situate in the Denesgate opposite the Rectory house there, and the other in the Middelgate; attested by Laurence de Hulme, Robert de Workesley, William de Heghfeld and others. And on the 18th February 9 Henry VI. the same John de Redich, Chaplain, enfeoffed Sir Edmund de Trafford knt., Ralph de Prestwych, James de Prestwych, John Wrightington, Edmund de Worsley, John de Chetham, John de Bamford, Thomas de Oulgreve, Nicholas le ffysher of Mamcestr', John le flesshewer of Manchester, Thomas le fero^r Richard Traves, William de Newton, Johu del Slade, and Hugh del Slade, with the premises described as before; witnessed by Laurence de Hulme, Peter Workesley, Robert Rudd, and others. — Ibid. pp. 132-3.

7th August, 10 Edward IV. (1471), Robert le Bolsha, Chaplain, granted to Sir John de Trafford knt., Edmund de Trafford Esq., Elias de Prestwyche Esq., Richard Tetlow, Richard Bexwyke the elder, Nicholas Pilkynnton, Thomas ferrur, and William Gaylay, their heirs and assigns, three burgages in Manchester which they lately had of the gift and grant of the said Sir John Trafford, Thomas de Prestwych Esq., John fleshewer, Thomas ferrur senior, Richard Traves, Henry de Trafford, Richard le Fishur, Christopher Bexwyke, Nicholas Pilkynnton, Richard Tetlawe, Henry Hamson, and John Bamford, of which, two are situate in the Denesgate opposite the Rectory house there, and the other in the Middelgate near Todelane;

On the 20th October, 14 Henry VII. (1498), Edmund Trafford knt., Elias Prestwich Esq., Richard Bexwicke senior, and William Galey demised and delivered to James Smyth, Chaplain of the Chantry of B. V. M. in Manchester, three burgages in Manchester, before described, which they lately had of the gift and feoffment of Robert Balshaw, Chaplain, now deceased, along with Sir John Trafford knt., Robert Tettlawe, Nichol Pylkynton, and Thomas fferor; tested by Henry Trafford and Roger Lever Esqrs., Robert Chetham, John Chorleton, Thomas Pylkynton, and others. And on the 24th October, 14 Henry VII. the same James Smyth, Chaplain, granted the same burgages and all the lands and tenements, rents and services in Manchester, belonging to the service of the Blessed Virgin Mary, to Edmund Trafford knt., Edmund Trafford Esq., Ellis Prestwyche Esq., Richard Bexwick senior, William Galey, Richard Pilkynnton, Thomas Tettlaw, James Radclyffe and Richard Hunt, their heirs and assigns; witnessed by Thomas Strangwas Esq., Richard Hulme, and Edmund Bardsley gentlemen. And on the 6th October, 18 Henry VII. the same James Smyth, Chaplain, Sir Edmund Trafford and his son Edmund, Richard Bexwyk sen., Richard Pilkynnton of Salford, James Radclyff, and Richard Hunt of Manchester, demised to Hugh Whitworth of Manchester, butcher, his heirs and assigns, a tenement and parcel of land in the Denesgate juxta le Saint Mary's gate (the boundaries described) for the term of 99 years, at an annual rent of 15s., payable to the Priest of the Chantry of the B. V. M. And on 20th December, 22 Henry VII. Sir Edmund Trafford knt. and Edmund his son and heir apparent, James Smyth, Chaplain, in the service of Blessed Mary in the Collegiate Church of Manchester, Richard Bexwycke the elder, James Radcliff, Nichol Hunt, Richard Pilkynnton, and William Galey, leased some of the Chantry premises to Thomas Bamford, at an annual rent of 12s. There is an indorsement on the last abstracted deed that "the 12s. is not collected as the land and burgages are not knowne." — Ibid. pp. 153-5.

On the 1st September, 17 Henry VIII. (1525), James Smyth, Chaplain, Edmund Trafford Esq. and Edmund his son and heir apparent, demised to Thomas Baguley and Jane his wife a tenement and garden in the Daynysgate (described) for 99 years, at an annual rent of 5s. Indorsed "Hunt's house in Deynesgate." On the 6th January, 24 Henry VIII. John Deconson, Chaplain, enfeofed Edmund Trafford Esq., Edmund Trafford his son and heir apparent, Robert Leigh, Ralph Trafford of Garratt, Tho. Holland of Clifton, Esq^{res}, and Edward Holt gent., of all the premises before described, "belonging to the service of Blessed Mary in Manchester." Indorsed, "Burgages in Denesgate and Milngate." — Ibid. p. 157.

described in the text (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.); and in a list of names of the clergy of the same deanery, made about the year 1533, the same Priest is found amongst the Incumbents of the Collegiate Church as "D'n's Will'mus Asheton, conduct' pro magist' Holand." Mr. Holland of Denton, as a Churchwarden of Manchester, had probably engaged to supply the fund in aid of the stipend which, according to the text, had been inadequately provided by the founder. It was usual about this time for the parishioners to give to the ill-endowed Curates and Parish-Clerks "bowls of corn" in the harvest in augmentation of their "wages;" and we here find that oats, as the common grain of the county, and the ordinary food of the poor, were given; from which it might seem that whilst the free-will offerings [oblationes] of the parishioners were inadequate for the maintenance of the poor clergy, no tax was assessed upon the laity, but that they voluntarily contributed oats, which perhaps proves, at least in this instance, that the yeomanly-gentleman was quite as liberal as the old feudal founder. That William Asheton did not officiate at Denton is evident from "Sir Roger Ward, Chaplain of Denton," occurring in the same clerical roll, and from his stipend being paid "by Richard Rawlinson (Warden) and others." — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) Asheton was removed or dead in 1548, and "William Trafford, aged 40 years," was "the Ladie Priest of Manchester."

It opened from the aisle of the nave by a single arch, below which was a finely carved oak screen. It was appropriated to the use of the parishioners in 1815. Robert Chetham gent. was apparently the second son of Edward Chetham of Crumpsall (who ob. 1505), and grandson of Thomas Chetham of Nuthurst gent.—(Lanc. MSS. vol. xix. p. 100, Hart. MS. 1549. fol. 21. 6159. fol. 29, compared with Whatton's History of Chetham Hospital and Library, p. 127.) The precise date of the erection of the Chapel has not been discovered.

By indenture dated 23rd April, 15 Henry VIII., made between Sir Alexander Radclyffe of Ordesale knt. first part, and Richard Hunt the elder of Manchester, merchant, feoffee of certain messuages and lands of Robert Chetham, late of Manchester gent. deceased, second part; witnesses that the said Chetham, by deed dated 24th September, 17 Henry VII. 1501, enfeoffed Mr. James Stanley, Archdeacon of Richmond and late Bishop of Ely, William Bradford, Priest, Richard Beswick senior and Richard Beswick junior, James Radclyffe, Richard Hunt, and Adam Holland, merchants, of all his messuages, lands, tenements, burgages, rents and services in Manchester, to hold in trust for ever to fulfil the last will of the said Chetham. And further reciting a deed dated 1st October, 17 Henry VII. 1501, whereby the said Robert Chetham gave to Mr. James Stanley, Archdeacon of Richmond and Warden of Manchester, and the six other trustees last named, the said lands, &c., to fulfil the last will of the said Chetham "without fraud or gyle;" and that they should (as he expressed it) "make an Estaitte to mee and Isabel my now wyffe and the heys of my bodye laghfully begotten and in default the reversion of the fee shall bee to the sayd Mayster James Stanley and the other six feoffees my frends to procure yf I dye without issew a suf-

And when the feoffes are reduced to two they shall elect four other honest persons of the town of Manchester so that the Warden of the said Colledge and one of the Vicars shallbe always feoffees. And reciting further that all the trustees so seized were dead, except Master Rycharde Hunt, who alone survived and was seized of the premises in fee; and by Indenture dated 28 April 15 Henry VIII. by the name of Richard Hunt the elder enfeoffed Sir Alex. Radclyffe knt. Richard Hunt the younger Richard Galey John Holland of Manchester Adam Byrom of Salford and Sir John Bexwicke the elder Priest one of the Vicars of the said Colledge to hold for ever in Trust the said lands &c. to the uses of said Chetham's Will. And the Indenture then witnessed that for the finding of a Priest for ever to do and minister divine service in a Chapel of St. George, founded in the body of the said Collegiate Church according to the intent and mind of the said Robert Chetham, it was agreed at the special instance and request of the said Isabel late wife of the said Robert and by divers others of the more honest persons of the parish of Manchester in manner folowing 1st that the said Richard Hunt being seized of the said premises covenanted with S^r Alexander Radclyffe that before Pentecost he would enfeoff the said S^r Alexander of the lands to the end that he should provide and kepe one convenient Priest as the said Sir Alexander and his heirs shall nominate and appoint to say Masse at 6 of the clock in the morning in the said Collegiate Church of Manchester for the souls of the said Robert and Isabel according to the will of the said Robert 2^{ly} It is agreed that no other Priest shall have any styPend salary or wage or be found of the rents or issues of the said lands but only such a Priest as the sayd Sir Alexander and his heirs shall from time to time appoynt 3^{ly} And the sayd Sir Alexander and his heysr within xx daies next after any such Priest dye or depart from the sayd service shall name another priest of honest conversation to do the sayd divine service. And S^r Alexander &c. not to lease the said premises for more than xii years and the rents to be received by James Shalercross and Henry Gee to be paid to the said Priest for the time being for his salary according to the Will of the said Rob. Chetham And when the feoffees are reduced to three, more are to be nominated by the said S^r Alexander and his heirs that the priest may not be deprived of his wages. The following Will contains so much exact information regarding this foundation and so vivid a description of the religious habits and disposition of the founder's wife, that I am tempted to print it in extenso from the original. There is no date of probate, but the Inventory was taken on the 20th August, 1523, being the day on which the testatrix died :

Edward Smyth preist incumbent¹ theŕ of the foundaçon of the said Robert Chetham² to celebrate theŕ for the sowlez of the said Roberte and his ancestors.

² The second Chantry at the altar of Saint George is erroneously attributed by the Commissioners to Robert Chetham. It was not unusual for various individuals to found several Chantries at the same altar, and there were distinct foundations in St. George's Chapel.

I. There was Robert Chetham's Chantry.

II. There was William Galey's. The fabric of the Chapel was certainly erected, in the first instance, by him, and there seems to be no doubt that an altar within it was dedicated and hallowed, but there had probably been no legal foundation settled. An exile institution like this would, therefore, have no attraction for the King's Commissioners, and they omitted noticing it. About 1650, a monument remained in the Chapel which recorded that the fabric was "bilded by Wiliam Galey, sumtime marchaunt of Manchester, and Elizabeth his wyfe, and Nicholas his broder and executor, on thys theirē costes." — (Hollinworth's Mancun. p. 54.) And this statement is corroborated by a deed, dated 16 May, 18 Henry VII., 1503, executed by Galey at that time, wherein he says: "Knaue all men by these presents that I, William Galeye of Manchester, Marchaunt, have given, granted and conveyed, to Syr Alex. Radclyff of Ordesall knt., Robert Clyff, bachelor in both lawes, official of John (Vesey) Archdeacon of Chester, Henry Sydall and William Bradford, Chaplains, Seth Galeye, Richard Galeye, Richard Bexwyke junior, Nicholas Galeye and Thomas Beke, Marchaunts, all that burgage and tenemente, with its appurtenances, lying in the Marketstyde-lone, in Manchester, now or late in the tenure of Robert Chetham or his assignes, to have" &c. — the uses being "to the fynding and kepeynge of such a convenyent p'iste as the s^d Alexander &c. and theirē heires shall think meet, to doe and mynyster dyvine s'vice in the College Church of our Lady of Manchester in a fit place new buyldit for the welfare of the sawles of the saide William Galeye, Elsabeth his wyff, and Nycol his broder, whilst on lyfe, and after theirē death to pray for theirē sawles, and for the sawles of theirē faders and moders, and benefactors, and all Christian sawles for ever, and to such other uses and intentes as in a dede indented 3^{tite} is expressed and may appeare." — Lanc. MSS., vol. xxiv. p. 400.

III. There was also the Chantry belonging to the Guild of St. George, and which is referred to in Mrs. Isabel Chetham's Will (see p. 42, note). It appears that her father, Richard Tetlawe, whose career had been prosperous and progressive as a mercantile man, and Richard Massey, had bequeathed legacies towards purchasing lands for the sustentation of St. George's Guild in the Collegiate Church, which sums of money in 1523, were in the hands of Richard Hunt and John Holland; and in order to accomplish their object Mrs. Chetham also bequeathed as much money as would enable her father's trustees to buy lands of the yearly value of vij marks for the support of a Priest to be appointed "to the other said service" in St. George's Chapel, and she also gave "a Chalice with other Communion Plate to Sir Hugh Marler, Priest" (of her husband's Chantry), "and to the other Priest who should happen to be in the Chantry with him."

That the lands were purchased is beyond dispute, as on the 4 May, 3 Edward VI., Roger Gartside of Rochdale conveyed to James son of John Stott of Wardle in Rochdale Yeoman (inter alia) two messuages and lands lying in Spotland in the occupation of John Glegge alias Clegge and Elyn Glegge alias Clegge, which he had purchased of William Eccleston of Eccleston Gent. and Anthony Layton of Chyngul Hall in the County of Lancaster Gent., and late belonging to the dissolved Chantry of St. George within the Church of Manchester and conveyed to them (Eccleston and Layton) by the King, in right of his Duchy of Lancaster. Consideration for these and two other messuages "fourscore and twelve pounds." — Lanc. MSS. vol. vi. p. 203.

The Chantry at Jesus Altar.¹

Universis sanote matris ecclesie filii presentes literas visuris, nos James Stanleze, Master or Custos of the Collegiate Church of Manchester in the Diocese of Coventry and Lichfield and also Sir John Bamford William Bradford James Lordyng Richard Massy Ralph Mody Henry Sydall and John Bexwyk, Presbyters and likewise perpetual Fellows Rectors and owners (propriarii) of the said Church health everlasting in the Lord — When lately a certain Chapel was most commendably built and founded on the south side of our said Collegiate Church to the praise of God and to the honour of our Saviour and of his name JESUS by Richard Bexwyk, the younger, Richard Bexwyk, the elder, Adam Holland, James Radeliff, Richard Hunt, and William Galeye, Masters, Wardens, or Yeomen of the Guild of Saint Saviour, and of the name of JESUS — They wishing and earnestly desiring to have in the said Chapel, divine obsequies and service, to the praise of God, and in honour of the Saviour, and the name of JESUS, and also that divine worship might be increased and augmented — It is hereby agreed by and amongst us, after due reflection and deliberation, and we consent and assent for ourselves and our successors for ever, as far as we can, and by this present Licence give and grant to Dom. Oliver Thorneleze, now Chaplain of the said Chapel, and to the future Chaplains of the said Guild, and also to Richard Bexwyk the younger, Richard Bexwyk the elder, &c., Masters or Yeomen of the said Guild, for the time being, and their successors, that they shall have and receive all and all manner of oblations, obventions, and emoluments of every kind, which shall be offered and made to the Image of the Saviour, in the said Chapel, after the date of these presents, for ever, according to a special form and promise made in an agreement between us, the said Master and Fellows, and the Chaplain, and Wardens or Yeomen of the said Guild, dated anno Domini 1506, is more fully contained and expressed. Lord.—(Lanc. MSS.) The seal still remains appended to the deed in my possession, and the impression is very fine. — See p. 29, note, ante.

1 Dec. 1509. An Indenture was made between Robert Clyff bachelor in decrees, Master or Warden of the College of B. M. of Manchester and the Fellows of the said College, of the first part, John Abbot of the Monastery of B. M. of Whalley, of the second part, and Sir Edmund Trafford of Trafford Knt. of the third part, — which recited that Richard Bexwyke the younger of Manchester lately did many pious and charitable works for the said Warden and his Fellows, which ought to be had in everlasting remembrance, to the honour of God and in praise of the glorious Virgin Mary, in the choir as well as in the nave, which he honourably restored, repaired and beautified in a reverent and admirable manner at his own costs. And adding good works to good works after the Catholic usage at his own great charge and expence laudably constructed, erected, built and founded a certain Chapel and Chantry on the south side of the said College to the glory of God and in honour of his most sweet name JESUS and for the increase of divine worship there (by and with the full consent and permission of the Rev. Father in Christ Dom. Geoffrey Blith Bishop of the Diocese of Lichfield), and for the health of his soul and of the souls of his parents, friends, benefactors, and of all the faithful departed, for one, two, three, or four Chaplains in the said Chapel or Collegiate Church aforesaid, either to celebrate and keep half of the choir, or in the choir, when there shall be an interval there, to celebrate early morning mass, vespers, complin, and other canonical hours, and all of them in the same to chant, read and officiate, according to the ordinal and office, or according as other Conducts, Priests and Fellows of the aforesaid College do, and are accustomed to do, as appears and is more fully expressed in the last will of the said Richard. The Abbot and Convent of Whalley, and Sir Edmund Trafford and his heirs are empowered to appoint from time to time the Chantry Priests and to provide wine, bread, wax, books, chalices, ecclesiastical vestments and ornaments for the celebration of mass and other divine services, but at the costs and charges of the Warden and Fellows and their successors for ever. And the Priests from time to time appointed shall have the right to sit at table at dinner and supper, or at any other time, with the Fellows of the said College, and shall have access to the fire and the use of the house of office (ad cloacam) in the same manner as the Fellows of the said College have, and also all other liberties, commodities and easements whatsoever belonging to the said

College or Collegiate Church, with free ingress and egress as the Fellows of the same, or any of them, either have or ought to have, the stipend or salary payable to them (the Fellows) for their service in the choir of the said Church only excepted. All which expences shall be paid to them the said Chaplains and to every of them, according to the ordination and will of the said Richard Bexwyke, in all future time, even for ever. The Warden and Fellows bound themselves in 50*l.* to the Abbot and Convent of Whalley to fulfil and execute Bexwyke's ordination. Dated 6 November 1 Henry VIII. — Ex cart. Reg. Lichf.

It is to be regretted that the will of this munificent individual has not been discovered, as he has had scant justice done to his memory, and has not hitherto been even identified. He is called by the Chantry Commissioners "Alexander Bessike," and by the historians of Manchester "Richard Beck" (vol. i. p. 390, App.; vol. ii. p. 281). That he had endowed his Chantry, the Guild and the College of Manchester with ample lands and other hereditaments is evident from the conveyance by deed of sale of the various possessions belonging to his various charitable foundations, dated 2 September 6 Edward VI., and printed in Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. pt. ii. p. 65, note 3. Jesus Chapel was not sold at that time, but passed to Isabel, his sole daughter and heiress, who married Thomas Beck, merchant, and was herself one of the public benefactors of Manchester. "Robert Prestwich Priest of Byssyke's Chantry had a pension of 4*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*" in 1553. — Browne Willis's Hist. of Mitred Abb. vol. ii. p. 107, 8vo, 1719.

20 Aug. 1653. Henry Pendleton of Manchester Gent., Edward Johnson mercer, and James Lancashire clothier, both of the same, conveyed, by deed of this date, "for good considerations," to Edward Mosley of Hough Bart., Alexander Radcliffe of Ordsall of the honorable order of the Bath, Knight, Thomas Prestwich of Holme Esq., Richard Heyrick of Manchester clerk, Richard Holland of Denton Esq., Humphrey Chetham of Clayton Esq., Alexander Barlow of Barlow Esq., Richard Haworth of Manchester Esq., Robert Hyde of Denton Esq., Thomas Birch of Birch Esq., John Prestwich B.D. one of the Fellows of All Souls' College, Oxford, clerk, Richard Hollinworth of Manchester clerk, John Hartley of Strangeways Esq., Richard Radcliffe of Manchester Esq., Nicholas Mosley of Ancoats Esq., John Lightbowne of Manchester Esq., Robert Booth of Gray's Inn Esq., and Samuel Birch of Ardwick Esq., all that Chapel called Jesus Chapel, reciting that the said John Prestwich had given several Books to the Inhabitants of Manchester, to be placed within some convenient place within the said Town for a Library for the use and benefit of the said town, and further stating that the said Chapel was thought a fit place for the said Books or any other Books that might be given for the use aforesaid; but that the Chapel at that time was in great ruin and decay, the roof thereof being fallen, and requiring great sums of money for its reparation, and the inheritance of the Chapel being vested in Pendleton, Johnson and Lancashire, or some of them, they were desirous to further the said good work (the same Chapel being situate between the Trafford Chapel on the west side and the Chapter House on the east part), and therefore conveyed the fee to the said parishioners on the condition of their paying a peppercorn yearly to them the said Pendleton, Johnson and Lancashire, and their heirs for ever. Evan Clark and Samuel Hollinworth were appointed to give seisin. And it appears by an indorsement on the deed of conveyance that on the 18 May 1655 they conjointly delivered seisin of the premises to Mr. Richard Hollinworth clerk, for himself and his co-trustees, in the presence of Robert Hyde, William Meeke, Robert Seddon, John Hindle, and Nathan Leech. — Ibid.

20 Sep. 1681. Robert Hyde of Denton Esq., the only surviving trustee under the last abstracted Deed of Conveyance in pursuance of the trust reposed in him conveyed Jesus Chapel and the Library therein to Nicholas Stratford D.D. Warden of Manchester, Edward Mosley of Hulme Esq., Oswald Mosley of Ancoats Esq., James Lightbowne Esq., John Hartley of Strangeways Esq., Robert Hyde of Hyde Bank co. Chester Esq. son and heir apparent of the said Robert Hyde Esq., Francis Mosley clerk, one of the Fellows of the Collegiate Church of Manchester, John Birch of Ordsall Gent., Richard Fox Gent., Samuel Dickanson Gent., John Alexander Gent., John Higham Gent., Robert Illingworth Gent., William Byrom Gent., John Sandiforth Gent., Samuel Harmer Gent., and John Ouldfield Gent., all of Manchester, in trust.

4 Sept. 1705. Nicholas, Lord Bishop of Chester, late Warden of Manchester, Oswald Mosley of Ancoats Esq., Edward Booth of Manchester Gent., John Sandiforth and John Oldfield of the same Gentⁿ, the trustees named in the last abstracted deed, convey Jesus Chapel &c. to the Rev. Richard Wroe D.D. Warden of Manchester, Ralph Hartley of Strangeways Esq., Oswald Mosley of Rolleston Esq., George Pigot Gent., Robert Alexander Gent., Edward Byrom Gent., Edward Scott Gent., Joseph Byrom Gent., Samuel Cloughs [Clowes] Gent., Joseph Walker Gent., John Moss Gent., Gamaliel Lloyd Gent., Richard Butler Gent., and William Hunter Gent., all of Manchester, in trust.

8 March 1749. Sir Oswald Mosley Bart., William Hunter and Richard Butler both of Manchester Gent., the surviving trustees, conveyed Jesus Chapel &c. to Oswald Mosley the younger Esq., Francis Reynolds of Strangeways Esq., George Lloyd of Alkington Esq., Thomas Pigot, Edward Greaves and John Bradshaw, 26 Dec. 1804. Samuel Clowes of Broughton Hall co. Lanc., but then of Warmesworth Hall in the county of York, Esq., grandson and heir at law of Samuel Clowes, the last surviving trustee in the deed of 1749, conveyed Jesus Chapel &c. to John Coupe of Broughton Esq., and he reconveyed the same to Sir Oswald Mosley of Rolleston Bart., the Right Hon. the Lord Ducie of Strangeways, Henry Atherton of Lincoln's Inn Esq., John Bradshaw of Darcy Lever Esq., Edward Greaves of Culcheth Esq., John Dickanson of Leighton Buzzard Esq., in trust. — Kersall Cell Evid.

It is recorded in the Rev. John Greswell's MS. History of Manchester that "there are trustees to look after the repair of Jesus Chapel by money raised by people burying there, and the remainder goes to the poor" (p. 79). It will be observed that the writer of the "ancient MS." quoted by Mr. Greswell is not accurate in some of his statements. The Library has long been dispersed, and from having been the burial place of the Byrom family for more than two centuries, Jesus Chapel is now commonly called the Byrom Chapel.

¹ (Page 49.) This Chantry, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, was founded by William Radcliffe of Ordsall Esq., the head of a high chivalrous house, for centuries popular both with the priests and people of Lancashire, he being the lineal descendant of Sir John Radcliffe Knt. M.P. for the shire, the first of his name of Ordsall, who attended Edward III. in his wars in France and accompanied him to the siege of Calais in noble array with an expensive retinue, consisting of two knights, twelve esquires and fourteen archers, which indicates the high rank he held in the English army. This great soldier married Joan, daughter of Sir Robert de Holland of Holland in the county of Lancaster (by Maud his wife, second daughter and coheir of Alan lord Le Zouch) and sister of Sir Thomas Holland earl of Kent, one of the founders of the Most Noble Order of the Garter. She was the widow of Sir Hugh Dutton of Dutton, steward of Halton, and married for her third husband Edmund Talbot of Bashall in the county of York Esq. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xiii. p. 194; Harl. MS. 1549, fol. 93 b.; Nicolas's Siege of Carlaverock, 4to, p. 287.) On the xii Kal. of April 1360 he had a Licence granted to him by the Bishop of Lichfield to have divine service solemnized by a fit priest within his Oratory or Chapel at Ordshall, for two years. — (Reg. Stretton Lichf. vol. v.) And yet he is said to have died 32 Edward III. — MS. Pedigree by W. Radcliffe, Rouge Croix.

His descendant William Radcliffe Esq. married Jane, daughter of Sir Edmund Trafford of Trafford Knt., and died in the commission of the peace on the 5th May 1498 A^o xiii Henry VII.; and as he seems to have preserved the royal favour as well as his estates, he was probably a prudent and loyal man, and had not engaged in the political disputes of his age. His Chantry, founded a little before his death, was situated at the west end of the north aisle of Manchester Collegiate Church, and contained a very richly painted window, emblazoned with our Blessed Lord's arraignment and crucifixion, "His blood," to use the words of Michelet the delightful historian of France, "being recognized in the gloomy purple of the window." There were also some other symbols or representations of the mystery of the Holy Trinity, and the following lines :

"God that ys of mighte y^e most ffadur and Son and Holy Gost
Gyff gr[ace to them to do well]
And keepe thayr soulis out of hell
That made thys wȳdow as ye may se
In worshippe of the Trenitie
Jhū [Lord, send them] gode endynge
[That to] ys wyndo gaff any thyngē."

Hollinworth records that "in the corner under this window its probable there stood an altar, and that it was a place of much devotion; it is said it was for the country."—(Mancun. p. 47.) It need scarcely be observed that every Chantry Chapel had its consecrated altar, which was generally fixed under a window, with a piscina or lavatory adjoining. This altar seems to have been a favourite place of resort for devotional purposes to individuals who came from the remote parts of the parish, and might have been partly intended by the founder for their use. There is no ground for supposing that it was dedicated either to St. George or to St. Michael (Dr. Hibbert-Ware's Hist. Coll. Ch. vol. iii. p. 53), and it is clearly not the Chantry founded by the Galeys.—(Ibid. p. 53.) On the 15 May 14 Hen. VII. (1499), Elizabeth, relict of John Radcliffe of Ordsall Esq. deceased, gave to the Chaplain "celebratinge att Trenitie Altar wthin the Church of B. M. of Manchester one mase boke covyrd with a cover and claspud j crowett of sylver with the letters I. This benefactress was the daughter of Sir William Brereton of the county of Chester Knt., and survived her father-in-law William Radcliffe Esq. the founder of the Chantry, and also her husband his eldest son, by whom she was the mother of two daughters and of one son, afterwards Sir Alexander Radcliffe the heir of his grandfather and sheriff of the county in 1546-7.—*Lanc. ¹ This Chantry was founded in the ancient Chapel of Stretford, which had probably been originally an Oratory or domestic Chapel and an appendage to the house of Trafford; but we have no precise information of the period of its erection. It was certainly in existence in the year 1413, as a messuage and parcel of land, granted by Henry de Trafford Esq. and Edmund his brother to Robert Pendliton on the day next before the Purification of the B. V. M. in the 14 of Henry IV., are described in the lease as being bounded on the eastern part by lands "juxta capellam de Stretford."—Trafford Evid. Lanc. MSS. vol. xxv. p. 149.

The founder of the Chantry within this Chapel was Sir Edmund de Trafford Knt., who in the year 1484 succeeded, even at that time, to the proud historical name and hereditary estates of his Anglo-Saxon ancestors, which, from political expediency and to avoid confiscation, were relinquished to him by his distinguished father Sir John de Trafford, who in early life had left his ancestral halls, and marching at the head of his troops embarked in the cause of the House of Lancaster; but he had evidently no disposition to see his extensive territorial possessions wrested from his family by the chances of civil war, and therefore cautiously and jealously protected them. He covenanted with the great Earl of Warwick by deed dated 24 May 1 Edward IV. "to serve during the whole term of his life, to be with the Earl, and to do him service, having an annuity allowed of xx marks for life besides the wages granted in time of war to men of his degree."—(Ibid. p. 141). He died 3 Henry VII. His son Sir Edmund married 19 Edward IV. (1479) Margaret, daughter of Sir John Savage the elder of Clifton Knt., and the young widow of Sir John Honford of Honford Knt., by whom he had issue three sons and two daughters, his youngest son Henry Trafford D.D. being an active but unfortunate ecclesiastic.—(Harl. MS. 1437. fol. 11; Add. MS. 12477 fol. 38 b.) The precise date of this Chantry foundation has not been discovered, but Sir Edmund died 5 Henry VIII. 1514 (Harl. MS. 6159. fol. 75); and the year before his death, by deed dated 10 December 4 Henry VIII., along with Edmund Trafford his son and heir apparent, he vested in William Honford Esq., Nicholas Davenport of Woodford, Robert Ryle of Chorley, and John Pownall of Haythorn, lands in Wilmslow in the county of Chester, to the use of Sir Thomas Hunt and Sir Thomas Mattley priests and their successors "for the use and behoofe

² (Page 55.) Amongst the clergy of the Deanery of Manchester in 1533 occurs "Dⁿ's X^poferus Raynshae ex stipendio Edmundi Trafford et aliorum ibidem, apud Stretford" (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.); from which it appears that the endowment of the Chapel of Stretford depended upon the devotions of the inhabitants, and the Trafford Chantry having no more than the meagre income of xliiii^s, it is probable that one Priest officiated there and derived his stipend conjointly from Mr. Trafford and his Stretford tenantry. In 1547 "Dⁿ's Carolus Gee" answered Bishop Bird's Visitation "Call," and was at Stretford in 1557-8, whilst Vaux was Warden of Manchester. At that time his whole stipend was five marks (3l. 6s. 8d.) — (Ibid.) Willlam Trafford "the Ladie Priest of Manchester" (see p. 39, note, ante) was buried at the Collegiate Church in 1591:—"August 16, buried Syr William Trafforde an old Priest Dwellinge at Trafforde." — (Reg. Bk.) He had a Chantry pension for life of 4l. 3s. 8d.— Willis's Hist. Mitr. Abb. vol. ii. p. 107.

Sir Thomas Butler has long been regarded as the founder of this Chantry, but he is not entitled to that distinction. That the Chantry, probably without a settled foundation, existed in the 14th century, appears in evidence, as John Butler Esq. (brother of Sir William) who died at Harfleur on his way from Agincourt in 1415, bequeathed his body to be buried "in the Chapel of the Parish Church of Warrington where his parents are buried."—(Ex. inf. W. Beamont Arm.) John Butler the elder, his father, died about the year 1400, and his grandfather Sir William on the 23rd of April 1380.—(Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.; Harl. MS. 1468. fo. 38 b.) It therefore seems probable that the Chapel was built either by Sir William Butler (grandfather of the testator), or by his son and successor John Butler.

The Chantry owed its endowment to Sir Thomas Butler, who succeeded his eldest brother Sir William, who dying unmarried 12 Edward IV. 1473, his heir was found to be a minor of the age of ten years and the ward of the King. He was devoted to a military life and distinguished himself by his bravery at Flodden. In the 2 Richard III. 1484, he married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Delves of Doddington in the county of Chester Knt., by whom he had issue one son and eight daughters, and dying 14 Henry VIII. 1522, aged sixty years, was buried in this Chapel built by his ancestors, under a fine table tomb, long since perished.

Sir Thomas Butler in his will of the above date recites that he had "dely'vit by Indenture tripartede into the custody and keyping of the righte revende Father in God John (Paslew) Abbotte of Whalley fyve hundrethe markes in golde savelly to be kepte to his use and to be disposede at his pleasure," and declares that "it is his full will and mind that his executors should have the dispoſicõ and orderyng of the said sume" to purchase lands or rents of the yearly value of ten pounds therewith to found a Grammar School in Warrington to endure for ever, and the residue of the 500 marks to dispose for his soul and his wife's soul, and that his executors and after their decease his heirs from time to time should "appoynte an honeste preste groundely lernede in gram' to be maist' of y^e said scole whiche should say masse pray and do dyvine s'vice at the (1521), he recites that "his trusty s'rv'nts S^r William Plütre and Rauf Alyn at his costs and charges to his use and to the p'formacōn of his last will had p'chased certen mes'is lands and ten'ts in Tyldesley and Weryngton," of which he willed that they should stand seized to the use of his will. By Indenture dated 16th April 1526, and made between Thomas Boteler Esq., son and heir of Sir Thomas Boteler, of the first part; Dame Margret Boteler, late wife of the said Sir Thomas, Ranulph Pole, Clerk, Richard Sneyde Esq., and William Plumtre, Chaplain, executors of the said Sir Thomas, of the second part; Sir Richard Bold Knt., and fifteen other knights, esquires, and gentlemen, of the third part; and Sir Richard Taylor, Clerk, named, deputed and ordained Schoolmaster of a new Free School at Warrington, of the fourth part; in order that men's sons might learn Grammar to the intent that they thereby might the better learn to know Almighty God and serve him according to their duties, to the increase of virtuous living, and the expulsion of all vices, therefore the executors and trustees established the said School.

By the foundation deed, containing the statutes of the School, it was provided amongst other ordinances "yt one Aniversary shall be kept within y^e s^d Church of Warrington at y^e costs of every of y^e said Schoolm^{rs} for y^e time being y^e seven and twenty day of Aprill ev^y year for y^e souls of y^e said S^r Thom^s and his ancestors and his heirs and for y^e soul of Dame Margret Boteler after her Decease in māner and form hereafter ensuing y^t is to wit y^t y^e Parson or Curate of y^e s^d Parish wth seven other prests w^{ch} shall be eight in number and ten singing Clerks or Schol^{rs} in the evening before the s^d 27th day shall together sing Placebo and Dirige and in y^e morning of y^e s^d 27th day y^e s^d eight Prests and ten Clerks shall say y^e com'endations and after y^t at y^r pleasure three of y^e s^d Prests to say Masse of the Trentall of S^t Gregory w^h the Collect Deus simul spes nostra and iiii of y^e other Prests to say mass of y^e an'iversary and y^e Parson Curate or another Prest to kepe mass of Requiem solemnly wth note and y^e other seven Prests and ten Clerks to help to sing in y^e same Masse and the Prest y^t keepeth y^e s^d masse of Requiem to have vii pence and every of y^e other 7 Prests viii^d for y^t Business and every of y^e s^d ten clerks to have ij^d.

In 1523 his widow erected the west window in the Chantry (Gastrell’s Not. Cestr. vol. ii. part ii. p. 231 note); and afterwards married her kinsman Richard, third son of John Butler of Rawcliffe Esq.—(Lanc. Visit. 1567.) This Warrington family had long been interested in the prosperity of the Cell of Lytham, an offshoot of the Priory of Durham, and letters of Fraternity were granted by the Prior and Convent, 9th August 1508, to the honourable lady the lady Margaret Butler, wife of Sir Thomas Butler Knt., as on the 22nd June in the same year similar letters had been granted to her husband.—(Durham Obituary Rolls, Surtees Soc. p. 115, 8vo., 1856.) In the year 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the “Cantaria cum libera scola apud Werington” for tenths xx^s q^r, and for the subsidy xviii^s q^r. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

In the inventory of the goods of Sir Thomas Butler deceased, dated 22nd October 1579, occurs “the lease of a Chantry in Weryngton, called Butler’s Chantre” (Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, part ii. p. 123), from which it appears that the Crown had granted a lease of the founder’s pious endowment, to his grandson.

² (Page 57.) In 1548 Robert Halle, Incumbent of Butler’s Chantry, Warrington, is described as “of thage of 70 yeres, a man decrepit, and lame of hys lymmes.” (E. libro B. Duchy Lanc.) There were numerous changes in the ecclesiastical affairs of Warrington about the time of the Reformation.

On the 1st September, 1 Edward VI., Sir Richard Johns was the Rector (Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, part i. p. 104), and on the 25th January, 1 and 2 Philip and Mary, he was presented to the Rectory of Bury by Hugh Jones patron pro hac vice by gift of Edward Earl of Derby (Ex archiv. Cur. Consist. Cestr.), and his will has been printed by Mr. Piccope in Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, part ii. p. 223.

In 1547 Mr. Edward Kebill, probably son of Sir Thomas Kebill, Justice of the Common Pleas, was the Rector, “D’n’s Richard Taylior” was his curate, and “D’n’s Robert Aghton” and “D’n’s Robert Hall” the two chantry priests (Bishop Bird’s Visit. Call), the latter being described as "Incumbent of Butler's Chantry" in 1553, and having a pension of 4*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*—Willis's Hist. Mitr. Abb. p. 108. Keble was installed prebendary of Westminster June 15th 1547, which stall he vacated in 1554. Le Neve (Hardy) vol. iii. p. 351.

Plate  one.

On the 20th November, 1 and 2 Philip and Mary, Nicholas Taylior, brother of the above named curate, (who became the Priest of Butler's Chantry in 1554, and then had his living "ex stipendio Thome butlo^r milit." Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.), was presented to the Rectory by John Grymesdyche and Richard Penketh, the executors of Sir Thomas Butler Knt. the patron, "owinge to the deprivation of Mr. Edward Keble." Nicholas Taylior gave Bond to Bishop Bird and to George Wylmesley his Chancellor "for the Rectory of Warrington" 17th December, 1 and 2 Philip and Mary.—(Ibid.) On the 31st December 1556, Thomas Amery was presented to the Rectory by Thomas Butler of Bewsey Esq. the patron, vacant by the death of Mr. Nicholas Taylior.—(Ibid.) At Bishop Downham's Visitation in 1562, D'n's Thomas Amery Rector appeared and was excused paying the subsidy, and D'n's Richard Taylior appeared, but paid it.—(Ibid.) Sir Richard Taylor was the first Master of Butler's Grammar School, and was living 20th December 1569, having retained his Mastership during the reigns of Henry VIII., Edward VI., Queen Mary, and Queen Elizabeth, (Marsh's Foundation of Warrington Grammar School, p. 66,) but having lost his ecclesiastical office, apparently without securing a chantry pension.

Of the two clerical executors of Sir Thomas Butler, who died in 1522, Ranulph Pole was a Fellow of Manchester Collegiate Church and Rector of Hawarden, and William Plumtre had been, probably, at Flodden with Sir Thomas, and was a person of trustworthiness and learning. In his will, dated September 15th 1545, (proved at York,) he is styled "Sir William Plumtre, prest," and he bequeaths—To Maister Boteler's chappell within the parishe church at Werington vj^s viij^d, and that to be disposed by the skolemaister ther and Sir Robert Hall. The Bishop of Chester ordered that Massey's Choir should be restored, the Rector's desk removed, the Rixton pew taken away, and the ancient forms or seats brought back to the place where they originally stood, and Mrs. Hawarden to have the lowest form for her use and for the use of the heir and posterity of the said Thomas Rixton deceased. — Bridgman's *Reg. The wife of Sir John was Ellen daughter of Ralph Egerton of Wrinehill Esq., and his eldest son John Delves Esq. being with his father at Tewkesbury was beheaded 11 Edward IV. (1471), and the estate became vested in his next brother Ralph. The Rector's sister, Margaret Delves, married Sir Thomas Butler of Beausy Knt., the benefactor of the Chantry and founder of the School of Warrington.

On the 16th June 1486, Sir Richard Delveys, presbyter, was presented to the Rectory of Warrington on the resignation of Hugh Redyche the last Rector, and instituted in the person of Hugh Leche his proctor: patron, Thomas Butler of Bewsey Esq.—(Reg. Hales, Lichf.) On the 6th December 1527, Mr. Thomas Maria Wyngfeld clerk, was presented to the Rectory of Warrington on the death of Sir Richard Delves, the last Rector, on the presentation of Humphrey Wingfeld Esq. and Robert Browne clerk, pro hâc vice.—(Reg. Blythe Lichf.) In the pedigree of the family this Rector is stated to to have been M.P. for Huntingdon.—Burke's Landed Gentry.

Richard Delves was admitted to the Prebendal Stall of Pipa Parva in Lichfield Cathedral 27th March 1485, and exchanged the same with John Argentine M.D. for Bubenhall 16th March 1501-2. He quitted this stall for Stotfold, 15th June 1527, and died seized of it 23rd November (sic) in the same year.—Hardy's Le Neve, vol. i.

On the 20th November 23 Henry VII., Richard Delves clerk, was a foffeee of his brother-in-law Sir Thomas Butler Knt., of his manors of Warrington and Bewsey, and of all his other manors, lands, &c., in the counties of Lancaster, Notts, the city of Coventry, and elsewhere within England, which at the special request of Sir Thomas, Mr. Richard Delves demised to John Aston Knt., Edmund Trafford Knt., Henry ffarington Esq., Simon Byrom clerk, Reginald Lownes clerk, William Plomtre chaplain, Thomas Lewyns chaplain, and others, to fulfil certain covenants in an indenture made between the said Sir Thomas Butler Knt. and Thomas Butler his son and heir apparent on the one part, and Sir Peter Legh Knt. and Peter Legh his son and heir apparent on the other part.—Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 315.

Randle Holme noticed in 1640 in the Chancel of Warrington a marble stone inlaid with brass and upon it "a man, with a curious cote, embrauthered, praying," and this inscription, "Of your charity pray for the soule of Mr. Richard Delves, Canon in the Cathedral Church of Lichfield and Parson of this Church of Warrington, dyed the 22 of November in the yeare of our Lord God 1527." The plate, vestments, and endowment of the Chantry, were all on a liberal scale, befitting an opulent and well connected ecclesiastic. The Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington in 1535, assessed the "Cantaria ex fundacōie Ric'i Delvis," for tenths x^s ix^d q^r, and for the subsidy ix^s viii^d ob.—(*Lanc. Mary the Virgin, was founded by Dame Mabella, widow of Sir William de Bradshaw Knt., with the assent of Roger Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, Henry Earl of Lancaster, Seneschal of England, and John de Langton, Clerk, Rector of Wigan. It was endowed in the first instance with a messuage in Wigan, at that time in the tenure of Henry Banastre, and with certain premises in Haghe. The attesting witnesses to the deed were D^{no} Thoma de Lathum. D^{no} Rob^{to} de Langeton. D^{no} Ric^o de Hoghton. D^{no} Will^o de Lee militib;. On the 2^d nones Sept. 1338, John de Sutton, Presbyter, was canonically instituted by Roger, Bishop of Lichfield, to the Chantry at the Altar of Saint Mary the Virgin in the Parish Church of Wigan, founded by Dame Mabella, formerly wife of Sir William Bradshaw Knt., and now by her presented to the same as a perpetual Chaplain, according to the form and ordination of the said Chantry. (Reg. Northburgh apud Lichf. p. 112; Gastrell's Not. Cest. vol. ii. part ii. p. 247, note.) On the 16th October 1488 "Dom. Willielmus Holden presb. ad perpet. Cantariam B. Marie in Eccles. paroch. de Wygan ad presentat. Jacobi Bradshaw arm. dicti Cantarie fundator, vacant. per mort. Ricⁱ fletcher ultim. Incumb." — Reg. Hales. Lichf.

Notwithstanding the last statement, the founder was clearly Mabella, daughter and heiress of Hugh le Norris, lord of Haigh and Blackrod, and wife of Sir William Bradshaigh, knight of the shire for Lancaster, in the 7, 9 and 19 Edward II. (having been absent ten years in the holy wars of Palestine during this reign), and 2 and 4 Edward III. This lady, famous for her wealth, misfortunes and piety, exercised her rights, as lady of the manor of Haigh, in the 11 Edward III. 1337, and also founded another Chantry at Blackrod in the following year.—See Dr. Ormerod's Memoir of the House of Le Noreis or Norres, p. 8, 8vo, 1851, privately printed.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed at Wigan the "Cantaria ex fundatione antecessorum M^{ri} Rogeri bradshae, milit." for tenths vi^o vi^o ob. q^o, and for the subsidy v^o xi^o. In the margin is added: "Caret Cantar." — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

being called "the Rector's Chapel," and part of the endowment arising from Lichfield, was probably founded by Mr. Edward Stanley, Clerk, third son of Sir John Stanley Knt. M.P., and a younger brother of Thomas first Lord Stanley K.G. Mr. Edward Stanley was collated to the Archdeaconry of Chester on the death of George Radclyffe B.D., and was also instituted to the Rectory of Winwick, on the 20th January 1453. — (Reg. Boulers Lichf.) May 29th 1454, Reginald, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, received from Dom. Edward Stanley, Archdeacon of Chester, xx^{li} sterling, in part payment of an annual pension of xl^{li} due to the Bishop from the Archdeaconry; and on the 19th November 1455 he received xx^{li} more. — (Ibid.) On the 5th November 1467 the Archdeacon died, and on the 22nd November in the same year James Stanley, Clerk, was presented to the Rectory of Winwick by Henry Byrom Gent., pro hac vice. — (Reg. Hales Lichf.) It is well ascertained that none of the Stanleys, Earls of Derby, were buried at Winwick. Thomas, the first Earl and High Constable of England, was buried "in the midst of the Chapel, in the north aisle of the Church of the Priory of Burscough of his ancestors' foundation," and, it is expressly stated, "where the bodies of his father, mother, and other of his ancestors, lay buried." By his will, dated 28th July 1504, he provided that one of the Canons of that Priory should duly (¶ daily) say mass in the said Chapel for his soul, and for the souls of his two wives Eleanor and Margaret, and for the souls of his parents, ancestors, children, brethren and sisters, and for the soul of William late Marquis of Berkeley (who died in 1492), and for the souls of all who died in his or his father's service; and at every mass, before the Lavatory, to say audibly for the souls he appointed, by name, and all other in general, De profundis clamavi, with the accustomed Oraisons and Collects. And he also willed that his executors should provide a Priest to say mass for a year in the Churches of Winwick and Warrington, and especially to pray for the souls of all those he had any wise offended, and for all Christian souls. — (Testam. Vetusta, vol. ii. p. 459.) There are no presentations to this Chantry recorded in the Bishops' Registers at Lichfield.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed — "Winweke, de Cantaria ex fundatione Comitis Derbie ib'm," for tenths vi^s viii^d, and for the subsidy vi^s. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

Mr. Thomas Stanley, Bishop of Sodor and Man, was Rector of Winwick, Wigan, and North Meoles; his Curate at Winwick was Dom. Richard Smith, whilst Dom. Laurence Penington and Dom. Oswald Kay were Incumbents of Altars in the Church, not described by name.— (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.; Ex. Archiv. Cons. Cur. apud Cestr.) This episcopal Rector was a younger son of the second Lord Monteagle, and, from having cultivated poetry and letters, probably did not emulate his kinsman James, Bishop of Ely (see p. 30, note ante), who maintained his military position as a feudal Baron better than his spiritual dignity, a helmet, buff jerkin and a troop of esquires becoming him more than a mitre, the sober rochet and a train of chaplains.

¹ This Chantry, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, was founded by Sir Gilbert de Haydock of Haydock in the parish of Winwick Knt., who in the 4 Edward III. 1330 (and not 1334, as printed in Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. pt. ii, pp. 261–2) presented his petition to Roger de Northburgh, formerly Archdeacon of Richmond, and at that time Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, for a license to build and endow the same.— (Ibid.) And in the same year Gilbert de Haydok M.P. for the good of his soul after death and for the souls of his Father and Mother, for the souls of all his ancestors, and of all the faithful deceased, and for the increase of divine love, obtained the king's licence, together with the consent of the Rector of Wynquek and others, to found a Chantry. He thereupon granted in pure and perpetual alms, and for the sustentation of a Chaplain to say divine offices in the chapel of S. Trinity in the parish church of Wynquick eight messuages, seven tofts, forty-one acres, and three roods of land, with their appurtenances, situate in Newton in Makerfeld. And also two messuages, two tofts, and three acres in the said vill, which Adam de Walton held for the term of his life; to have and to hold to the said Chaplain and his successors for ever to celebrate for the soul of the said Gilbert, and for the souls of others in the said chapel, and to sustain the Chantry service there, saving to the mother church of Wynquiek all accustomed rights, which it was not his wish in any respect to diminish. And he ordained that a fit and honest Chaplain at the time of saying mass should specially pray for his (the founder's) soul whilst he lived, and also for the soul of the venerable Father Roger, by the grace of God Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield; and after the founder's death in every mass privately and publicly to pray for him by name, and on every day, except on double festivals, at matins, vespers, and other canonical hours, to say Commendacionem, Placebo, and Dirige for the soul of the said Gilbert de Haydok and others. The Chaplain to provide chalicees, books, vestments, and other ornaments, which the said Chantry might need, but which were at that time partly provided by the founder himself, and required for the greater glory of God. The Chaplain to pray for all those whose names may be notified during the life of the founder, and after his death, by Matthew de Haydok, his son and heir. The founder's heirs to nominate a fit Chaplain, after the death of Humfrey Pindere, who was to receive, during the term of his natural life, even if he became infirm and unable to discharge his duties, a fixed and certain salary, in order that he might be decently supported, out of the endowment of the said Chantry, until the impediment should cease. III. at Neuton in Makerfeld William de Wygan Capell. de Wynwyk, conveyed lands in Newton to John de Haydok and Joanna his wife, daughter of Sir Thomas de Dutton. — (Ibid. p. 228.) On the 11th November 18 Edward IV. (1478) Peter Legh Knt. granted and conveyed to Thomas Molyneux Esq., John Molyneux clerk, William Ireland Esq., Thomas Molyneux sen., Henry Kighley, Thomas Kighley, William Molyneux, Thomas Ireland and Peter Ireland, all the lands, messuages, and tenements which William Fulshaw held at the will of the donor at Newton in Makerfeld; and also all the messuages, lands, and tenements which Robert Gethskolles held in Fernhead, and all the fields in Lawton which Thomas Turner held, and one croft in Hyndley. To hold the same in order that all the annual rents and profits arising therefrom may be paid to Matthew Fowler, Chaplain, celebrating divine services in the chapel of the Holy Trinity in Winwek for the term of his life, and after his death to pay all the rents and issues of the same to William Gam', Chaplain, celebrating divine services in the chapel aforesaid for the term of his life, and afterwards for all their successors being Chaplains, nominated by him (the said Sir Peter Legh) and his heirs or assigns, celebrating in the said chapel. These being witnesses: James Stanley, Archdeacon of Chester; Richard Bold, Richard Kighley, Esqrs., and others. — Legh Evid. Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 523.

And by deed dated 10th January 1538, 30 Henry VIII. "our illustrious Prince and on earth supreme head of the English Church" (so described in the deed), Peter Legh of Bradley Esq. conveyed to Sir Marmaduke Tunstall Knt., Andrew Barton and Richard Holland Esqrs., and William Hathe, Chaplain, messuages, lands, and tenements in Dalton, of the value of v^{ii} per annum, that they may, after his death, hold the same for seven years next following the day on which he shall die, and out of the rents find a fit Chaplain to celebrate for the souls of him the said Peter Legh and of his ancestors in the Church of Winwick during the same time. And if the said Peter Legh should not in his life time nominate a fit Chaplain to celebrate divine offices for his soul his trustees shall make the election, and at the end of the seven years all the said lands shall revert and become vested in his right heirs for ever. — Ibid. p. 591.

This Chantry and large estates passed in marriage with Joan, daughter and heiress of Sir Gilbert Haydock of Haydock Knt., to Sir Peter Legh Knt. and Banneret, who was wounded at Azincourt, in 1415, and dying at Paris in 1422, was buried at Macclesfield. His relict died in 1439. Their estates in Winwick and elsewhere are now held by their descendant W. J. Legh Esq., M.P.

¹ This Chantry, in the Chapel of Newton, anciently called Rokeden, was founded, not by Sir Thomas Langton, but by his ancestor Sir Robert Banastre, Lord of the fee of Makerfield, who, in February 1284, 13 Edward I., obtained a license from Richard de Wavertree, (who died in the year 1291,) Prior of S^t Oswald of Nostell, in consequence of his distance from the Mother Church, to have a Chantry here, saving all the rights of the Mother Church and empowering the "Vicar" of the same, for the time being, to suspend the Chaplain of Rokeden if he should withhold the accustomed rights and obventions. — (Dodsworth's MSS. cxxxviii. p. 432., and ibid. clvii. p. 52.) For this privilege Sir Robert Banastre gave to God and S^t. Oswald an annuity of xii^d towards procuring wax for the light of S^t Mary the Virgin in the Mother Church of Winwick (Ibid. p. 121.)* And on the morrow of the Conversion of St. Paul, in the year 1284, "William de Heskayt, Clerk," attested at Newton the grant of Robert Banastre, Lord of Makerfield, to Matthew son of Gilbert de Haydok, and his heirs, of lands in the lordship of Newton (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 123), so that Heskayt was probably the first Priest appointed; and Sir Gilbert de Haydok, the founder of the Chantry last named (see p. 69), was advanced in years when returned to Parliament, 14 Edward II. (1320), by William le Gentil^l, the Sheriff of Lancashire, on his own authority, and without the assent of the County. — (Baines's Hist. Lanc. vol. i. p. 229.) In a charter, dated Newton-in-Makerfield, on Tuesday next after the feast of the Invention of the Holy Cross, 5 Edward II. (1312), the land of "Thomas Gentil^l, Chaplain," in Newton, and "an outlane on the east, called Kirkgate," are named. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 127.

By charter, dated at Newton-in-Makerfield, on Sunday next after the feast of St. James the Apostle, 22 Edward III. (1349), Agnes, widow of John le Schepherd, granted "Dom. Will'o de Rokeden, Capell'o," a messuage, toft, lands, &c. in the vill of Newton, with a kilnsted upon the common of the said vill, and all the rights named in the original charter from Sir Robert Banastre; and on Monday next after the feast of St. Peter ad vincula in the same year, "William de Rokeden, Chaplain," reconveyed the same to the said Agnes for life, with remainder to John, son of John le Piper. Witnesses Gilbert de Haydok, Gilb. de Southworth, John de la Haye, Ric. le Receyvoir, Rob. de Weryngton, Ric'o de Sutton, et aliis. — Ibid. p. 155.

The Banastre fee passed by marriage with an heiress to the Langtons, and on the 12th December 1405, the Bishop of Lichfield confirmed to Sir Robert de Langton the ecclesiastical privileges originally granted to his ancestor in the Chapel of Rokeden. — (*Lib. v. fol. 157 in Cur. Thomas Johnson⁴ p̄ist Incūbent theſ of the ffoundaĉon of the antecessors of John Boulde knight to pray for the sowle; of the ffounders.

³ This Chantry was founded at the east end of the north aisle of Farnworth Chapel by Sir John Bold of Bold Knt., whose father Richard Bold was knighted 44 Edward III. (1371), and was living at Bold on Friday next after the feast of the Epiphany of our Lord 12 Richard II. (1388), being the first attestor of the grant of Robert de Ditton, Clerk, of all his lands in Bold to Roger de Ditton, which lands and tenements he had of the gift of Thomas, son of John de Ditton, and which the said Thomas had of the gift of Agnes, daughter of Richard Alvandlegh. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 285.) Sir Richard was probably dead in the 17 Richard II., as on Thursday next after the feast of St. Luke the Evangelist in that year John de Bold Esq. (his son) attests in Bold next after Sir John le Botiller of Weryngton Knt. and Peter de Sutton Esq. — (Ibid. p. 287.) In the 2 Richard II. (1379) John Bold, son and heir apparent of Sir Richard de Bold and of his wife Ellen, daughter of Richard Molyneux of Sephton, married, first, Emma, daughter of David de Hibernia (Ireland) Esq., by whom he had issue, Richard his successor, John, Helen and Katharine. By a second wife he had issue Boniface and Brian, both living 3 Henry IV. — (Ibid. vols. iii., xii.)

In the 6 Henry IV. the King granted his letters patent to Sir John de Bold Knt. to impark 500 acres of land for his own use, lying in his manor of Bold within the forest of Derby in the county of Lancaster. — (Cal. Rot. Pat. p. 249.) And in the 10 Henry V. (1422) he was appointed by the King constable of Conway Castle. (Fœdera, tom. x. p. 225.)

The most ancient monument now remaining in this Chapel is a stone effigy of a knight in plate armour, his hands clasped in prayer and holding a book, with a long sword by his side. The figure, according to the custom of the age when it was sculptured, had been richly painted in colours and gilded, but seems to have had no inscription. This is supposed to represent the “vera effigies” of the founder of the Chantry. — (Gent. Mag. vol. xciv. part ii. p. 198.) No presentations of Incumbents are recorded at Lichfield.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the “Cantaria apud ffernworth in manib; Ric'i White” [P Bolde] for tenths vii^s 1^d ob. and for the subsidy vi^s 7^d q^r. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) At the Dissolution a pension of 3*l.* 13*s.* was charged on the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster, payable to the Incumbent of Farnworth.

⁴ (Page 76.) The Chantry Commissioners of 1548 reported that Thomas Johnson served the altar, and was of the age of 48 years. — (E. lib. B. Duchy Lanc.) A few years afterwards (6 Eliz.) the Curate of Farnworth was presented to the Bishop, “for shriving, and for suffring candells to be burned in y^e Chappell upon Candlemas daye, accordyng to y^e old sup^tsticious custom.” — *Lanc. ⁵ This Chantry, dedicated to our Saviour, and situated in the Church of Prescot (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) appears to have been founded by Sir John Bold of Bold Knt.

Amongst certain payments made and rendered in an account, without date, but not improbably by the Executors of Sir Henry Bold of Bold Knt., who died temp. Henry VII., are the following items, which may have reference to this Chantry or to that at Farnworth. "Imprim. solut. d'no Joh^l Walton Capell. occupante Cantar. d'ni Joh^{is} Bolde xj^s. It^l solut^l ad obit. d'eti Henr. Bolde xxxvj^s. It^l Capellanis cuil^l iiiid xii^d. It^l ij diacoibz cuilbz ij^d iiiid. It^l thuribulariis cuil^l j^d ij^d. It^l vj chorist^l cuil^l j^d vj^d. It^l cleric^l vestib^lli iiiid. It^l sacrist. xii^d. It^l in oblac^lon. iiiid. It^l ad campan^l ii^d. It^l in potu iii^s. Sum^a iiiid iii^s ii^d. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 284.

In 1535 the "Cantaria apud Capellam de Jesu ex fundacione Joh^{is} Bolde" was assessed by the Subsidy Commissioners iiiid^s for tenths and iii^s viid^s q^r for the subsidy, and there was added in the margin "solvit x^{ma} racione fructus." — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) In 1548 it appeared that "Dⁿ's Edwardus Garnet vivit de stipite." — Ex archiv. Cons. Cur. Cestr.

The Lady Bolde living at the time of this inquisition was the widow of Sir Richard Bold Knt. He appears to have had three wives, although two only — viz. 1st Elizabeth, daughter of . . . Gerard of Bryn, and 2ndly Margaret, daughter of William Woolfall of Woolfall in Prescot — are recorded in the Visit. Lanc. 1567. The third wife was Jane, daughter of Sir William Molyneux of Sephton Knt., who had no issue by her husband. — Suffield MS. Bold Ped.; Lanc. MSS. vol. iii. pp. 256, 323; vol. xii.

In 1548 the Chantry Commissioners reported that "no foundation or ordinance was apparent," and that there was "none Incumbent, but at the pleasure of the Ladie Bolde:" and yet it appeared that the income from "lands and tenements" amounted to 40s.; the ornaments belonging to the Chantry were valued at xx^d, and the plate was, by estimation, vj ounces. The town and parish of Prescot contained "m^l (1000) howselynge people." — Liber B. Duch. Lanc.

⁶ The statement in this paragraph is an error of the commissioners.

⁷ This Chantry, said to be dedicated to St. Thomas, was in the Chapel of Windle, and founded by Sir Thomas Gerard of Bryn Knt. who was living in the 13 Henry VI. (1435.) He possessed the distinction of sharing, as his father had done, the confidence and regard of Henry V., and the public recognized his high military claims and bravery in the wars against France. It is either of him, or of his father, that Pefe Daniel has recorded: "Anno 1437, at the siege of Montereau, where the King of France attended in person, the garrison behaved with great valour, having at their head an English knight named Thomas Guerard."—(Daniel's Hist. of France, vol. vi. p. 143; Collins.) This Chantry Chapel was of small dimensions, being not more than twelve yards in length and about three in width, and the tower scarcely eight yards high. Little remains now but the belfry, its luxuriant covering of dark ivy still preserving it from destruction. The burial ground, formerly open, is now enclosed by a stone wall, and on the south side is a stone cross with three steps. Adjoining is a well still called St. Thomas's Well, to which extraordinary virtues are and in Barrett's time, whilst nothing could be ascertained of the founder or the origin of the foundation, except that the deserted building was commonly called “the Abbey,” the whole area had a reputation of great sanctity amongst those of the Romish faith. — Barrett's MS. Chetham Library, Manchester; Baines's *Hist. And in 1548 Edward the Sixth's Chantry Commissioners reported that “upon the examynacõn of this foundation of Sir Thomas Gerard, Knighte, to celebrate for the souls of his auncestors for ever, it coulde not appere that any lands were assured for thentent aboue said, but that the some of iiii^{li} was paid to the fyndinge of a Pryest there goynge owt of the lands of the ffounder lyenge in the lordship of Wyndle.” — (*Ex libro B. ⁸ This Chantry, within the Parish Church of Walton-on-the-Hill, was founded, not by John Mowbray, as here stated, but by Mr. John Molyneux, Clerk, Rector of the Parish, and a man of “proud patrician descent.” He was the third surviving son of Sir Richard Molyneux of Sephton, who was knighted at Agincourt and killed at the Battle of Blore Heath (Holinshed's Chron. p. 649; Lanc. MSS. vol. iii.) by his second wife Joan, the daughter and wealthy heiress of Sir Gilbert Haydock of Haydock Knt., and the relict of Sir Peter Legh of Bradley and Lyme Knt. — (*Lanc. Chapel of St. Nicholas of Liverpool, was founded by John de Liverpool, probably a burgess in parliament for West Derby 19 Edward II. 1326. — (Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. part ii. p. 191 note.) The local name is not of frequent occurrence. At Walton, on Thursday next after the feast of St. Martin the Bishop, in winter, 16 Edward III. 1343, William de Stonbriglegh, William de Lyuerpull, and Richard de Walton de Lyuerpull, witness the grant and devise of Symon de Walton, to Gilbert de Walton of lands in Walton, with remainder to William, eldest son of the said Gilbert, and to his right heirs for ever. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 254.) John Duke of Lancaster, in the tenth year of his duchy A.D. 1361, granted a lease to Adam, son of William de Lyverpul; and another, of the town, the mills, the rents, and services, the passage of the Mersey, and the turbarry of Toxteth. In the reign of Edward III. this William de Lyverpull was several times mayor of his native town. — (Baines, vol. iv. pp. 61, 63, 123.) There are no presentations of Incumbents to this Chantry at Lichfield. In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the "Cantaria apud Leuerpole ex fundatione Joh'is Leuerpole" for tenths vi^s iiiⁱ^d, and for the subsidy vi^s vii^d q^r. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

In 1548 the Chantry Commissioners report that "the towne of Lyverpol is one haven towne, havynge iiiii^ml howselynge people, and also great concourse of strangers both by lande and see, and is distante from the p'ishe Church of Walton iiiii myles." — E. lib. B. Duch. Lanc.

¹¹ (Page 82.) John Hurde was the Incumbent in 1548, and aged 50 years; the Chantry ornaments were valued at lx^s and the plate estimated at viii ounces. — Ibid. For another account of this plate see p. 21 ante.

The value of the endowment, as stated by Baines, vol. iv. p. 95, materially differs from the report of these Commissioners.

¹² This Chantry, dedicated to St. Katharine, within the Chapel of Liverpool, was founded in accordance with the will of Mr. John Crosse, dated 15th May, 1515.—(Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. part ii. p. 191.) The founder was descended from Richard del Crosse, Mayor of Liverpool in 1409, and was the son of Richard Crosse of Liverpool and of his first wife Elizabeth, daughter and coheiress of Roger Walton of Walton and Adlington, succeeding to the family inheritance on the death of his eldest brother Roger Crosse, who died issueless 22nd April 1522, and being at that time "aged 40 years," and in holy orders. He had several Church preferments, viz. the Rectory of White Rooding in the county of Middlesex, to which he was instituted 22nd May 1525, and which he vacated by death in 1532.—(Newcourt's Repert., vol. ii. p. 500.) ¹⁶ This Chantry of St. Mary at the High Altar in the Chapel of St. Nicholas, in Liverpool, was founded by Henry Plantagenet only son of Henry, Earl of Lancaster, son of Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, the second son of King Henry III. In the 11th of Edward III. (1337), having distinguished himself by his military bravery, he was created Earl of Derby. He had a chief command at the siege of Calais, and his great victories in France, as well as his patriotism, courage, and virtue, raised his fame to the highest degree. At this time he was Earl of Lancaster, Derby, Leicester, Grismond, and Ferrers, and Steward of England. His retinue consisted of 800 men at arms and 2,000 archers with thirty banners, and he spent one hundred pounds daily in hospitality. In 1349 he was created Earl of Lincoln, and in 1351 was one of the founders of the Most Noble Order of the Garter: but the crowning event of his prosperous life was the special grant of the Dukedom of Lancaster, to which dignity he was raised in full Parliament in the year 1352, and invested with power to have a Chancery in the County of Lancaster, and to enjoy all other liberties and royalties appertaining to a County Palatine, in as ample a manner as the Earls of Chester enjoyed them in their Palatinate. In 1354 he built the Collegiate Church, in honour of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin, of the Castle at Leicester. The Statutes for its regulation were completed in April 1355, in the presence of Brother William of Cloum, Abbot of the Monastery of St. Mary de Pratis, Sir Henry de Walton, Archdeacon of Richmond and Lieutenant of the Duchy of Lancaster, and others. He endowed it munificently with various manors, and settled an annual rent charge of 1,000*l.* on the Dean and Canons if they should be disturbed in the possession of his grant. He also endowed the Abbot and Convent of Whalley with lands, woods, and tenements, to maintain two recluses, with two women to attend them, in a house in the Churchyard of Whalley, who were to pray for his soul and for the souls of his ancestors and heirs. The Abbey was also to provide a Chaplain and his clerk to sing daily mass in the Chapel belonging to the recluses. Cokersand and Furness Abbies and the religious houses of Lancashire generally were benefited by his munificence. He was a great churchman, but did not, like his son-in-law, John of Gaunt, embrace the enlightened views of Wycliffe, and therefore the clergy supported his popularity, and always styled him "the good Duke." The close of his career was as brilliant as the opening, and as he lived the greatest subject of England, so he died the first actor in one of the most illustrious periods of English History, on the 24. March, 1361. He espoused Isabella, daughter of Henry, Lord Beaumont, and left two daughters, his coheireses, Maud, of Bavaria, who died issueless in 1362, and Blanche, the first wife of John of Gaunt, created in consequence of his auspicious marriage, Duke of Lancaster. The Duchess died in 1369, and was the mother of Henry IV. The will of Henry "the good Duke," was written in French and dated at the Castle of Leicester 15 March, 1360-1, and it is noticeable that neither of his daughters are named in it. He left his body to be buried in the Collegiate Church of the Annunciation of our Lady at Leicester on that side of the high altar "where the body of our Lord and Father, whom God pardon (que Dieu assoille) is interred. Item we will that our body be not buried for three weeks after the departure of our soul (and yet he died of the Plague!), and also we will that our Lord the King (to whom he was third cousin), my Lady the Queen, be invited to our funeral; and Monsieur the Prince, and my Lords his Brothers, my wife Lady Isabell, our sisters, and our brothers, their Lords, and other distinguished persons of our blood, and we appoint the Rev. Father in God John, Bishop of Lincoln, the honourable man of holy religion William, Abbot of Leicester, and others (named) our executors." Proved 3 kal. April 1361, at Leicester, and in London 7 ides May following. — Thompson's Hist. Leicester, p. 127; Whitaker's Hist. Whalley, p. 76; Testam. Vetusta, vol. i. p. 64; Baines' *Hist. contained the arms of Plantagenet, viz. gules three lions passant gardant, or, a label of three points, sable (Harl. MS. 2129, fo. 186; Baines), which may probably be attributed to Henry Duke of Lancaster, who bore the arms of England, differenced by a label of three points, azure, each charged by three fleurs de lis, or; whilst the arms borne by John of Gaunt were, quarterly Castile and Leon, impaling quarterly, France and England, differenced by a label of three points, ermine. — Beltz's Memor. of the Order of the Garter, pp. 25, 136.

¹⁸ This Chantry, dedicated to St. Nicholas, was founded in the Chapel of Liverpool by John of Gaunt, fourth son of King Edward III. He was born on Midsummer Day in the year 1340, created Earl of Richmond in 1342, and advanced by his father to the dukedom of Lancaster in 1363. — (Strickland's Queens of England, vol. ii. p. 312.) This Chantry was probably founded shortly after the year 1369, on the sudden death of the Lady Blanche, his first wife, the great coheiress of his relative, Henry "the good Duke" of Lancaster. She was carried off by pestilence when scarcely twenty-seven years of age, and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral, her husband long bemoaning his loss, and retaining deep affection for her memory. Her personal appearance, beauty, and accomplishments are all described by Chaucer, who had constant opportunities of noticing them. He says:

"I saw her dance so comely
 Carol and sing so swetely

And laugh and play so womanly
And loken so debonairely
So godely speke and so frendely
That certe I trow that never more
N'as sene so blissful a tresore
For evéry here on her hed
The sothe to say, it was not red
Ne neither yelowé ne browne it n'as Methought moste like to god it was."

Throughout the poem the poet depicts his heroine in the most glowing colours, and says of her disposition :

"Therewith she loved so well right
She wrong do woulde to no wight
No wight ne might do her no shame
She loved so well her owne name."

Prince John himself composed songs in her praise "to kepe himselfe fro ydlennesse," and, when in his eighteenth year, wrote the following lines on his "lady love:"

"Lorde it maketh mine herté light
When I thinke on that sweté wight
That is so semely on to se
And wish to God it might so be
That she wolde holde me for her knight
My ladye that's so fair and bright."

The prince experienced a repulse, and felt the deepest affliction for a year, so that he had no need —

"Never a day to seek for sorrow,
He found it readily every morrow."

However his devoted attachment terminated happily, and he married his beautiful relative at Reading in Berkshire in 1359. See The Book of the Duchess, or Chaucer's Dream; Godwin's Life of Chaucer; Thompson's History of Leicester.

In 1372 the Duke married, secondly, Constance, elder daughter and coheiress of Peter the Cruel, King of Castile and Leon. He was also created a Knight of the Garter, and was one of the executors of Edward III. During the minority of his nephew, Richard II., he was in the administration of the affairs of the nation, but aspired to be sole regent. In his latter years he incurred the displeasure of the King, and retired from the court, being distinguished as the patron of Wycliffe. On the 13th January 1396, the Duke married Katherine Swinford, the sister of Chaucer's wife, to whom he had been for many years illicitly attached; and so great was the estimation in which she was held at court that their four children were publicly legitimized by the parliament 20 Richard II. In October 1398 his eldest son Henry Earl of Hereford (afterwards Henry IV.) was banished from England, an event which filled the measure of the Duke's unhappiness. Shakspeare represents him at this critical juncture as "aged gaunt," remonstrating with Richard II., and saying :

"Within me grief hath kept a tedious fast;
 And who abstains from meat that is not gaunt?
 For sleeping England long time have I watch'd;
 Watching breeds leanness, leanness is all gaunt;
 The pleasure that some Fathers feed upon,
 Is my strict fast, I mean — my children's looks;
 And therein fasting, hast thou made me gaunt;
 Gaunt am I for the grave, gaunt as a grave
 Whose hollow womb inherits nought but bones."

K. Richard II. act ii. sc. 1.

He died at Ely House in Holborn, overwhelmed with sorrow and afflicted with bodily disease, in February 1399, aged 58 years; and his honoured dust was laid in St. Paul's, "near the principal altar, beside his most dear late wife Blanch." His will was dated February 3, 1397, and he desired chantries and obits to be founded for the souls of his late dear wives Blanch and Constance. A Chantry was founded in the Collegiate Church of the Newark at Leicester, opposite to his tomb, in which masses were said for his soul, and for the soul of the Lady Constance. Sir John Leybourne, his receiver-general, and Thomas de Langley, his dear clerk (afterwards Cardinal Bishop of Durham and Chancellor of England), were two of the executors of his will; and they as well as his "dear Squire Thomas de Radclyf," one of his trustees, were Lancashire men. — Nichols' Royal Wills, p. 145, abridged in Testam. Vetusta, vol. i. p. 140.

The precise date of the foundation of his Chantry at Liverpool has not been discovered, but on the 3rd ides of February 1361, in the second year of Bishop Stretton's consecration, his lordship issued a commission to dedicate (consecrate?) the Chapel of St. Nicholas of Lytherpole in the parish of Walton, and to appoint a cemetery in Lytherpole, to continue as long as the Vicar of Walton pleased; and this was done at the request "of our beloved son in Christ Master Richard de Wynwyck," at that time Rector of the Church of Walton, and on condition that the rights of the mother church were not thereby diminished. — (Reg. Stretton, Lichf. p. 45.) And on the 3rd ides of September 1361, Robert Bishop of Lichfield, of his special grace granted to the burgesses of the vill of Litherpole, during the plague, a licence for burying their dead in the Cemetery of the Chapel of St. Nicholas of Litherpole, the mother church to sustain thereby no loss. — Ibid. p. 44.

As this Chantry was returned in 1535 as “ex fundatione Henrici et Johannis nuper Duces Lancastriæ” (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.), and the Chantry founded by “the good Duke Henry” is returned separately, it appears that popular opinion regarded the two dukes as the co-founders of St. Nicholas’ Chantry. It was assessed for tenths vii^d vii^d q^r and for the subsidy vi^d iii^d q^r. — (Ibid.) At the dissolution a pension of 4*l.* 17*s.* 5*d.* was charged on the Revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster, and payable to the Incumbent of Liverpool. — Baines’ Hist. Lanc. vol. i. p. 180.

The Chantry intended to be founded in the Church of Walton on the Hill by John Fayrfax, Rector of Prescott, seems to have had no permanent endowment. By will dated 7th and proved 15th June 1393, this opulent ecclesiastic bequeathed his body to be buried in the Church of Walton; and after various bequests to that church, he proceeds: “Item lego cuidam Altari in corpore dictæ ecclesiæ, ex parte boreali, in honore Sancti Johannis Evangelistæ facto, ubi propono ordinare Cantariam perpetuam, unum missale, usus Ebor. unum vestimentum integrum de blueto stragulato, videlicet unam casulam, iii albas, ii tuniculas cum stolis, phanonis, et singulis, et aliis pertinentibus, et unam capam ejusdem sectæ. Et unum aliud vestimentum rubeum, videlicet unam casulam j albam cum amie’ stolâ, cingulo et phanone, et calice deaurato Residuum vero omnium bonorum meorum superius non legatorum do et lego executoribus meis supradictis, ut inde disponant prout eis melius videbitur pro animâ meâ expedire.” It is not improbable that the testator’s funeral expenses had swallowed up the residue, as six oxen, twenty sheep, six quarters of wheat and ten of malt were ordered to be provided for the dinner, by his sister Margaret Fayrfax, the Prioress of Munkton, Sir Thomas Gerard knight, and his other executors, and all comers were to be welcome; so that nothing would be left for the Chantry. — Test. Ebor. part i. p. 186, Surtees Soc.

We have a glimpse of the state of public feeling on church matters in Liverpool shortly after the dissolution of the Chantries in the following presentment, as well as in the adjudication upon it:

“July 26, 1564. Before the Reverend father in God William (Downham) Bishop of Chester and his Vicar, appeared Master Vane Thomasson, Curate of Leverpole, and John Pemb’ton, Warden of the same, and the Bishop enjoined that they and th’other Churchwarden shall charge the people that they use noe beades, and that the Cur’ mynister the Sacraments and Sacramentalls according to the Boke of Com’on praier, and that the Churchward’ at the costes of the p’ishioners do p’vide a paraphrese of Erasmus before the feste of All Saints, and that they shall abolish and utterlie extirpate all man’ of Idolatrie and Sup’sti’on out of their said church imedyately, and yf

¹⁹ There were two Chantries in the Church of Huyton, the first, dedicated to the B. Virgin Mary, was founded by John de Winwick, clerk, one of the most active and distinguished churchmen of his day, and a native of North Lancashire. He was Chaplain to King Edward III., Warden of the Chapel of Clitheroe Castle, Rector of Wigan, and Treasurer of York Minster (Raine's MS. Fasti Eborac.) and also held stalls at Lichfield, Salisbury, Wells and Chichester. — (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. ii. p. 116.)
 He was likewise Prebendary of the Prebend of All Saints in Hungate in the Cathedral of Lincoln, 21st December 1347, which he exchanged for the Mastership of St.

Thomas' Hospital, Marlboro', with Henry de Blackburn.—(Ibid. vol. ii. p. 99.) On November 27, 1342, he occurs as Deputy-constable of the Tower of London, (Fœdera, vol. ii. p. 1215.) On June 20, 1345, he had letters of protection to go abroad with the King.—(Ibid. vol. iii. p. 48.) On the 28th June 1351, he was made one of the commissioners to meet at Newcastle-on-Tyne to treat for peace with Scotland.—(Ibid. vol. iii. p. 225.) In July, 1352, the Dean and Chapter of York sent him to the King to announce Archbishop Zouche's death, and to obtain his license to enable them to elect the Archbishop's successor. On April 2, 1357, and January 30, 1358, being then Treasurer of York, he was sent to parliament as one of the representatives of the Chapter, and in the month of October, 1359, he occurs as Keeper of the King's Privy Seal.—(Ibid. vol. iii. 452; Raine's MS. Fasti Eborac.) There was something inauspicious connected with his presentation to the Parsonage of Wigan by Edward III. On the 4th ides (12th) March 1349, he obtained a commission for institution from Roger Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, but he found that the patronage was disputed, and that the crown had a powerful claimant in Sir Robert de Langton knight, in right of marriage with the heiress of the Banastres, Barons of Newton, who had long been seized of the advowson, and had exercised the right of patronage, now infringed by the crown. During the litigation which ensued the Rectory was held for John de Winwick by Henry de Chaddesden Canon of Lichfield.*—(Reg. Northburgh, Lichf. vol. v.) On the 20th February, 24 Edward III. 1350, the king, by his letters to the Bishop, stated that he had established his right to the patronage of the Rectory against Sir Robert de Langton, and that the verdict was on record.—(Ibid.) The king again nominated his "beloved Clerk, John de Wynwyk," to the benefice, and commanded the Bishop to grant institution; but the Bishop did not obey the royal fiat, and letters patent for Winwick's institution were afterwards obtained, dated Windsor 26th April, 24 Edward III. 1351 (Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. iii. part ii. p. 243 note), and he was ultimately canonically instituted. This legal decision was afterwards reversed, and the Lang-

* Venerabilis vir Magister Henricus de Chaddesden, legum Doctor, was, like his friend John de Winwick, a notorious pluralist. He was Archdeacon of Lincoln and Leicester, Canon of Lichfield, and Prebendary of St. Paul's, London, and of Lincoln. He founded a Chantry in the Chapel of Chaddesden, in the diocese of Lichfield, on the 3rd ides September 1347, in honour of the B. V. M., the Chaplain to pray for the soul of King Edward III. when he shall depart this life; for the souls of the said Master Henry de Chaddesden, of Richard and Agnes, his father and mother; and of all his ancestors souls; for the souls of Nicholas de Chaddesden, Archdeacon of Lincoln and Prebendary of Lichfield and Lincoln, his uncle; of Cecilia his sister; of Geoffrey de Chaddesden his brother; of William de Horsham, late Abbot of Dale; of Sir Henry de Lande, Chaplain; and for the souls of his relatives, parishioners, friends and benefactors, living or dead. The fees of his lands were Richard and Geoffrey de Chaddesden, Clerks.—(Reg. Northburgh, Lichf.) He ob. 8th May 1354, and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral, London. On the 7th of May 1300 Dom. Richard de Chaddesden, presbyter, was collated to the Vicarage of Whalley, in the county of Lancaster, by Bishop Roger Langton, per lapsu, who mentions the zeal, activity and devotedness of his nominee.—*Reg. tons' right confirmed, a Grant and Confirmation of the Advowson of Wygan Church being issued from the Court of the Duchy in the year 1356, and also letters of protection granted to various persons whilst with the Duke of Lancaster in the king's service in Brittany. — (Baines' Hist. Lanc. vol. i. p. 346.) In the year 1358 John de Winwick complained in the Duchy Court against certain of his parishioners, who were styled "malefactors," because they resisted his bailiffs in the performance of their duties within his manor of Wigan; and the duke issued his mandate to the sheriff and justices to investigate the charges. — (Ibid. p. 347.) On the 6th ides (10th) July 1359 the Rectory was vacated by his death. On January 11, 1360, his executors were summoned before the Chapter at York to make reparation for the loss of the great bell belonging to the Minster, which had fallen down and was broken through the neglect of Winwick and his officers. As Treasurer he was bound to take the charge of it, and the imputation of negligence implies that he had been frequently absent from the post of duty. — Raine's MS. Fasti Eborac.

The second Chantry, dedicated to St. Michael the Archangel, was founded by Richard de Winwick, Clerk, nephew of the king's Chaplain. It is probable that in early life he was connected with the Priory of Burscough (here mis-spelt Bristol), as the appropriation of the Rectory of Huyton was acquired by that house from Robert de Latham in the twelfth century, and a Vicarage ordained in the year 1277, (Lanc. MSS. vol. xi. p. 232, E. Lib. Couch. Burscogh, fo. 67, Duch. Lanc.), and the Prior and Convent presented to the vicarage until the dissolution of their house. He was presented to the Rectory of Walton on the Hill by the Abbot and Convent of St. Peter of Salop, and on the 18th kal. February 1356 the Bishop of Lichfield granted him a dispensation as Rector of Walton and a Subdeacon only, to absent himself from his parish for one year to pursue his studies. — (Reg. Northburgh, Lichf., p. 15.) And on 8th kal. February 1357 he obtained a renewal of his dispensation for two years to study, and to receive the fruits of the Church of Walton, but to make due provision for the Cure. — (Ibid.) In the 36 Edw. III. 1362, he gave to the Provost and Scholars of Oriol College, Oxford, the advowson of the Church of Radclyffe super Soar, for the support of certain poor scholars. — (Cal. Inq. ad quod. Damn. p. 333.) Richard de Winwick succeeded Henry de Blackburn after the year 1374 in the Prebend of Langford Ecclesia in Lincoln Cathedral, which he exchanged for North Kelsey 17th June 1377. — (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. ii. p. 197.) He exercised the patronage of his uncle's Chantry at Huyton in the years 1384 and 1391, and dying in 1405 was buried in Lincoln Cathedral. — (Ibid.) After his death his kinsman Mr. William Winwyek, Clerk, presented to the Chantry founded by the Rector of Wigan at Huyton. He exchanged the Wardenship of Sturbridge Hospital, near Cambridge, for the Prebend of Gretton in Lincoln Cathedral in 1407, and in the same year exchanged his stall for the Rectory of Dereham in Norfolk.—Ibid. vol. ii. p. 152.

These Chuntries, before the 15 Henry VI. had become vested in the family of Assheton of Croston, probably by descent from Pemberton and Winwick, which continued to exercise the patronage for nearly a century. In the beginning of the sixteenth century Thomas Assheton Esq. instituted legal proceedings in the Duchy Court against Thomas Hesketh Esq. and others, as feoffees, for tortuous possession of "the Chantry," and advowson of Huyton Church; and having recovered his right, probably to both Chuntries, died seized of the same 21 Henry VIII. 1530.—Inq. post. mort.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed at Huyton, "de duabus Cantar' ib'm ex fundatione Joh'is Winweke," for tenths xxiii^s iiiii^d, and for the subsidy xxj^s. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

At Bishop Bird's Visitation "Call" in 1547 it is probable that there were two other Chantry Priests here, viz., "D'n's Thomas Robinson ex stipendio Uxoris et relictæ P'cevalli harington et aliorum," and "D'n's homfridus plumpton Conduct, pro thoma' torboke armig'um." The Haringtons of Huyton Hey were relatives of the Asshetons. The widow of Percival Harington Esq. was Ann, only daughter of Henry Norres of Speke Esq., and her son John Harington of Huyton Hey married Alice, daughter of Thomas Torbock Esq. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.; Ormerod's Miscell. Palat.) In 1548 Robert Standishe, aged 57, and William Prescott, aged 64, were the Incumbents of the Winwick Chuntries, as stated in the text, and the town and parish of Huyton contained "Howselinge people v^c." — *E. lib. ²⁰ This Chantry, dedicated to St. Thomas à Becket, was founded in the Parish Church of Childwall by Thomas Norres of Speke Esq., eldest son of William Norres of the same Esq., and of his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Sir James Harrington knight (marr. cov. dated 1 Henry V.) In the year 1446, 24 Henry VI., he is styled "son and heir apparent" of his father in the covenants made on his marriage with Lettice, daughter and heiress of Thomas Norres, of the first line of Norres of West Derby. According to his post mortem inquisition, taken at Lancaster 29th April 1503, 18 Henry VII., he died in the year 1487, 3 Henry VII., seized of the manor of Speke and of lands &c. in Formby and Derby, his eldest son, Sir William Norres, being aged 28 years at the time of his father's death. — (Ormerod's Miscell. Palat. p. 28.) On the 11th November 1496 he was a party, along with the Prior and Convent of St. Thomas the Martyr of Holland, to the presentation of Mr. John Merton, Chaplain, to the Rectory of Childwall, then vacant by the death of Richard Day, L.B. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) On the 2nd May 1504 Henry Hill, Capell, was instituted to the Chantry of St. Thomas the Martyr, of Childwall, on the presentation of Sir William Norres knight, vacant by the death of Holme, the last Incumbent. — (*Reg. ²² This Chantry, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, was founded in the Parish Church of Ormskirk by Peter Gerard, son and heir apparent of Sir Thomas Gerard of Bryn knight, the head of one of the most chivalrous houses in the county, by his wife Dulcia, daughter of Sir Thomas Assheton of Assheton-under-Lyne.—(Lanc. MSS. vols. iii. and xii.) Peter Gerard died in his father's lifetime, on the 19th June 1492, having married Margaret, sole daughter of Sir William Stanley of Hooton knight, by his first wife Margaret, daughter and heiress of Sir John Bromley knight, by whom he had issue Sir Thomas Gerard, the heir and successor of his grandfather.—Ibid.

Although Peter Gerard founded this Chantry at Ormskirk, where he had property and probably dwelt, he was buried at Winwick, where his family had a Chantry Chapel, which having no permanent foundation is unnoticed by any of the Royal Commissioners. The following inscription on brass was placed over his remains at Winwick :

"Here lieth Peers Gerard Esquyer sone and heire of Thomas Gerard knyghte of the Bryne whych married Margaret daughter to William Stanley of Hoton knyghte and one of the heires of John Bromley knyghte whych died the xix daie of June the yere of our lorde M.CCCCLXXXII, on whose soule God haue mercy. ²⁴ This Chantry, dedicated to "our Ladie of pitie," the B. Virgin Mary, within the Church of Ormskirk, was founded by Thomas Atherton of Bickerstaffe Esq., who died 7 Henry VIII. (Inq. post. mort.); and who charged certain lands with a payment of iiiij^d xiiii^d iiiij^d for a priest to celebrate here for the souls of himself and his ancestors, but covenanted with his trustees that if his heirs failed to pay the said annuity to the priest of his Chantry, the lands should descend to others named, to the like intent; and if they failed, then to the right heirs of the founder, to the like intent; "which profits, rents and issues as farr as we can understand is thole p^rfitts of the lande put in feoffm^t and as also it shulde appere by the declarac^on of thuse therof." — (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) The founder was the son and heir of Henry, and grandson of Nicholas Atherton, whose mother was Jane, daughter and heiresse of Adam de Bickerstaffe, living 50 Edward III. Henry de Bickerstaffe, the father of Adam, was knight of the shire of Lancaster A.D. 1339, 13 Edward III. (Baines' Hist. Lanc. vol. i. p. 302), and frequently occurs as an attesting witness, and in public commissions during that reign. Nicholas Atherton, the grandfather of the founder of this Chantry, was the eldest son of a distinguished sire bearing both his names, who was the son of Sir William Atherton of Atherton, knight of the shire of Lancaster

47 Edward III. 1374, and of his wife Joan, daughter of Sir William Moberley knight. He was of Bickerstaffe jure uxoris, and his son and heir Nicholas, like several members of his family, was returned knight of the shire 2 Henry IV. (Baines, vol. i. p. 314), and dying 19 Henry VI. 1440, left a son Henry, aged nine years, his successor. (Lanc. MSS. vols. iii. p. 252, xii.; Baines, vol. i. p. 307.) In the year 1516, on the death of Thomas, the son and heir of Henry, the last named head of the house, his manor of Bickerstaffe and other extensive estates in Lancashire passed with his sole daughter and heiress Margaret, aged 30 years at the taking of her father's P. M. I. in 7 Henry VIII., to her husband James Scarisbrick, second son of Scarisbrick of Scarisbrick, the representative of an ancient and influential family. Elizabeth Scarisbrick, an only daughter, was the issue of the marriage, and she conveyed the estate "by distaff," to Peter Stanley Esq., second son of Sir William Stanley of Hooton knight. — (Harl. MS. 1549, fo. 143 b.: Add. MS. 12477, fo. 31. See also his will, proved at Chester 7th August 1592, Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, part ii. p. 282.) Margaret, daughter of Peter Stanley of Bickerstaffe and Moor Hall Esq., the sole heiress of her mother Elizabeth Scarisbrick, of her grandmother Margaret Atherton, and heir general of the Bickerstaffes, conveyed her large estates in marriage 26th September 1563 to Henry Stanley Esq., son of Sir James Stanley of Cross Hall knight, brother of Thomas second Earl of Derby. — (Ibid.) Henry Stanley Esq. made his will 20th July 1598, and was buried "in the Atherton Chapel" in Ormskirk Church 23rd July 1598 (Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, part ii. p. 95), and an elaborate account of the order of his magnificent funeral is preserved in the Lanc. MSS. from the original at Worden Hall in the hand writing of his kinsman and executor, William ffarrington Esq., Comptroller of the Households of Edward and Henry, Earls of Derby. He was the father of Sir Edward Stanley, the first baronet, and the direct male ancestor of the now Earl of Derby, Baron Stanley of Bickerstaffe K.G. &c. In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the "Cantaria apud Ormskirk ex fundacione Thome Atherton," for tenths ix^s iiiii^d and for the subsidy viii^s vii^d. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

²⁵ (Page 101.) Edward the Sixth's Chantry Commissioners returned Humfrey Jackson as Incumbent of this altar, aged 54 years, having the clear yearly revenue of his Chantry, and no other living. — (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) At Bishop Bird's visitation in 1547, "Dom. Homfridus Jaeson" was a Chaplain at Ormskirk, but his altar is not named (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.); and in 1553 a pension of 3*l.* 18*s.* was paid to "Humphrey Jackson, Priest of St. Peter's Chantry, Ormskirk" (Willis's Hist. Mitr. Abb. vol. ii. p. 108), and not of the Chantry of "our Ladie of Pitie." The Chantry Priests appear to have been very migratory, and sometimes, as in this instance, it is not easy to fix their altars with precision. As Jackson was still a Clerk at Ormskirk in 1562, and answered Bishop Downham's visitation "Call" in that year, he had conformed and remained as Curate (Lanc. MS. 352, fo. 91 a; Baines) enabled him to have a Curate. We may charitably hope that, like Cowley, Jackson was,

"With decent poverty content,
 His hours of ease not idly spent,
 To fortune's goods a foe profess'd,
 And, hating wealth, by all caress'd."

On the 17th June 1544, in the Cathedral Church of Chester, at a special Ordination held there by Bishop Bird, that prelate ordained "Dom. John Raynford an Acolyte and Subdeacon, on the title of Mr. Peter Standley, Esquyer," of the same diocese; and in the following year, on the same nomination, he was ordained both Deacon and Priest. — (Lib. Ordin. apud Cestr.)

At the same Bishop's visitation "Call" in 1547, the following answered from "Ormskyrk:":

Dom. Jacobus Shurlacurs ex stipendio Elisei Ambrose Vic.
 Dom. Joh'es Doland Conduct' p' Petrū Standleye Arm'.

lifetime by Thomas second Lord Stanley and first Earl of Derby K.G., Lord Steward of the Household of Edward IV. His first wife was Cousin-german of the king, being the Lady Eleanor, sister of the great Earl of Warwick. He afterwards became the husband of Margaret Beaufort, mother of Henry VII., and died in 1504. It seems more than probable that this Chantry was founded on the death of his gallant son George, Lord Strange K.G., returned knight of the shire of Lancaster, along with Sir James Harington, 17 Edward IV. 1477, who died 5th December 1497 at Derby House in London (now the Herald's College), and was buried near his mother, the Lady Eleanor, in the Church of St. James Garlick-hithe. He had summons to Parliament by the title of Lord Strange jure uxoris 22 Edward IV., and to the time of his death, having married Jane, daughter and heir of John Lord Strange of Knokyn, by Jacquetta his wife, daughter of Richard Wydevile Earl Rivers, and one of the seven coheireses of her brother Richard, third and last Earl Rivers (of that line), her eldest sister being Elizabeth, Queen of Edward IV. Lady Strange died 20th March 1513-14. In one of the windows at Worden Hall (formerly at ffarington) there is a singular heraldic badge borne by Sir George Stanley Lord Strange. On very thick glass, the glazing being of the time of Henry VII., is the Eagle's Gamb or, charged with a Lion passant, argent. This instance of the bearing is supposed to be unique. The Eagle's claw of the Torboks was long recognized as a Stanley badge, but the Lion was not charged upon it, nor in any way associated with it. The arms of Strange of Knokyn were, gules, two Lions passant, argent; and a crest, ascribed to the Strange of Knokyn line, on a Chapeau, gules, turned up ermine, a Lion statant, argent. The single Lion passant, argent, was obviously an addition for Strange to the ancient Stanley badge, and had been assumed during his lifetime by George Lord Strange, as the glazing bears unquestionable marks of antiquity.—Inf. T. W. King Esq., F.S.A., York Herald.

This Chantry, or another at the same altar, in 1548 was attributed to "Thomas Earl of Derby, Hamlet Atherton and others," but the share of each in the foundation, or in the separate foundations, is not recorded.—Lib. B. Duch. Lanc. Hamnet Atherton was a scion of the house of Bickerstaffe in Ormskirk, who has escaped the notice of the genealogists. He was a member of the great household of Thomas first Earl of Derby, and probably the Comptroller. In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the "Cantaria in ecclesia de Ormeskirke, ex fundacione Comit^{is} Derby, Hamleti Atherton et aliorum," for tenths viii^s v^d q^d and for the subsidy vi^s viii^d ob.—Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

At Bishop Bird's visitation in 1547 "D'n's William Standley and D'n's William Rogerson" were "Conducts pro Comite de Derby," at Ormskirk.—(Ibid.) On January 24, 1553-4, Mr. William Rogerson was presented to the Rectory of Ashton-under-Lyne by Sir Thomas Stanley Knt., son of Edward Earl of Derby, pro hac vice,

²⁸ This Chantry was founded in the new Chapel of Lathom by Thomas second Earl of Derby, by deed dated the 27th April 1500. Geoffrey Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, by letter dated at the Priory of St. Thomas the Martyr, near Stafford, on the 31st of October 1509, and in the seventh year of his consecration, addressed to the noble and excellent Sir Thomas Stanley Earl of Derby, after wishing him health, grace and benediction, proceeds to state "that the Chapel and Cemetery within your Hospital near Lathom, newly built, piously and gratefully founded, and consecrated to the glory of God and the use of the surrounding neighbourhood by the Reverend Father in Christ Huan, by the grace of God and of the Apostolic See, Bishop of Zoder (Sodor and Man) or by some other Catholic Pontiff, rightly and canonically consecrated, in order that sacraments and sacramentals may be offered in the same for the benefit of the poor and other inhabitants thereabouts by some honest secular Chaplain, who shall be regularly appointed and minister there for the future, which we canonically sanction, as far as we can, provided that nothing herein is done to the prejudice of the Church of Ormskyrk by the said Chapel, which is notoriously situated within that parish and the limits of the Prior and Convent of Burscogh. And hereunto Thomas, Prior of the said Church, grants his consent, provided always that if it should hereafter happen that the said Prior and Convent shall be deprived of any tithes, oblations, obventions, emoluments or any ecclesiastical rights by the afore-named Chapel, then we will and decree on that account, and as often as the same shall happen, that the Dean of the said Chapel shall subject it to an interdict, which shall continue until satisfaction in the premises is made to the said Prior and Convent." — Reg. Blythe, Lichf. p. 95.

The origin of this foundation has escaped the researches of all our local and county historians, and baffled the scrutiny of the Royal Chantry Commissioners as well as the Charity Commissioners of a more recent period. It is a singular instance of a foundation, which provided a Chantry Priest to say masses for the souls of the founder and his ancestors, and which endowed bedesmen to discharge a similar obligation, being allowed to continue in the midst of the hurricane which ruthlessly and indiscriminately swept away kindred institutions; and its preservation can only be attributed to the favour and almost regal power, as well as to the vacillating policy of that subtle Lancashire statesman Edward, the third Earl of Derby, who amidst all the convulsions of the times retained the favour and apparently the confidence of his royal kindred, Henry and Edward, Mary and Elizabeth. He could probably say, Ego et Rex meus have decreed the existence of this Chantry. The noble founder of the Chantry and Hospital of Lathom died on the 23rd May 1521, and was buried at Sion Abbey in the county of Middlesex, having married Anne, daughter of Edward second Lord Hastings and Hungerford, and sister of George first Earl of Huntingdon. — Brydges' Collins, vol. iii. p. 69.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed "de Cantaria apud novam capellam de Lathom ex fundacione Thome Standleye nuper Comitis Derby," for tenths viii^s viii^d and for the subsidy vii^s ix^d ob. q'. — (*Lanc. Roberte Parkinson pⁱste Incumbent the^r of the ffounda^{co}n Chantry of Margaret Bukley to celebrate the^r for the sowlez of ^{Priest} hir and hir antecessors.

²⁹ This Chantry, dedicated to the B. Virgin Mary, was founded in Sefton Church by Margaret, daughter of Sir Richard Molyneux of Sefton knight, one of the Ushers of the Privy Chamber to Henry VI. and Constable of the Castle of Liverpool. He fell fighting under Lord Audley in the Lancastrian army, and surrounded by all the horrors of civil war, at Blore Heath on the 21st February 1459:

..... Drayton's Polyolbion, song xxii.

He left issue by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas first Baron Stanley and sister of Thomas first Earl of Derby K.G., two sons and three daughters. — (Visit. Lanc. A^o 1567 D. 3, 82, in Coll. Arm.) The founder of this Chantry was closely connected with ecclesiastics. She was the niece of Dr. John Molyneux, Rector of Sefton and Prebendary of Lichfield (see p. 80 ante), the sister of Mr. James Molyneux, Archdeacon of Richmond, who was instituted to the Rectory of Sefton 22nd March 1489 (Reg. Hales, Lichf.), and the aunt of Mr. Edward Molyneux B.D., who also held the family living of Sefton and founded the Chantry referred to in the next return of the Commissioners.

She was twice married, and died an aged woman on the 21st February 1528, according to the following inscription on a brass still remaining in her Chantry (Baines, vol. iv.):

An inscription now or lately remaining on the middle south-window of the church invoked prayers for "Margett Bulcley whose goodnes caused this window to be made of the will of S^r Robt. p'kynson executor to the said Margett, the yere of o' lord 1543." Her grandfather Sir Richard had distinguished himself as a warrior at Agincourt, and her great uncle Sir Robert Molyneux having succeeded to the property of his brother Adam, Bishop of Chichester, appears from the following singular record to have been distinguished in another field: "August 4, 1448, An Indulgence of one hundred days, for a year, to raise 1008 ducats for the ransom of Sir Robert Molyneux knight, who has been taken prisoner in a battle with the Saracens and Turks whilst fighting for the Cross. He has been sold as a Captive to serve most cruel men, and confined in a Castle called Tophan, in bondage to the Great Marrot, who calls himself the Lord of all Turkey. They have tried in vain by every kind of torture to oblige him

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the "Cantaria ibidem (Sefton) ex fundacione Margarete Buckleye," for tenths viii^s and for the subsidy vii^s ii^d ob. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

The Chantry Commissioners in 1548 returned "Robert Parkynson of thage of 64 years" as the Incumbent (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.); and he appears to have been the Confessor, Chaplain, and Executor of the founder of the Chantry.

two high historical families. By deed dated 1st June 27 Henry VIII. he gave the Chantry to the Incumbent for the term of his life, reserving the remainder to himself and his heirs, but to what use was not stated. By another deed dated 24th July 1535 he released all his right and title to the Chantry to the Incumbent, and to his heirs for ever, but again omitted to describe the uses. — (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) This was clearly an intentional act, and is an instance of a founder seeking, with some adroitness, to prevent his endowment sharing the fate of the religious houses.

He succeeded his uncle James Molyneux B.D., the Archdeacon of Richmond, in the Rectory of Sefton, being instituted thereto on the 15th October 1509, on the presentation of William Molyneux Esq. — (Reg. Blythe, Lichf.) The date of his institution and the time of his death are both erroneous in Baines's Hist. Lanc. vol. iv. p. 211.

On the 28th April 1516 he was presented to the Vicarage of Leyland by the Abbot and Convent of Evesham, on the death of Seth Wodeoke, the last Vicar. — (Reg. Blythe, Lichf.) At this time he was also Rector of Ashton-under-Lyne, having succeeded John Honford LL.B., who had been instituted in the year 1505. — (Lanc. MSS.) On the 13th July 1528 he was appointed Rector of Walton-on-the-Hill by Sir William Molyneux knight, and the Bishop of Lichfield required him to enter into a covenant, confirmed on oath, that he would pay out of his living 80*l.* a year during life to Mr. Richard Dudley, who had resigned the benefice in his favour, having held it twenty-three years, or "as long as he (the Rector) should be employed in worldly affairs." — (Reg. Blythe, Lichf.) In 1521 Sir Edward Molyneux, parson of Sefton, was appointed an executor of the will of Thomas second Earl of Derby. — (Test. Vetusta, vol. ii. p. 590.) On the 7th October 1524, Peers Legh of Lyme Esq. (son and heir of Sir Peers Legh "knight and priest") to remove from his father's mind any doubt as to the execution of his will after death "of his awne mynd ꝛ wyll ꝛ desire to thentent that Sr Peris his Fader shuld neither think nor put any mistrust in him, and to confirm the same more assuredly, hath made hys confession unto his kinsman Mr. Edward Molenex, Clerk, and cōtyment upon the form hath deposed upon the Holy Evangelists, and afterwards hath receyved the Holy Sacrament oꝝ Lord's body, in forme of Brede, that he shall neu' doe that thyng nor p'cure to be done, nor non od' in his name nor tytyle by his good wyll nor consent against the execuc'on of his Fader's will. And he signed this indenture and made his bodely oath and used the Sacrament of the Altar this day in the Chapell of Bradley in the p'sence of Sr Alex' Radclyffe, the said Master Edward Molyneux P'son of Sefton, John Holcroft Squyre, James Dombyll Squyre, Gowther Legh gent., Robert Ardern gent., Richard Kyghley, Brian Morecroft, Thomas Levyns, and William Hatch, Priests, and many others." — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 447.

On the 14th July 1528 Mr. Edward Molyneux Rector of Sefton, Sir William Leyland knight, and Richard Cholmeley Esq., the executors of the will of James Brad-shaigh of Uplitherland Esq., presented Mr. Brian Morecrofte to the Rectory of Aghton (Reg. Blythe, Lichf.); and by indenture, dated 28th February 1530, the Abbot and Convent of Whalley granted to Edward Molineux, Clerk, parson of Sefton, and Brian Morecrofte, clerk, parson of Aghton, the Grange of Alton in Sefton, with all lands, &c., for a term of nineteen years, paying yearly 2l. 13s. 4d.—(Whalley Coucher Book, App. vol. iv. p. 1214.)

In the 22 Henry VIII. 1531, Thomas (afterwards Sir Thomas) Halsall of Halsall, son of the founder of the next-named Chantry, brought an action in the Duchy Court against Sir Edward Molyneux, Rector of Sefton, and others, for an illegal levy of americiament, upon escape of felons in Halsall, Downholland and Formby (Cal. Plead.), so that the Rector was probably in the commission of the peace, and was either a litigious man or had litigious neighbours, as he frequently appears in the Court of the Duchy, now prosecuting, now being prosecuted. He died about September in the year 1535, in which year his three vacant rectories were filled up by the respective patrons.

In 1535 the Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the "Cantaria apud Sephton, ex fundacione Edwardi Mollenex," for tenths viii^s and for the subsidy vii^s ii^d ob.—Lanc MSS. vol. xxii.

³¹ (Page 111.) In 1547, at Bishop Bird's diocesan visitation, Mr. Anthony Molyneux appeared as the Rector, and "Dom. Thomas Kyrkebye" (set. 47 in the next year) and "Dom. Robert Parkenson" were the Chantry Priests of Sefton.—(Lib. Visit. apud Cestr.) In 1548, the howselinge people of the town and parish amounted to ix^c.—(Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) Thomas Kirkby, priest, 22 Henry VIII. was accused by Sir Thomas Halsall and by some of his tenants within the manor of Halsall, of "extortion for spiritualities;" but, instead of the charge being investigated by the ecclesiastical authorities, it was taken into the secular Court of the Duchy (Cal. Plead. p. 144), as the time for Church privileges and exemptions was passing away. And in the 27 Henry VIII. the same Kirkby brought an action in the Duchy Court against Richard Smyth LL.B., Rector of Bury (the Pope's Pardoner in Lancashire), and Thomas Mosoke, to try the issue of his claim to the administration of the goods and chattels of Sir Edward Molyneux, Clerk, under letters "Ad colligendum" from the Archbishop of Canterbury, detained by the official of Chester.—(Cal. Plead. p. 182.) Afterwards, but s.d., Brian Marcroft, priest, who died Rector of Aughton in 1548, brought his action against Thomas Kyrkebye, priest, and Richard Smith, Clerk, parson of Bury, representatives of Sir Edward Molyneux, Clerk, deceased, late parson of Sefton, being a disputed claim of debt upon obligation, as surety for the deceased, to the Prior of Burscough.—Ibid. p. 209.

³² This Chantry of our Lady the Virgin was founded in the Church of Halsall by Sir Henry Halsall Knt., the manerial owner and also patron of the advowson of Halsall. He was the son and heir of Hugh Halsall Esq. and of his wife Douce, daughter of Gilbert Scarisbrick of Scarisbrick Esq.; grand-nephew of Sir Henry Halsall Knight of the Shire of Lancaster 38 and 39 Henry VI. (Harl. MSS. 1437, fo. 59; Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.; Baines, vol. i. p. 315); and the direct descendant of Oto, son of Gilbert de Halsall, who in the reign of Edward II. held the manor of Halsall under William le Botiller lord of Warrington, the said William paying to his superior lord for Halsall at the feast of the Nativity of our Saviour one pound of cummin seed, a silver penny, and a farthing. — (Lanc. MSS.) The founder seems to have been closely connected with the Stanleys of Lathom and Knowsley. He was steward of the household, “a trustie friend,” and one of the executors of the will of Thomas the second Earl of Derby, and married Margaret, daughter of James Stanley D.D., Bishop of Ely (see p. 28 ante), by whom he had issue six sons and four daughters. — (Visit. Lanc. A^o 1567, D. 3, 82, in Coll. Arm.; Stanley Papers, part ii. p. 116 note.) He died in the year 1523, and not, as erroneously stated in Cal. Inq. Post Mort. p. 23, 14 Henry VII., as in the year before his decease he proved the will of his master, Thomas Earl of Derby (Test. Vetust. vol. ii. p. 590); and in the 19 Henry VIII., as Sir Henry Halsall Knt., he entered his suit in the Court of the Duchy against Sir William Molyneux Knt. and Sir Edward Molyneux, Clerk (the founder of the last named Chantry), and others, for an alleged trespass on his lands at Lydgate, a member of the Warrington fee. — Cal. Plead. p. 135.

In 1535 the Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the “Cantaria apud Halsall ex fundacione Henrici Halsall Milit.” for tenths viij^s and for the subsidy vij^s ij^d ob. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

³³ On the 2nd May 1528 Dom. Thomas Norreys A.B. was presented to the Vicarage of Walton-on-the-Hill on the death of Ralph Radclyffe, Clerk, by Mr. Richard Dudley S.T.P. the Rector. — (Reg. Blythe, Lichf.) He was still there at Bishop Bird's Visitation in 1547. — Liber Visit. Cestr.

At the Dissolution the sum of 2*l.* 4*s.* 5*d.* was made payable to the Duchy of Lancaster from the Chantry of the Blessed Virgin Mary at Halsall.

The Chantry at the alter of Saynt Nicholas

Henrie Halsall³⁵ preiste incumbent theŕ of the founda^on of Chantry the said S^r Henrie Halsall knight to celebrate theŕ for the Priest sowleꝝ of hime and Sir Henrie Molleneux preist.

³⁴ This Chantry, dedicated to St. Nicholas, was founded on the south side of the chancel of Halsall Church by Sir Henry Halsall Knt. seneschal of the Earl of Derby's household, in conjunction with Sir Henry Molyneux, Priest. The latter was probably a member of the Melling house of Molyneux. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.) He was living at the death of Sir Henry Halsall in 1523.

The well-endowed Rectory was generally held by a member of the family, and at least on one occasion by an Acolyte, who did not obtain Priests' orders until after a probation of five years. Henry, afterwards Sir Henry Halsall, the co-founder of this Chantry, on the 2nd June 1495 presented his brother Hugh Halsall to the Rectory then vacant by the death of Mr. Edmund ffaryngton the last Parson; and the said Hugh took an oath on the Holy Evangelists that he would pay a pension of xx^{li} sterling, for five years next following, to Dom. James Straytbarell, Chaplain, of Halsall, for and on behalf of one Nicholas Gartside, patron for one turn, and also 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* a year to the said James during his natural life, by the appointment and limitation of the Rev. Father in this case made. — (Reg. Smith, Lichf.) On the 23rd September 1497 Hugh Halsall an Acolyte was ordained a Sub-deacon secular, on the title of his benefice, by the Bishop of Lichfield; afterwards Deacon's orders were conferred, and he was at length admitted to the order of the Priesthood by the Bishop of Panaden, Spiritual Commissary of John, Bishop of Lichfield, on the 13th June 1500. — (Ibid., Liber Ordin.) Hugh Halsall died Rector in the year 1513, and his brother Sir Henry Halsall Knt., then at Lathom, presented Richard Halsall, Clerk, his third son, to the living, he being instituted on the 12th April in the same year. In 1521 he was appointed, along with his father, an executor of the will of Thomas second Earl of Derby. — Test. Vetust. vol. ii. p. 590.

In 1528 Mr. Richard Halsall, the Rector, prosecuted his brother, afterwards Sir Thomas Halsall, at that time a Justice of the Peace for the county palatine, and officially connected with the establishment of his late relative Thomas Earl of Derby, on a claim to arrears of rent for tithes within the manor of Halsall (Cal. Plead. p. 136), and he afterwards brought an action against his nephew Henry Halsall Esq. to recover a messuage and lands in Halsall. — Ibid. p. 298.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Warrington assessed the "Cantaria apud Halsale ex fundacione dicti Henrici Halsall Milit. et D. Henrici Mollenex" for tenths vi^s v^d q^r, and for the subsidy v^s ix^d ob. q^r. — Ibid.

Arm.) In the preceding year the two brothers answered Bishop Bird's Visitation "Call" at Halsall. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

In the 1 and 2 Philip and Mary, Richard Halsall the Rector prosecuted John Spencer and others in the Duchy Court for forcible entry and tortuous possession of certain Chantry lands belonging to the Chantry of St. Nicholas in Halsall Church. — (Cal. Plead. p. 278.) In 1553 a pension of 3*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* was paid to Henry Halsall, Chantry Priest of St. Nicholas, Halsall. — (Willis's Hist. Mitr. Abb. vol. ii. p. 107.) He died in 1562, and was buried at Halsall. The will of his brother Richard is dated 7th August 1561 and was proved at Chester 1563. He retained his benefice and complied with all the various changes in religious doctrine, ritual and practice, which he had witnessed during an incumbency of fifty years, and died a rich man. — See Stanley Papers, part ii. p. 116, notes; *Lanc. and Chesh. Chantry
 Priest

³⁶ There were two Chantries in the Parish Church of Middleton, and both of them situated in the nave; the first, commonly called "the Rector's Chapel," dedicated to the B. Virgin Mary and St. Cuthbert, was founded by Thomas Langley, D.D., the Cardinal Bishop of Durham. This great prelate was not born at Agecroft, near Manchester (Baines's Lanc. vol. iii. p. 152), nor was he descended from an honourable family in the county of York (Surtees' Durham, vol. i. pp. 7 and 55), but from a family long resident at Langley in the parish, and probably descended from the feudal house, of Middleton. This family held the manor of the Earls of Lancaster, and the Langleys and Hopwoods bore almost the same arms, with a difference of tincture, both holding their lands within the same manor, and by the same tenure. Sir Roger de Middleton knight died without surviving issue male 16 Edward II. in the year 1323, leaving six daughters his coheireses. — (Inq. post mort. Lanc. MSS. vol. xiv. p. 1.) In January 1339 his relict Agnes, "domina de Middleton," presented a Rector to the Church (Reg. Northburgh, Lichf.), and on the 3 nones of June 1351, John of Gaunt presented William de Langley, Clerk, to the Rectory (Ibid.), and the benefice being avoided by his death, Ralph Barton of Rydale in the county of York Esq. exercised the patronage on the 4th September 1386, in right of his wife, the eldest daughter and coheirress of Roger and Agnes de Middleton. — (Reg. Scrope, Lichf.) It does not appear that Cardinal Langley ever held the living, but it seems probable that the Rector of his name was not remotely connected with him. Both were indebted for their promotion to the Duke of Lancaster, and both were retainers of that great house. Thomas Langley was educated at Cambridge, and in early life frequently occurs in connection with South Lancashire families, who appear to have entertained the highest opinion of his virtues, talents, and habits of business. On the 12th February 1395, he was appointed Rector of St. Alphage, London, which he resigned in the following year. — (Newcourt's Reper. vol. i. p. 260.) On the 24th September 1398, he was instituted to the Rectory of Castleford in the county of York, on the presentation of John Duke of Lancaster, and obtained a license for non-residence for three years, with permission to let out his benefice to farm.—(Raine's MS. Fasti Eborac.) On the 4th March 1400-1, he was collated to the prebend of South Newbold in York Minster (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. iii. p. 205), and in the following year was appointed Dean of York, when he vacated his stall of Gretton in Lincoln Cathedral.—Ibid. p. 124.

In the year 1405, on Archbishop Scrope's death, he was elected by the Chapter Archbishop of York, and obtained the royal assent to his election on the 8th August 1405, and the king wrote letters commendatory of him to the Pope, who notwithstanding set aside the election, and he was not installed.—(Ibid. vol. iii. p. 109.) In February 1405-6, he succeeded Cardinal Beaufort in the office of Chancellor of England, and filled that high office under three successive sovereigns.—Campbell's Lord Chanc. vol. i. p. 312.

Mr. Raine has published three letters addressed to the Chapter of York, of great interest, relating to Archbishop Scrope, in which the ability and discretion of Dean Langley, as a politician, are very conspicuous.—York Fabric Rolls, pp. 193-6, Surtees Soc.

On the 17th May 1406, he was elected Bishop of Durham, and consecrated by Arundel Archbishop of Canterbury on the 8th of August following.—(Le Neve, Hardy, vol. iii. p. 291.) He resigned the Great Seal on becoming Bishop of Durham, but received it again 23rd May 1417, and was confirmed in his high office by parliament 1 Henry VI. In 1411 Pope John XXIII. raised him to the rank of Cardinal, and he was "gratified by wearing the red hat." He took his place in the Sacred College, but did not visit Rome. The following would be a memorable year in the annals of Middleton, when as Cardinal, Prince Bishop of Durham, and Lord High Chancellor he obtained permission from John (Bourghill) Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry (who on the 22nd August 1412, granted and issued a licence to him) to visit and consecrate the Church of St. Leonard at Middleton, in the Diocese of Lichfield, "quam tam in opere lapideo quam in tectura arte mirifica et prepolita, vestris sumptibus, de novo totaliter constructa est," (as the Bishop states); and also to consecrate, at the same time, two altars in the nave, one dedicated to the B. Virgin Mary and St. Cuthbert, and the other to St. Chad and St. Margaret.—Reg. Langley, Durham.

In one of the windows on the north side of Middleton Church is a fine artistic head of an ecclesiastic, with a mitre and crozier, supposed to be a portrait of Bishop Langley, but more probably of St. Cuthbert, whom he honoured with many honours.

On the 1st June 1436, he prayed to be excused from attending the parliament at Lincoln, on account of his age, infirmities, and episcopal duties.—Raine's MS. Fasti Eborac.

His will is dated at his manor of Auckland on Friday, being the feast of St. Thomas the Apostle, 21st December 1436, and was proved 17th December 1437, the Bishop having died on the 20th November 1437, being the feast of St. Edmund the King and Martyr. His body was conveyed the next day, with great solemnity, to Durham in a car drawn by four horses, and was received by the Prior of the Cathedral in his pontificals, and by the Monks of the said Church, with great honour and reverence. The body was buried in the Chantry Chapel, which he had founded in the Galilee in his life time. — Reg. III. Eccles. Dunelm. fo. 216; Surtees, p. cxxxi.

His will proves that he was not unmindful of his Lancashire relatives and friends, nearly all of whom may be identified. He bequeathed 100*l.* in addition to what he had already given to purchase lands and tenements for the dotation of two Chaplains at the altar of B. V. Mary, founded by him in the Galilee of Durham Cathedral, to celebrate divine service there for ever, and which he gave to John Newton and John Thoraby, Priests. He gave to his sister Margaret 40*l.*, and to Henry de Langley one pot of silver gilt; to Thomas Holden for his good and faithful services, over and above what he was entitled to, xx*s.*, one pair of flasks silver gilt, and one bowl silver gilt, with a cover chased with the flower, columbine. To Dom. Nicholas Hulme for his good and faithful services xx marcs and my third bowl silver gilt, with a cover of the same (columbine) form. To Sir John Radcliff, treasurer of my house, for his good and faithful services, xxx marcs and one little cup of silver, gilt on the outside. To James Grenehalgh, for his good and faithful services, xx marcs, and my second best bowl with a cover, silver gilt. To Mr. Thomas Leys, Rector of Weremouth, my better cup, with one little cruet, and one pax bread. To John Bury one silver cup. To Dom. Richard Buckley xv marcs. Amongst his numerous legacies of books, he gives to John Radcliff, his treasurer, a Commentary upon St. Paul's Epistles. To John Newton, Rector of Bretby super Wiske, Diocese of York, a book called Pupilla Oculi. To the College of Mameceestre a book called Flores Bernardi. To Master William Blackburn a Commentary on Isaiah. To Peter Shakerley a horse valued at xl*s.*; the same to Richard Meadowcroft and William Langton. To James Chorley, Edward Prestwich, John Ireland, William Heighfeld, &c., each a horse valued at xxvi*s.* viii*d.* He also was a benefactor to the public libraries of Cambridge, Oxford, St. Mary's Leicester, York and Durham; and all his benefactions were liberal and numerous. He enjoined his executors to dispose of the residue of his estate in masses, alms, and works of charity, for the good of his soul, and nominated for that office William Bishop of Norwich, William Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, the noble and puissant Lords Richard Earl of Warwick and Richard Earl of Salisbury, the illustrious James Lord de Audley, his beloved in Christ James Strangways senior, Mr. Thomas Leys Rector of Weremouth, Dom. Nicholas Hulme Canon of the Collegiate Church of Darlington, and Dom. Richard Buckley Rector of St. Nicholas in the city of Durham, Thomas Holden Esq., James Grenehalgh Esq., Robert Strothe Esq., Dom. Richard Corston Chaplain, and Thomas Jobur of London Clerk — “quibus quidem executoribus meis sub Dei benedicione et mea specialiter injungo ut concordam inter se continue foveant et habeant ac in omnibus consiliis et actibus suis p'dct' testamentum concernentibus unanimes existant, sic namque Sanctus Cuthbertus patronus meus benedictus in ultimo vale seu testamento suo suis fratribus noscitur injunxisse.” — Reg. Kempe, Ebor. pp. 501-3.

Cardinal Langley was a great statesman and a great builder. He finished the Galilee in the west end of Durham Cathedral, and assisted in completing the cloisters. He founded schools, one for grammar and the other for music, at Durham, and also a Chantry. At Howden he erected the western gateway and a lodge adjoining. As his arms — paly of six, argent and vert — were on the tower of the old Church of Doncaster (Hunter's South Yorks. p. 439), he had obviously been a benefactor, and Middleton now recognizes in him her greatest son and a forgotten friend. He was the wise and moderate reformer of all religious and charitable foundations within his diocese (Surtees' Hist. of Durham, vol. ii. p. 310), and seems to have possessed the confidence, which he never abused, of all classes. He was an executor or supervisor of the wills of John of Gaunt in 1393, of Bishop Skirlaw in 1403, of Henry IV. in 1408, of Edward Duke of York in 1415, and deserves the character of having been a pious, learned and munificent prelate, notwithstanding his unhappy share in the sentence against Sir John Oldcastle Lord Cobham as a heretic, and he assuredly was not “an aspiring man who rose from obscurity to high offices in Church and State.” Campbell's Chanec. vol. i. p. 312.

The second Chantry, dedicated to St. Chad and St. Margaret, and consecrated by Cardinal Langley in 1412, has long been known as the Manerial Chapel, and is situated in the south-east corner of the nave. As Ralph Barton Esq., who held the manor in right of his mother, the oldest coheiress of the Middletons, died without issue in the year 1406, it seems not improbable that this Chantry was founded either by him, or in his honour, but not permanently endowed. — See Chetham Miscellanies, vol. i. “Cokey Moor,” p. 27, for a note of the BARTONS.

seu D'no Rob'to Mussebury presb'r ejusdem Eccl'ie ad inducend. Forma juramenti hæc est.—Neither to alienate, nor waste, nor to do an annual trental only, but to observe his foundation rule, to obey William the Bishop, and his successors, canonically, &c. &c.—Reg. Heyworth, Lichf. p. 26.

Notwithstanding this statement it is not probable that Nicholas Hulme, Canon of Ripon, who died in St. Mary's Abbey, York, in 1458, would be the founder of either of the Chuntries which were consecrated at Middleton in 1412. The words "hæc vice" intimate that he had merely a temporary connection with this Chantry, and that a presentation had been given to him or purchased by him, or what is more likely, that the Cardinal had conveyed to him, as one of his Chaplains and executors, the patronage during his life. He was a member of the family of Hulme of Hulme, in the parish of Manchester. His will is published in Testam. Ebor. vol. ii. p. 219, Surtees Soc., where, and in Longstaffe's Hist. of Darlington, p. 208, an account of the preferments of this "eminent ecclesiastic" may be seen.

³⁷ (Page 119.) Thomas Mawdsley was the Master of the Grammar School founded by Cardinal Langley, and also the Incumbent of his Chantry. It is not improbable, from a legacy being left by him to "Maister Nowell," that the Dean of St. Paul's and his learned brother Robert had been educated by him at Middleton.—(See Churton's Life of Alex. Nowell, p. 199.) If so, we know too little of his history.

Richard Bexwycke, Chaplain, by will dated 14th September 1534, gives to Sir Thomas Mawdsley and to three others, xvi^d each, to sing Dirige and Mass and to pray for his soule.—(Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, part ii. p. 145.) Richard Bexwycke was ordained an Acolyte secular at Lichfield 17th December 1496, and a Subdeacon secular 20th May 1497 ad titulum Monasterii de Kyrkstell.—(Reg. Arundel, Lichf.)

On the 24th November 1534 Thomas Mawdsley, Clerk, was presented by Robert Earl of Sussex and Viscount Fitzwalter to the Rectory of Radcliffe, vacant by the death of Richard Bexwycke (Reg. Lee, Lichf.; Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.), which benefice he resigned in April 1537, when the same patron presented Robert Assheton A.B., an Acolyte.—(Ibid.) On the 28th May, 1549, he made an entry in the register book of Middleton, and again on the 30th April, 1551, from which it appears that he still officiated at Middleton Church.—Ibid. vol. i. p. 340.

The Chantry in the chapell of Blakrode
 wthin the paroch of Bolton.³⁸

Rauf Forester preist incumbent thei of the ffounda^{co}n Chantry of James Harrington to celebrate thei for the sowlez of ^{Priest} hym and his anteceseors daly.

³⁸ This Chantry, in the Chapel of Blackrod, dedicated to St. Katharine the Virgin, was founded not by James Harrington, but in the year 1338 by Dame Mabella, the widow of Sir William de Bradeshaw knight, and in her own right the manorial owner of Blackrod, West Leigh and Haigh; for her welfare whilst she lived, and for her soul's health after death, and for the souls of Sir William de Bradeshaw knight, late her husband; for the souls of her father and mother, and all their ancestors' souls; and for the souls of all the faithful deceased. Having obtained the royal licence and assent, and also the sanction of Master Richard de Hauering, Archdeacon of Chester and Prebendary of the Prebend of Bolton-in-the-Mores, in the Cathedral Church of Lichfield, and also the consent of the Earl of Lancaster and Leicester, Seneschal of England, and of others, she, the said Mabella, gave in pure and perpetual alms to sustain a Chantry Priest to say divine service in the Chapel of Blessed Katharine the Virgin "de novo constructa infra Manerium de Blackrode," two messuages, sixty acres of land, eight acres of meadow, ten acres of wood, with their appurtenances in Blakerode, with turbary for the said messuages, to have and to hold to the said Chaplain and his successors for ever, saying divine service every day in the said Chapel of Blakerode for ever. The said Chaplain to make special mention of the name of the said Mabella in the celebration of mass; also to find chalices, books and vestments, and other necessaries pertaining to the same, freely and for the love of God. Neither shall the said Vicar, Prebendary or Church of Bolton alienate or remove any of the goods thereof for the use of others, which (she continues) I, the said Mabella, give, "ex parte Dei et B. V. Matris ejus et S'c'e Kat'rine virginis quatenus possuere." And the said Chaplain was bound to pay to his parish Church aforesaid all great tithes, oblations and obventions, according to the custom; and it was provided that the Chaplain should be nominated from time to time by the Lord of Blakerode and his heirs. The Chaplain was also to receive yearly from the said lord "una quatuor bovis et duobus agnis compotoribus," in the feast of Pasche. The witnesses of the foundation were "Dom. Thom. de Latham, Dom. Robt. de Langeton, Dom. Ric. de Hoghton, Dom. Will. de Lee militibz, D. Henr' de Walssh p'son de Standish, D. Juone de Langeton p'son de Wygan, Gilb. de Haydok, Will. de Worthyngton, Will. de Andreton et aliis. Datum apud Hagh, die dom'ca, in crast. S. Jac. ap'li 12 Edw. III. 1338. — Reg. Northburgh, Lichf. p. 58.

Mr. Ormerod is of opinion that it is uncertain whether Mabelle de Noreis, the foundress of this Chantry, and of another at Wigan (see p. 66 ante), left issue by her husband, Sir William Bradeshagh, or otherwise (Miscell. Palat. p. 8); but it may be stated that there is presumptive evidence of issue, as Roger de Bradeshaw presented a Clerk to her Chantry at Blackrod about ten years after her death, and was recognized by the Bishop as the lawful patron. He was also seized of her manors of West Leigh and Blackrod in the year 1364, having received them immediately from her, "either by descent or grant." — (Ibid.) After family partition, Haigh vested in the line of Bradshaigh, represented by the Earl of Crawford and Balcarres, and the other estates in Hugh Bradshaw, who married Margaret, daughter and heir of John Verdun, and had issue Sir William Bradshaw knight, whose daughter and heiress Elizabeth married Sir Richard Harrington knight, son of Sir James Harrington, brother of the Lord Harrington K.G. of Hornby Castle. Sir Richard was much employed in public affairs during the reign of Henry IV. whilst the white rose was in the ascendant, and principally resided at his manor house of Westlegh. Wolfage in Brixworth, in the county of Northampton, was obtained by Sir Nicholas Harrington (father of Sir James) in marriage with Isabella, daughter and heiress of Sir William le English knight. Sir Richard Harrington had issue by his wife Elizabeth Bradshaw a son and successor Sir William, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Pilkington of Pilkington knight, and whose line terminated in male descent on the death of his only son Sir James Harrington, Lord of Wolfage, Blackrod and Westlegh, on the 6th June 1497. — (Ped. in Coll. Arm. Lond. 12 D. 14, p. 106, recorded 6th May 1852; Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxi. pp. 170–177.) Sir James had married Isabella, daughter of Sir Alexander Radcliffe of Ordsall knight, whose wife was Agnes, one of the two daughters of Sir William Harrington of Hornby Castle K.G. (Test. Eborac. part ii. p. 251 Surtees Soc.), by whom he had issue one son and eleven daughters. This son, called Richard by Vincent, but William in the Harrington Pedigree, on returning from Trafford with his wife, a daughter of that house, perished, along with her, "on the day of his marriage" (Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.; "submersus cum uxore" Suffield Ped. Ibid. vol. iii.) in attempting to ford the Mersey near Northenden — a sad and touching incident, recalling to mind Logan's sweet verses on "The Braes of Yarrow." The body of Harrington was interred at Mobberley, where an altar tomb, with his armed recumbent figure and the date of March 4, 1490, were remaining in 1595.—(Miscell. Palat.) The Harrington estates were divided amongst his sisters, who were 1. Alice, wife of Thomas Asheton knight, of Asheton-under-Lyne (query of Croston), remarried Richard Houghton knight; 2. Anne, wife of William Stanley of Hooton in Wirrall, in the county of Chester, knight, son and heir of Sir William Stanley knight; 3. Isabella, wife of John Tresham of Rushton, in the county of Northampton; 4. Katharine, wife of William Mirfield, of Hoolley, in the county of York; 5. Clemence, wife of Henry Norreys, of Speke; 6. Ellen, wife of Ralph Standish, of Standish, in the county of Lancaster; 7. Margaret, wife of Christopher Hulton, remarried Thomas Pilkington; 8. Jane, wife of Roger Ashawe, of Hall-on-the-Hill, in the county of Lancaster (or Asheton, of Chatterton, in the county of Lancaster); 9. Alianor, wife of John Leycester, of Tofte, in the county of Chester; 10. Elizabeth, wife of John Lumley Esq., of in the county of Northampton; 11. Agnes, who ob. s.p.—Vincent's MSS. in Coll. Arm. The will of Sir James Harrington, father of these ladies, was dated the last day of April, 8 Henry VII. 1493, and proved at Lambeth 6th March 1497. "I Sir James Harington, of Brixworth, co. Northampton — My body to be buried in the Parish Church of Brixworth aforesaid if I die in the county; if not, then where my executors shall deem best. My wife to have the issue and profits of my lands, &c.; a priest to sing in the Parish Church of Brixworth, to pray for my soul, my children's souls, and all 'cristin' souls, at the discretion of my executors. Sir Robert Radcliff shall be the first priest to have an annuity. All my lands, manors, &c., in Preston, Chorlegh, Bretherton, Dinckley, Fishweke, Brokestand, Derby, Pulton magna and Pulton parva, settled by the advice of Thomas Kebill, serjeant at law, and William Cutlard. To Robert Hulton a mess' in Brixlesworth aforesaid, in the holding of Richard Skynner. To Myles Wesley a mess' in Turton, in the holding of James Walmsley. To Richard Radcliffe a mess' in Dynkley. To James Holecroft a mess' in Briklesworth. To Nicholas Asshton a mess' in Briklesworth. To Arnold Pennyng a mess' in Fishweke. His post mortem inquisition was taken 14 Henry VII. (Duch. Lanc. fol. 11), and he was found to have held the manor of Westley as of the Duchy of Lancaster; also lands in Blackrode, Penyngton, Preston, Chorley, Brederton, Dinkley, Pulton Magna,

His daughters and coheiresses are stated to be Agnes, Alicia, Margaret, Isabella, Alianor, Joan, Anne, Clemence and Katharine, and each of them of the full age of twenty years and upwards. It appears from the post mortem inquisition of his widow, Isabella Harington, taken in the year 1520, that she died on the 29th June, 10 Henry VIII., and held lands at her death in Westley, Hindley, Penyngton, Blackrode, Turton, Elston, Brokesland, Lancaster, Preston, Bretherton, Pulton, Dinkley, Fishweke, Lydgate, Longworth, Chorley, Walton and Derby. ³⁹ This Chantry, in the Parish Church of Eccles, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, was founded by Sir Geoffrey Massey Knt., the manerial lord of Worsley in this parish, and of Tatton in the county of Chester, a man who had great advantages of birth and large ancestral possessions in Lancashire. He was an active supporter and a successful partisan of the House of Lancaster, and during the reign of Edward IV. shared in the general prosperity which, notwithstanding the disastrous wars of York and Lancaster, Mr. Hallam says, reached a higher pitch at that time than at any former period. — (*Europe in the Midd. Joan married first William Stanley Esq., in her right of Worsley and Tatton, son of Sir William Stanley of Holt Castle in the county of Flint, brother of the first Earl of Derby K.G. Mr. Stanley died about 14 Henry VII. (1498), leaving issue an only child. His relict, being seized of the Massey estates, married secondly, 16 Henry VII. (1500), Sir Edward Pickering by whom she had no issue. She married thirdly, 24 Henry VII. (1508), Sir John Brereton, and died 3 Henry VIII. (1511), leaving issue a son, Philip Brereton, who died issueless.

Joan, only child of William Stanley Esq. and granddaughter and ultimately heiress of Sir Geoffrey Massey, was aged 8 years in 1500; and married first John, son and heir of Sir Thomas Assheton of Assheton-on-Mersey, in 1513, but had no issue by him. She married secondly Sir Richard Brereton, son of Sir Randle Brereton of Shocklach and Malpas in the county of Chester, who dying at Islington in 1557, she was again a widow, and was living 6th April 1570, aged 77 years. Her grandson, Richard Brereton of Worsley near Eccles Esq., dying on the 18th December 1598, settled all his estates upon his wife's kinsman Sir Thomas Egerton, the prudent and popular lord chancellor of England, from whom they descended to the Earls and Dukes of Bridgewater, — the Worsley estate being now held by their kinsman the Earl of Ellesmere, and the Tatton estate by their kinsman Lord Egerton of Tatton. — See Leycester's Chesh., and Ormerod's Chesh.; *Lanc. and Chesh. ⁴⁰ There were at least three distinct Chantry foundations of the Booths of Barton in the Church of Eccles. The first Chantry was dedicated to St. Katherine the Virgin and Martyr, and was founded, apparently in his lifetime, by Thomas del Bothe of Barton, as in his will, dated 42 Edward III., Anno Domini 1368, he says "imprimis do et lego animam meam Deo et beatæ Marie Virgini, et corpus meum ad sepeliendum in ecclesiâ de Eccles, coram Altari Sanctæ Katerinæ virgini." — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xiv. p. 91.) Hollinworth mentions him also as the founder of a distinct Chantry on Salford Bridge (Mancum. p. 52); and he bequeathed by will xxx^{li} towards the building of the said bridge. The Chapel was intended for the use of travellers, in the same way that Crosses were in lonely places :

Birone knight and Will^m Both Esquier by which ffoundaçon the said Incumbent^e are bounden to celebrate masse daly in the cha-

“Three times tell an Ave bead,
And thrice a Paternoster say;
Then kiss with me the Holy Rood,
So shall we safely wend our way.”

In 1505 care was taken for the reparation of this Chapel on the Bridge (Ibid.), and Leland, about the year 1536, when in Manchester, recorded that “on this Bridg is a praty litle Chapell. — (Itin. vol. v. p. 78.) Before 1653 it was desecrated as a prison (Hollinworth, p. 53); and in Whitworth’s curious engraving of the “The South West Prospect of Manchester and Salford,” published in 1728, “the Bridge and Dungeon” appear delineated. The Chapel was taken down about the year 1802. It seems to have had no settled foundation. Its founder on the xi kal. Junii 1361 obtained a licence from the Bishop of Lichfield, to have divine service performed by a suitable priest, within his Oratory at Barton for one year (Reg. Stretton, Lichf. vol. v.); and on the v ides April 1364 a similar licence, for one year, was granted to Thomas del Bothe within his manor of Barton. — Ibid.

The second Chantry in Eccles Church was founded by Laurence Bothe D.D. at the altar of St. Katherine. He was the youngest child of John Bothe of Barton, and of his second wife Maud, daughter of Sir John Savage knt., and grandson of the last-named founder. He was born about the year 1400, ordained Sub-deacon 20th September 1421, and not admitted to the order of the priesthood until the year 1446. — (Raine’s MS. Fasti Eborac.) He was educated at Cambridge, appointed Master of Pembroke Hall in 1450, and was Chancellor of the University 1456–58. — (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. iii. pp. 600, 673.) In 1451 he was appointed Lord Privy Seal, and in 1454, being Chaplain to Queen Margaret, he was appointed her Chancellor. He was collated to the prebendal stall of Offley at Lichfield 17th June 1449, which he resigned for Tervin about 1455. — (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. ii. pp. 616, 630.) He also held prebends at York, and was collated to the Archdeaconry of Richmond 21st August 1454. He became Dean of St. Paul’s, London, 22nd November 1456, and in the following year was consecrated Bishop of Durham. — (Ibid. vol. iii. p. 140.) In 1472 he was appointed Lord High Chancellor of England, and discharged the duties for about two years, when he was dismissed owing to his political incompetency. — (Campbell’s Chanc. vol. i. p. 389; Newcourt’s Rep. vol. i. p. 44.) In 1476 he became Archbishop of York, and died at Southwell 19th May 1480, where he was buried near his half brother and predecessor, Archbishop William Bothe. The Chantry of St. Katherine, in the Church of his native village, was founded by him 28 Henry VI. 1450, although his half brother William, at that time Bishop of Lichfield, seems to have been closely associated with him as co-founder. Henry VI. granted a licence to William Bothe, Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield; Laurence Bothe, Clerk; John Byron, knt.; Richard Bothe, Clerk; and Seth Worsley; to found a perpetual Chantry of two Chaplains in the parish Church of B. Mary of Eccles, in the county of Lan-pell of Jhu w^hin the saide church and to distribute yerlie in almes to poore people xx^s and to kepe and maintien the quere at caster, for the welfare of the said Bishop, of Laurence Bothe, and of others named, whilst living, and for their souls after death. And that the Chaplains of the Chantry of St. Katherine the Virgin, in the said Church, and their successors, should have lands, rents and tenements, of the yearly value of twenty-four marks, for their support for ever. The licence is dated Westminster, 22nd January 28 Henry VI. 1450.—(Reg. Bothe, Lichf.) William, Bishop of Lichfield, vested the lands in Byron, Bothe and Worsley, and made provision that the Bishops of Lichfield, or their Vicars General, should appoint Chaplains to the said Chantry, who should not be absent more than thirty days in a year, nor hold any ecclesiastical office out of the parish of Eccles, and that they should daily observe all the hours, according to the use of Sarum, and say mass for the dead, viz. Placebo and Dirige, with the Lessons, and Commendacionem, for the souls of King Henry VI. and Queen Margaret, William the Bishop, and for all persons to whom God had made him a debtor; and also to celebrate the mass De hora on festivals. Vestments, books, chalices and other ornaments were to be kept in the vicarage house, and not to be removed, but to be carefully preserved, and to be supplied from time to time at the costs of the Chaplains, who were forbidden to celebrate mass anywhere except in Eccles Church. On double festivals the Chaplains were always to walk in procession, in the said parish of Eccles, with other priests, and in canonical hours, viz. matins, mass and vespers, they shall celebrate in their surplices with note, devoutly and with skill, within the Choir of the Church. On Thursday in every week, whilst the founder lives, one of the Chaplains shall say Mass of Requiem, with note, if he can do it conveniently; otherwise without note, for the souls of those hereafter named, and for all the faithful departed, viz.: on Sunday next after the feast of the Nativity of the B. V. M. for the souls of John and Joanna, my father and mother; and on the 1st June, being the day of the death of Margery, my sister, late wife of Sir John Byron knt.; and on the day of the death of Sir Robert Bothe knt.; on the day of the death of my brother, Roger Bothe; on the days of the death of Nicholas, son of Sir John Byron, and of William, son of Sir Robert Bothe knt.; and on the days of the death of the said Sir John Byron knt., Richard and Laurence Bothe, Clerks, and Seth Worsley; and on these days to say Placebo and Dirige, with Lessons and Commendation, and Mass of Requiem, in the Chapel of St. Katherine aforesaid. And on the founder's anniversary day, which is to be solemnly observed in the said Chapel, xxx^s shall be annually distributed, viz. to the Vicar of Eccles vi^d (sex denarii), and to each Chaplain and to each conduct present vi^d, and to other Chaplains present in honour of the anniversary iiii^d: to the parish Clerk of Eccles iiii^d; and to the four Clerks singing viii^d, viz. to each ii^d; for oblations at the mass xx^d, to be distributed generally in Eccles; the residue of the said xxx^s, together with xx^s more to be given amongst the poor of Eccles, namely to every poor person i^d; and on the anniversary of the said John and Joanna Bothe x^s to be distributed. The Chaplains to receive equal portions of the endowment, and to conduct themselves religiously, honestly and peaceably, and never to use vexatious or opprobrious words, nor to act contumaciously towards each other, otherwise the Vicar of Eccles shall fine the offender xii^d for each offence, which sum shall be disposed of by the Vicar and the other Chaplain as they may think proper. A decent board or table shall be provided, to contain the names of the said William the Bishop, and the names and surnames of John and Joanna, his parents; Sir John Byron, Richard Bothe, Laurence Bothe, Seth Worsley, Sir Thomas Bothe knt., Sir Robert Bothe knt., John and Roger, sons of the said John Bothe; Margaret, late wife of the said Sir John Byron; Elizabeth, late wife of Sir Edward Wever knt.; Katharine, late wife of Sir Thomas Radclyff knt.; Joan, late wife of Thomas Southworth Esq.; and Alice, wife of Robert Clyfton Esq., daughters of the said John Bothe; also the names of Dulce, wife of Robert Bothe knt.; Richard and Nicholas Byron, sons of Sir John Byron; William, son of Robert Bothe knt.; Thomas, son of Thomas Bothe knt.; Robert Bothe, son of the said Thomas; and Robert Langley Esq. and Thomas his son. And the said board shall be placed above the altar, in the said Chapel of St. Katherine, that the Chaplains may see it, and may daily pray for those whose names are thereon inscribed. Many minute rules are added respecting the rents, goods, disbursements and annual accounts, whilst provision is made that a sum of 40*l.* more, if necessary, shall be expended on the Chantry; and a general power is vested in the trustees named for executing the plans and intentions of the founder. Dated at Clayton, near Manchester, 20th July, 28 Henry VI. 1450. — Bothe's Reg. Lichf. p. 89 et seq.

The third Chantry or College, styled "the College of Jesus and the B. Virgin Mary," in the Church of Eccles, was founded in the year 1460 by the above-named William Bothe D.D., Lord Archbishop of York. His mother was Joan, daughter of Sir Henry Trafford of Trafford knt. His preferments, like those of his brothers Laurence, Archbishop of York, and of John Bishop of Exeter, and of several others of his relatives, were scandalously profuse. In 1420 he was collated to a Prebend in Lincoln Cathedral, which he vacated the next year. — (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. ii. p. 209.) He was a Fellow of Manchester College in 1425 and 1430 and Rector of Prescot in Lancashire; (Fasti Mancun. a MS.), also Canon of St. Paul's, Archdeacon of Middlesex, Chancellor of London and of the University of Cambridge. — (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. iii. p. 600.) He was appointed Bishop of Lichfield in 1447, which see he resigned in 1452 on being translated to the Archiepiscopal see of York, which he vacated by death September 20th 1464. — Shaw's Hist. of Staffords. vol. i. p. 271; Baines's Hist. Lanc. vol. iii. p. 149; Raine's York Fabr. Rolls, p. 213; Newcourt's Rep. vol. i. p. 80.

King Henry VI. on the 1st December 1460, granted a licence to William Bothe Archbishop of York, Nicholas Byron, Robert Clyfton, Richard Bothe and Seth Worsley Esqrs., to enable them to found a Chantry in the Church of B. Mary of Eccles for two Chaplains, there to celebrate for the good estate of the said founders, Bethom to the maneten^ance and suppleinge of the saide Incumbent livinges.

whilst living, and also for their souls after death, and to allow them and their successors to take lands, tenements, rents, services and other possessions from any one by the name of "the Chaplains of the Chantry of Jesus and B. Mary the Virgin" in the parish Church of Eccles. The founders (as such they are described) give to three or more of their body the Rectory of Bethom and its advowson in the county of Westmoreland, to hold to the said Chaplains and their successors for ever; to celebrate daily in the said Chapel at Eccles aforesaid, and to say mass before the arrival of the parishioners; to pray for King Henry VI. and for the said Archbishop and his co-founders (as they are styled), and for all the faithful; the Chaplains always to be "capaces et habiles," and each of them to receive seven marks per annum. The patronage is vested in the Archbishop during his life, and after his death in the said Nicholas Byron and the other feoffees during their joint lives, and afterwards in Sir Robert Bothe knt. and Nicholas, son of Sir John Byron knt., and the heirs male of their respective bodies lawfully begotten. The ordinances, services and statutes of the College are minutely described, and are nearly similar to those already abstracted from the foundation deed of the Chantry of St. Katherine, in the said Church. The Archbishop's anniversary is to be observed with due solemnity for ever, and he gives xxx^s annually to be distributed in alms. He also provides that a house and certain chambers shall be built on a vacant spot near the Church yard of Eccles with his money, and that this manse shall serve for the residence of the Chaplains of St. Katherine and the Chaplains of Jesus and the B. V. Mary, who shall have a common hall and shall table together. Special care is to be taken in selecting the Chaplains, so that good men may be appointed; and if at any time any Chaplain be impeached, and convicted by law, of felony, or of fornication, or of adultery, to be proved before the Church, or shall keep a concubine or concubines, his place shall be declared ipso facto vacant, and another Chaplain be appointed. A roll is to be provided, inscribed with names of individuals whose obits are to be kept, and to be suspended above the altar. The obits are nearly similar to those already recorded. The ordinary provisions follow. Dated at the Manor of Scroby 6th May 1460. — (Reg. Bothe, Lichf. pp. 95-105, collated with Reg. Bothe, York, p. 245.) The following "special prayers," evidently written by the Archbishop himself, are to be used:

Specialis Oratio.

Concede quidem, Domine Deus noster, ut anima famuli tui Willelmi pontificis, cujus commemoracionem speciali devocione agimus, et pro qua exorare jussi et debitores sumus atque animis omnium parentum consanguineorum et familiarium suorum cunctorumque fidelium, in funeribus sanctorum tuorum requiescant moxque ex mortuis resuscitatæ tibi placeant in regione vivorum, per Dominum nostrum, etc.

The Archbishop's will is dated Southwell, 26th August 1464, and he was not unmindful of his Eccles College: "Item, volo quod executores mei faciant mansionem pro capellanis per me ordinatis in ecclesia parochiali de Eccles cum ornamentis pro capellanis predictis ad celebrandum divina in dicta ecclesia parochiali de Eccles. Item do et lego capellanis Cantariæ Sanctæ Katerinæ in dicta ecclesia parochiali de Eccles xli. Item do et lego capellanis Cantariæ de Ihesu in dicta ecclesia parochiali de Eccles xli." — (Testam. Eborac. vol. ii. p. 264-67 Surtees Soc.) The notes appended by the learned Editor to this will are very valuable, being quite a treasury of original Lancashire biography.

Sir Gervas, son and heir of Sir Robert Clifton of Clifton, in the county of Notts, kn., (by his wife Alice, daughter of John Booth of Barton, in the county of Lancaster and sister of the Archbishop of York), in his will, dated April 27th, 1491, says: "I will yat an obligation of xvii^l which y^e Prior of y^e Trinities in York is bounde in to my lorde Laurence be sued, and the money yerof comyng be imploied abowte the reparacions and oyer necessaries of my said lord chauntries and chapell at Suthwell I will yat all y^e auter-clothes of silke, a bed of cloth of gold bawdkyne and an oyer bed of russet satin which were my said lord Laurence be delyvered unto his chauntries at Suthwell to make vestimentes and oyer ornaments of by th'advise of Thomas Orston and parte of theym to be delyvered to the chauntries of my lorde William both at Eccles I will in discharging of my saule yat if y^e Church of Slatburn may be recovered oute of y^e Kynges hands, by y^e means and labor of any kynsman or frende of myne lorde William Both late Archbishop of Yorke, yat myne executors employ and spende yerupon C marc, or a C^{li}, if hit can be made sure unto my said lordes chauntries at Eccles, according to his appropriacion." ⁴² This Chantry, situated in the south choir of St. Mary's Church, Clitheroe, was founded, according to Whitaker (Whalley, p. 281), by Sir Richard Radcliffe of the Alleys in Clitheroe and of Winmerly near Garstang knight, although Mr. Radclyffe, late Rouge Croix, attributed the foundation to Thomas Radcliffe, the son of Sir Richard.—(MS. Ped.) The father, Sir Richard, was summoned to parliament at Westminster by the style of Chevalier A° 7 Henry IV., became Escheator of the county palatine of Lancaster 2 Henry V., attended the king into France with three men at arms and nine archers at the Battle of Agincourt 3 Henry V., and was at the Siege of Calais 7 Henry V. He was a Justice of the Peace for Lancashire by commission dated 2nd March, 5 Henry V.; Deputy of Calais 11 Henry VI.; and dying 12 Henry VI. (and not 19 as stated in Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. part ii. p. 320), was succeeded by his son, the presumed founder of this Chantry. Thomas Radcliffe, the son, attended the king with two men at arms and six archers to the Siege of Calais; and 9 Henry V. served that monarch in France with three men at arms and nine archers. In 2 Henry VI. he was returned Knight of the Shire for Lancaster, and appointed Justice of the Peace for the palatinate by commission dated 12th March, 18 Henry VI. Having been zealously attached to the Lancastrian interest, he died in the year 1440, having married, by licence from Pope John XXIII. 12 Henry VI., Katherine, daughter of John Booth of Barton Esq. by Joan his first wife, daughter of Sir Henry Trafford knt., and sister of William Booth, Lord Archbishop of York. She survived her husband, and married secondly Nicholas Boteler of Rawcliffe Esq., who obtained a dispensation for his marriage in the nones of May 1441, "quia tertia gradu consanguinitatis," and licence thereon 1442. She was living in 1477.—(Radcliffe MS. Ped.; Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.; Surtees' Hist. Durham, vol. iii. p. 128.) In this Chantry were two cumbent figures of a knight and lady in alabaster, supposed to represent the founder and his wife, as the armour was entirely of plate, such as was usually worn in the middle of the fifteenth century.—(Whitaker's Hist. Whalley, p. 281.) Thomas Radcliffe Esq. died seized of the family possessions in Clitheroe and elsewhere in Lancashire 30 Henry VIII. 1538, and his only son William dying issueless 3 Elizabeth, the estates passed to Sir Gilbert Gerard, Master of the Rolls, who had married Ann, half sister of the last owner.—Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.

In 1535 the Commissioners of the Deanery of Blackburn assessed "Cantaria apud Clitheroe, in manu W. Selater," for tenths vii^s viii^d ob. and for the subsidy vi^s xi^d ob.

q'.— (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) This is an instance of a Chantry being served by a parish priest. Slater's name occurs in Whitaker's catalogue of the Incumbents of Clitheroe (Whalley, p. 287), and the Chantry Commissioners of Edward VI. stated that in 1548 William Slater was "of the age of lxxvi yeres, a lame man, and was hurte at Floden Felde." If he had been Incumbent here from the year 1514 and died in 1551 (Whalley, p. 287), he had held the benefice for thirty-seven years, and being born about the year 1471, was of the age of forty-three at the time he accompanied the army probably as a Chaplain to Flodden. We have in Lancashire too few records of Flodden to spare even this casual mention of one who had witnessed the carnage, and who long afterwards lived to relate his adventures on that dismal day to his rustic parishioners of Clitheroe. Would that some "honest chronicler" had been at hand!

"Tradition, legend, tune and song
 Shall many an age that wail prolong;
 Still from the sire the son shall hear
 Of the stern strife and carnage drear
 Of Flodden's fatal field,
 When shiver'd was fair Scotland's spear
 And broken was her shield."

⁴³ This Chantry, dedicated to St. Leonard, was founded at Padiham, in the parish of Whalley, in the year 1451, by Mr. John Marshall LL.B., who was a wealthy native of that extensive parish, and connected in early life with Cardinal Langley, to whom he was chiefly indebted for his not scanty preferments in the Church. Whitaker says his "descendants" enjoyed his property at Padiham nearly a century after the foundation of the Chantry. The following memorandum is from the Towneley MSS.: "Whereas Kynge Henry y^e VI. did graunte unto one Mr. Joh. Maresheale a lycense dated vii Feb. an. regni xxx^o to purchase certayne landes for y^e use of a Chantry Priest at y^e churche or chapell of Padyham, which sayde lycense of late tyme was in custody of Syr Jhon Townley knt. y^e sayd Syr Jhon hath putte y^e sayde lycense into y^e sure custody of y^e abbot and convente of Whalley for ever." — (Whitaker's Hist. Whalley, p. 267) "John Mareshall in utroque jure baccalaureus" was collated by Bishop Langley 20th March, 1423-4, to a prebendal stall at Lanchester (Reg. Langley, p. 115, 6. Durham), and on the 23rd July, 1433, was collated by the same prelate to the Mastership of Sherburn Hospital, which he held at his death. — (Surtees' *Hist. the 17th March 1434 he was instituted to the Rectory of Heversham (Harl. MS. No. 6978), resigning for it the Rectory of Scruton in Yorkshire, which gave him his title for the order of priest in February 1427-8. He was presented to Heversham by the Prior and Convent of St. Mary's, York (the Abbot being absent); and he settled an annual pension of xl marcs on Richard Arnall, his predecessor, afterwards Prebendary of York, who vacated the benefice in his favour. — (MS. Reg. Archidiacon. Richmond.) He was Cardinal Langley's Vicar-General, and visited the Convent of Durham in 1437, being appointed in the same year guardian of the temporalities of the See of Durham, on the death of the Cardinal. — (Surtees' Hist. Durham, vol. i. p. 139.) He was collated to the Prebend of Barnby at York 5th June 1438 (Le Neve, Hardy, vol. iii. p. 171), and of Weighton 28th August 1443 (Ibid. p. 224); and on the 29th May 1439 was instituted to the Prebend of Saltmarsh at Howden, which stall, together with that of Normanton at Southwell, he held at the time of his death. Ten years before this event occurred he founded his Chantry at Padiham. His will is dated February 24th 1461-2, being then Canon Residentiary of York. He desired to be buried in the Minster, near the tomb of John Wodham, late Canon. He gave to Mr. John Seudale his best piece, silver gilt; to the Abbey of Whalley a bowl and ewer, to pray for him; to each brother and sister in his Hospital at Sherburn xl^s; to his poor parishioners at Wheldrake xxvi^s viii^d; to George Marshall, Chaplain, to pray for him at Wheldrake, for ten years, viii marks per annum. Proved at York 27th March 1462. — Raine's MS. Fasti Eborac.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Blackburn assessed the "Cantaria apud Padeham," for tenths ix^s iiiii^d and for the subsidy viii^s v^d. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii. p. 288.) In 1548 Rafe Thorber, aged 42, held the living. — (*Lib. B. Duch. Hesketh of Rufford was warmly attached to the English Church, and that "a very good quantity of land was given by his Ancestours to the Church of Harwood, but seized at the Dissolution of Chuntries, wrongfully." Archbishop Sancroft's admirable and highly characteristic letters to Mr. Francis Price, Vicar of Blackburn, and to his grace's agent Mr. John Tillison, at that time in Lancashire on business connected with the property of the See, and the increase of the meagre endowments of the poor chapels in Blackburn parish, are excellent proofs of the sympathy of this good prelate with the lower clergy, and of his self-denying liberality in alleviating their urgent necessities. He gave a fine of one thousand marks (66*ol.* 13*s.* 4*d.*) to be invested for the permanent augmentation of the old Chapels in Blackburn parish, which had been despoiled at the dissolution of the Chuntries. — Sancroft Trust Book, vol. i. folio, at the Vicarage House, Blackburn.

MSS.* vol. xxxvii. p. 14 et seq.; Wilkinson's Hist. Burnley, p. 7.) There are no presentations of Chantry Priests to this altar at Lichfield. On the 10th January 1454, Reginald, Bishop of Lichfield, granted a licence to John Towneley Gent. to have an oratory within his dwelling houses of "Towneley, Clevacher, and Bretwesley," and to have masses and other divine offices there celebrated, before him and his household, by a fit Chaplain, during the pleasure of the said reverend father.— (Reg. Boulers, Lichf. p. 72.) The following letter, addressed by the Abbot of Whalley to Sir Richard Towneley in 1481, proves the continued existence of the hereditary Chantry in Burnley Church: "To o^r trusty and welbilovyd S^r Rychard Townleye. Ryght welbilovyd and my moost wurschpyppful good Mayst^r I grete yow wele where our truste and bilovyd sone Jhon Grene a broder of o^r howse and clerck hath beggyd of us lettyrs comendatory to yow of o^r espicell g[']ce we do yow to wyt that the sayd Jhon w^t our gud plesor resortes to yow as h[']tily a suter for the Chaplens rowme in Brunley chapell now voyded by y^e deth of yo^r trusty s[']vante Nycolas P[']ker whos sawll God p[']don and if yo^r w[']shypp graunt anoder licens for thexecuc[']on of the seid offyce and waghys to o^r sayd broder y^o wyll do hym manyfist s[']vice heryn and [he] shalbe fund more yⁿ grete nombers a sadd & discrete Chapleyn and oon to lab['] wele in y^r hon[']s s[']vice in hys dewtye and beter I canot avyse y^o. Letters*, Eshton Hall; Lanc. MSS.

In 1502 Sir John Towneley rebuilt the choir, and was either the founder of another Chantry at this altar, or augmented the original endowment, as appears from an inscription in old English characters, partly legible, and still surrounding the cancelli: ". Nec non et pro animabus Ricardi Townley militis patris mei et Johanne uxoris ejus matris meæ et omnium antecessorum meorum et omnium fidelium defunctorum quorum anime requiescant in pace. Amen.

Quod ego Johannes Townley miles fundavi et ordinavi hanc cantariam in honorem beatæ Mariæ Virginis pro bonu statu meo et Isabellæ uxoris meæ dum vixerimus et pro animabus."

Sir John Towneley was born in the year 1473, and died in March 1541. He was Sheriff of Lancashire from 1532 to 1541. He enjoyed the estate nearly sixty years, and increased it by many purchases. He enclosed the park at Hapton, and built the tower, re-founded the Chantry of St. Mary at Burnley, and restored the family choir. He also built, or it may be, rebuilt the domestic Chapel at Towneley, lived to see the marriage of his grandson with the heiress of Wymbish, avoided the Pilgrimage of Grace, which ruined many of his friends, and died in a good old age. In 1530 Tong the Herald had an interview with him, and thought meanly of his liberality. He married first Isabel, daughter and heiress of Sir Charles Pilkington of Gateford in the county of Notts, and she dying in 1522 he married secondly in 1531 Anne, daughter of Ralph Catterall Esq., and leaving her his widow she became in 1545 the second wife of Sir William Radcliffe of Ordsall knight. Sir John Towneley ordered by his will that one hundred masses of the five wounds of our Lord should be said for his soul. — Whitaker's Whalley, p. 344; Lanc. MSS. vols. xiii. p. 197, xxxvii. p. 14; Hart. MS. 2076, fo. 12 b.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners assessed the "Cantaria apud Brunleye," omitting the founder's name, for tenths vi^s viii^d, and for the subsidy vi^s (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.); whilst in 1547, when the Chantry was served by "Dom. Rob'tus Ingam, ex provisione Joh'is Townleye" (Ibid. p. 258), it is noted in the margin, "non habet stipendium," which is not easily reconciled with the statement in the text. Dr. Whitaker observes that Sir John Towneley was long and intimately connected with the family of Ingham (of Fullede), and that in his latter days Jennet Ingham was his mistress, whilst he presented Sir John Ingham (dead in 1534) to his Chantry in Burnley Church as early as the 15 Henry VII. 1500; so that he seems, by a very unhappy and preposterous arrangement, to have chosen out of the same house the Chaplain of his youth and the mistress of his old age.

Sir Richard Towneley struggled hard and long with exemplary pertinacity and vigour in the Duchy Court to preserve in his family the foundation of his father and of his remote ancestor De la Legh. He was earnest and defiant, and indisposed to submit to the changes and decisions which were taking place in religion and jurisprudence. In or before 1548 Peter Adlington, the Towneley Priest, had been succeeded by Hugh Whatmough, Clerk, who is stated to be at that time of the age of forty-three years (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.), and in the same year, supported by Sir Richard Towneley, Whatmough prosecuted Robert Walmisley and others who resisted his claim to the right and patronage of the advowson of the Towneley Chantry and lands in Burnley Church. — (Cal. Plead. p. 231.) In the 2 Edward VI. Hugh Halsted entered a suit against Sir Richard Towneley for illegally holding Chantry lands called Hodgehomes and Smithy Banks in Hapton, formerly belonging to a Chantry in Burnley Chapel. — (Ibid. p. 238.) And in the 3 Edward VI. other Chantry lands and messuages were supposed to be in the unlawful possession of Sir Richard Towneley within the manor of Ightenhill (Ibid.), whilst in the 5 Edward VI. the same fearless individual, cast in the old chivalrous mould, disputed the title of Margaret Battersby, widow, to lands and tenements belonging to the Towneley Chantry in Burnley Chapel. — (Ibid. p. 260.) The Chantry house and garden at Burnley, founded by Sir John Towneley, were leased for that purpose by Abbot Holden, at a trifling rent (Hist. Whalley, p. 276), and were purchased of the crown at the dissolution by Sir Richard Towneley. — Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. part ii. p. 311.

is of opinion that the Chantry was endowed with copyhold lands, and consequently was not a very ancient foundation.—(Hist. Whalley, p. 327 note.) The Chantry Commissioners of Edward VI. state that such was the case, “as it is declared unto us, but we have not seen the copies, and there be no reprises.”—(Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) These lands were confirmed by the Manerial Court of Higham 6 Edward VI. and of Ightenhill 5 Elizabeth, with the consent of the Royal Commissioners, for the use of Gilbert Fairbank, Incumbent, for his life, and after his death for the use of a Schoolmaster, and the support of a free Grammar School in Burnley.—Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. part ii. p. 310; Whitaker's Whalley, p. 327.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Blackburn assessed the “Cantaria apud Brunley in manu Gilberti Fayrbank,” for tenths iiiii^s and for the subsidy iii^s vii^d q^r.—(Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) In 1548 he was returned as serving this Chantry, and of the age of sixty-six years (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.), and dying at Burnley at the age of eighty-four was buried there January 28th 1566, being described in the register book as “Chantrie Priest of Burnleye.” There had probably been a second priest supplied by the inhabitants about this time, as in 1547 Bishop Bird found, “D'n's Joh'es Aspden apud Brindley, per Vicar. p'dict. (Edward Pedley B.D. Vicar of Whalley) in vice D'ni Ricardi Mersden qui sit apud Ribchester, et D'n's Ric'us Higen ex devocione parochianorum.”—(Lib. Visit. apud Cestr.) In the following year the clergy at Burnley were Stephen Smith, Gilbert ffairbanke, Robert Ingham, John Aspden, and Richard Hichen (Higen?). Opposite the last name in the margin is the word “decripitus;” and in a later but contemporary hand, “mortuus.”—Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.

The dissolution of the Parochial Chantry of Burnley 2 Edward VI. and the sale of the ecclesiastical “vestments and jewels,” of which nothing is said by these Commissioners, induced Richard Towneley, Lawrence Habergham and others, Churchwardens of Burnley, in 1 Mary 1553 to prosecute Sir Richard Towneley of Towneley knight, a man vigilant of his rights, who by some means had become possessed of these consecrated articles, which were probably restored by a decree of the Duchy Court on the ground that Burnley Church was neither “a Free Chapel” nor a “Chantry.”—(Cal. Plead. p. 282.) On the dissolution a stipend of 4*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* was charged on the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster, and made payable to the Incumbent of Burnley. The Chantry of St. Anthony and that of the Holy Crucifix were distinct but unendowed foundations. St. Mary's and St. Peter's Chantries had endowments.

Galfridus Banastre having been a Friar in the house of Warrington, rose to be its Prior in 1404. — (Beaumont's Fee of Makerfield, p. 18.) At a very early period John, son of Henry de Blackburn, left an annual rent of four livres to God and the Church of St. Mary of Blackburn, to sustain two torches at the high altar of the Parish Church of that place, for the souls of his father, mother, ancestors and heirs. — Whalley, p. 425 note.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Blackburn omit the name of the founder of this Chantry, and return it as “Cantaria in Ecclesia de Blagborn in manu Will^{mi} Rushton,” and assessed it for tenths vi^s viii^d and for the subsidy vi^s (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.); and in 1548 “William Risheton of thage of 53 years” was the priest at the high altar, and the howsling people of the parish were ij^m (2000). — (Lib. B Duch. Lanc.) In 1553 William Rushebie (sic), Chantry Priest of Blackburn, had a pension of 4*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* — Willis's Mitr. Abb. vol. ii. p. 108.

This Chantry escaped the notice of Whitaker and the other Lancashire historians.

⁴⁸ This Chantry, dedicated to the B.V. Mary, was founded in the south aisle of Blackburn Church conjointly by Thomas second Earl of Derby and the parishioners, by deed dated 4th April 1514. The parishioners purchased lands and tenements, freehold and copyhold, in the counties of Lancaster and York, and the same were settled for the support of a Chantry Priest in the Chapel of the Blessed Virgin on the south side of the Parish Church of Blackburn, the Earl of Derby apparently settling copyhold lands called the Eggye heye, in Burnley, of the yearly value of xv^s for the same purpose. The priest was to be a secular and not a regular, "sufficiently lerned in gramar and playn song, yf any such can be gotten, and shal kepe continually a fre gramer schole and maintaine and kepe the one syde of the quere, as one man may, in his surplice, every holiday throughout the yere;" the Earl of Derby and his heirs to nominate the said priest within xx days after an avoidance, or in default the Church masters or reeves for the time being to do so. The priests are not to take any other cure or charge, but if they should say any trental or trentals, or pray otherwise than according to the present foundation, one half of the profit of the same should go towards the reparation or making of the ornaments for the said Chantry. The priests were required to pray by name for the souls of Thomas Earl of Derby late deceased, of my lady his wife, and of George Stanley Lord Strange, of my lady Jane his wife, and for their children's souls, and for the prosperous estate of the then Earl of Derby and of my lady of Derby his wife, and for their issue and posterity for ever; and for the welfare of all the parishioners of Blackburn, and of all who had been benefactors, helpers, assistants and contributors to the purchasing of lands, jewels or ornaments for the said Chantry, quick or dead, and for all Christian souls. The said Chantry priest every Sunday and Holiday in the year, after offering mass, shall turn to the people and exhort them to pray for all the said persons and for their souls, and say the Psalm of De profundis with a Pater Noster and an Ave Maria, with special suffrage after, and Funeral Collect for the quick and dead, either by themselves. year for ever to sing a solemn dirge for the souls aforesaid, and also on the morrow next after such dirge song the priest to sing a mass of requiem with note, and on every Wednesday and Friday to say mass of Jesus, or of the five wounds of our Lord Jesus Christ, in the said Chantry Chapel; and on all other days of the week to say mass as he conveniently may. The priests to sing or say masses as aforesaid in the same chapel about eight o'clock in the morning in summer time, i.e. from Easter to Michaelmas, and in the winter time about ten o'clock in the forenoon. A penalty of iii^d to be paid to the Churchwardens out of the lands for every default or negligence of duty, without sufficient and lawful excuse. The deed of foundation is dated at Lathom, 4th April, 5 Henry VIII. — Whitaker's Hist. of Whalley, p. 426 et seq.

In 1535 the Commissioners for the Deanery of Blackburn assessed the Chantry in Blackburn Church, held by Thomas Burgess, for tenths vi^s viii^d, and for the subsidy vi^s. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) In 1548 this Incumbent was aged fifty-eight years. (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.), and is probably the "Dom. Thomas Blagburn" who was at that time "Conduct" for John Talbot Esq. in Blagburn Church. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) The Talbots of Salesbury were amongst the principal parishioners of Blackburn, and were descended from the feudal families of Blackburn and Clitheroe. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. iii. p. 362.) John Talbot Esq., by his will dated 28th August, 6, Edward VI., desired to be buried in this Chapel (Lanc. and Chesh. Wills, portion ii.), and here was baptised 4th July 1619 Ann, daughter of Sir John Talbot knight. — (Register Book.) On the 17th March 1611-12 the Bishop of Chester awarded this Chapel, then in dispute, between Sir Thomas Walmesley of Dunkenhalth knight and John Talbot of Salesbury Esq., the representatives of the Rushtons; and it appeared from some very curious depositions made on the trial that the Earls of Derby claimed no rights in the Chapel, although Anne Rishton of Cross Hall in Ormskirk parish, widow, aged eighty years, deposed that she had known for seventy years a lordship of Blackburn parish called Rishton, in which was an ancient capital messuage called Holte Hall, which was moated about, and that her mother Dame Anne Stanley, wife of Sir James Stanley knight, and formerly wife of Edmund Talbot, and also mother of Sir Thomas Talbot, was buried of right on the north side of the said Chapel about the year 1557, being then the occupier of Holte Hall; and this deponent being at the burial of her mother, the said Lady Stanley, came with the corpse to Blackburn Church, &c. (Lanc. MSS.) At the dissolution a pension of 4*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.* was charged on the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster, payable to the schoolmaster of Blackburn.

of the last Incumbent, by Thomas Earl of Derby. — (Reg. Smith, Lichf.) Mr. W. Wall died Rector of Eccleston 7th April, 1511, being succeeded by Peter Bradshaw, Doctor of Decrees. — (Reg. Blythe, Lichf.) He also held the Rectory of Davenham, in Cheshire, at his death; Sir John Savage knight on the 2nd May, 1511, presenting Roger Savage, Clerk to the same, “vacant by the death of William Wall.” — Ibid.

He was the second son of Evan Wall of Preston Gent., who had probably been a law-agent of the second Earl of Derby, here described as the founder of this Chantry, but in a subsequent inquisition his lordship’s name was struck out by the Commissioners, and that of “Richard” Wall inserted as sole founder. — (Lib. B Duch. Lanc.) By a deed dated 35 Henry VIII. 1543, Evan Wall, survivor of the feoffees of Richard Wall, nephew of the founder, gave these Chantry lands to one Dicconson, his heirs and assigns for ever, to his own use, and Dicconson covenanted to find a priest for twenty years next following to celebrate divine service at Eccleston (Ibid.), this being probably another instance of an attempt to prevent the founder’s endowment being perverted from its original purpose.

On the 12th March, 14 Henry VII. 1499, James Butler of Merton Esq., and Sir Alexander Hoghton knight, were bound in c^h to Sir Peter Legh knight and Thomas Middleton Esq., the condition being that Butler should fulfil the award of Sir Richard Langton knight and Mr. William Walle, Clerk, Parson of Eccleston in the county of Lancaster, respecting the title of lands in Meall, Marton, or any other place in Amounderness, then and long time in dispute; and when the award was delivered should “stond the dome” of Thomas Earl of Derby, John Vavasour and Thomas Kebell, Justices of the Pleas at Lancaster, or one of them, as umpire. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxviii. p. 575.

Two branches of the Wall family recorded pedigrees at the visitations of Lancashire in 1567 and 1664–5. — Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Leyland assessed the “Cantaria apud Eccleston ex fundacione Thome nuper Comit̄is (sic) et Will^mi Wall̄es, in manu Laurentii Holiwell,” for tenths vi^s viii^d and for the subsidy vi^s. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) The Christian name of the founder ought to have been William in the Chantry Commissioners’ report, as it is in the Subsidy Roll.

In the 3 Edward VI. 1549 Thomas Fleetwood prosecuted Sir Laurence Hallywell, priest, for tortuous possession of Chantry lands and tenements at Eccleston, and for detention of title deeds (Cal. Plead. p. 237), from which it appears that he, at least, was not satisfied with his pension. At that time he was of “thage of iiiii^x yeres” (Lib. B Duch. Lanc.), and the town and parish of Eccleston contained v^c housling people. — (Ibid.) Laurence Hallywell, an Acolyte, was ordained at Lichfield a sub-deacon secular on the title of the Monastery of Whalley 25th March 1497, afterwards a Deacon, and a Priest 23rd July 1498. — Liber Ordinat. apud Lichf.

⁵² There were three Chantries at the altar of St. Mary the Virgin, founded by separate members of the Hesketh family, in the Chapel of Rufford, although the text would lead to the conclusion that there was only one founder.

The first owed its origin to Sir William de Hesketh Knt., who in the year 1346 obtained a licence from King Edward III., at that time in Normandy devoted to the fulfilment of his martial duties, enabling him to found a Chantry in the Chapel of St. Mary of Rufford. — (Harl. MS. 2063, fol. 185; Gastrell's Not. Cestr. vol. ii. part iii. p. 367, note.) Sir William de Hesketh, the head of the family, which, even in his time, had its ancient traditions of piety and patriotism, married Dame Marcella, daughter and coheiress of . . . Dodingfell of Kendal in the county of Westmoreland (Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.; Baines's Hist. Lanc. vol. iii. p. 426, Ped.), and was living 29 Edward III. 1355. — Ibid.

The second Chantry at the same altar was founded by Alice, widow of Robert Hesketh Esq. She was the third daughter of Sir Robert Booth of Dunham Massey Knt., elder brother of William Booth D.D., Lord Archbishop of York; and on the death of her husband 1st January 4 Henry VII. (his post mortem inquisition was not taken until 14 Henry VII.) she professed chastity and took the order of the Mantle and the Ring, dying September 17th 1495. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xii.) She left issue, (1) Thomas, (2) Richard, Attorney-General to Henry VIII., and (3) Hugh, ordained a secular Deacon at Lichfield 19th September 1500 by the Reverend Father in Christ, Thomas, dei gratiâ Bishop of Panadan, by the authority of John, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, on the title of the Priory of Holland. — (Reg. Arundel, Lichf. Liber Ordin.) In 1506 he was appointed by his brother a Chantry Priest of Rufford. On the 22nd July 1507, "Alyce Holte of Chesham in the parish of Bury, wydow, beyng desyros to dispose of thastate God had giffen her," bequeathed by will "to the awter of blessed Mary of Rufforth a litle basson of siluer — to Hugh Hesketh sarving at the awter there founded by my cosyne Dame Alyce Hesketh, his moder, a peece of embrathery whych I have made for a cope, to be sent to hym with all hast at my deth, and to be worn on the daye of my obet every yere, and to pray for my soule." — Lanc. MSS. vol. xxvii. p. 79, Wills. In 1522 Thomas second Earl of Derby constituted his trusty friend Sir Hugh Hesketh Bishop of Man (omitted by Le Neve) one of his executors. — (Brydges' Peerage, vol. iii. p. 69.)

The third Chantry was founded by Thomas Hesketh Esq., son and successor of

ordered to be thre prest ϵ in the said chapell to singe celebrat and mynystre sacrament ϵ the \bar{r} when neide shall require euy of the saide

Robert and Alice Hesketh. He died August 14th 1523, having married first Elizabeth, daughter of William Fleming and coheiress of her brother John Fleming Esq., the descendants of the ancient Barons of Wath. He married secondly Grace, daughter of Sir John Towneley of Towneley Knt. She died 29th June 1510.—M. I. at Rufford. On the 9th April 22 Henry VII. (1507) Thomas Hesketh Esq., then of the household of Thomas Earl of Derby and patron of the Chantry of B. V. Mary in the Chapel of Rufford, and next heir and of kin to Sir William Hesketh Knt. the original founder thereof, as he describes himself in a letter of this date to the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, gives his full and free consent to the Reverend Father the Bishop for such reformation and judicious regulation of the same ancient ordination, according to the tenor of the original foundation, as shall seem best to the said Venerable Father (Reg. Blythe, Lichf.); but in what the reformation consisted is not recorded.

The Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Leyland in 1535 assessed the Chantry at Rufford, "founded by Sir William Hesketh Kt.," for tenths x^s iiiii^d q^r, and for the subsidy ix^s iiiii^d. Another Chantry there, "founded by Alice Hesketh," for tenths iiiii^s viii^d, and for the subsidy iiiii^s iii^d. A third Chantry there, "founded by Thomas Hesketh Esq.," for tenths x^s iii^d, and for the subsidy ix^s ii^d ob. q^r.—Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii. p. 292.

In 1548 the three Chantry Priests here were George Parker, aged 62 years; Thomas Banastre aged 53; and Robert Felden, aged 47. The "plate" was estimated to be x ounces, and the "ornaments" were valued at xxx^s.—(Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) In 1539 Sir Robert Felden, Priest, was an executor of the will of Sir Robert Hesketh of Rufford Knt.—Cal. Plead. Duch. Lanc. pp. 239, 271.

Hesketh of Poulton, the founder, was the eldest son of William Hesketh, who was sixth son of Thomas Hesketh of Rufford Esq. He married first Mary, daughter of Sir William Norres of Speke Knt., by whom he had issue one son George, who died at Poulton 14 Elizabeth. His second wife was Anne, daughter and heiress of William Clifton Esq., the mother of Gabriel Hesketh Esq., who succeeded to a large estate in her right, settled at Aughton before 32 Henry VIII., and died there 4 Elizabeth, leaving descendants.—(Lanc. MSS. vol. iii. p. 298, and vol. xii.) He held the advowson of Aughton, his title to which was disputed by Sir Richard Molyneux. In the settlement of the large estate and enumeration of the Lancashire lands, rents, and services of Peter Legh of Bradley Esq., son and heir of Sir Peter Legh of Lyme Knt., on the 9th October 20 Henry VIII., mention is made of lands and tenements held by "Bartholomew Hesketh, formerly Haryngton's lands at Blakrode," and also of "Blackall seu Cantaria apud Croston;" but it is not clear that the latter refers to Bartholomew Hesketh's foundation of this School at Rufford, in Croston parish.—(Lanc. MSS. vol. xxxvii. pp. 287-9.) Bartholomew Hesketh was dead before the 1 Edward VI., and in the fourth year of that king's reign Gabriel and Matthew Hesketh, his executors, prosecuted Sir Robert Felden and John Felden, executors of Sir Robert Hesketh Knt., for the illegal detention of goods, chattels, money, and books of account (Cal. Plead. Duch. Lanc. p. 239); and in the 5 Edward VI. the same executors prosecuted John Philipson and others for illegal possession of lands at Longton belonging to "Rufford Chantry."—Ibid. p. 255.

⁵⁴ This Chantry in the south aisle of Croston Church, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, was founded and liberally endowed by Mr. John Todd, Priest, Incumbent of Rufford. He was ordained a Deacon regular at Lichfield 28th May 1496, and a Presbyter at Pasche 1497.—(Reg. Arundel, Lichf.) He died Curate of Rufford in 1506.

This was probably not the first Chaplain, and as he had canonical institution by the Archdeacon, he was not a mere stipendiary Priest, maintained and removable at the pleasure of the founder's heirs, but was subject to episcopal control. He is the only Incumbent who occurs as having obtained institution to this Chantry. Robert Fitton and John Smyth, afterwards named, were priests at this altar.

Unless a second, and almost coeval, Chantry was founded at this altar, of which no evidence survives, Todd's Chantry is erroneously stated to have been endowed by Robert Hesketh, in a deed of the 27 Elizabeth, whereby Thomas Earl of Ormond and Ossory conveyed to Edmund Dorning and Roger Raut "all that our late Chantry at the altar of St. John the Baptist, in the Church of Croston, with its members, and all the lands and messuages in the towns of Croston, Maudsley and Hamilton, granted by Robert Hesketh in aid of the salary of the late Chantry Priest, and which Chantry and other premises were granted to Sir Thomas Hesketh for 21 years."—Dr. Kuerden's MSS. vol. iv. fol. c. 27 in Coll. Arm.; Baines.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Leyland assessed the "Cantaria infra Ecclesiam de Croston, in manu Rob'ti Fitton, ex fundacione" (sic) for tenths ix^s ix^d ob. q^r, and for the subsidy viii^s x^d q^r.—(Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) In 1548 John Smythe was the Incumbent of Todd's Chantry, and aged 60 years. The parish of Croston was reputed to contain 1200 houseling people.—(Lib. B Duch. Lanc.) In 1553 John Smyth, Chantry Priest of St. John's in Croston, had a pension of 5*l.*—Willis's Mitr. Abb. vol. ii. p. 107.

Katherine, widow of Richard Tarleton, and moderately endowed by her with a stipend charged on her lands in Thornton, in the parish of Poulton in the Fylde, and on the proceeds of her right to a fishery in the river Wyre. If her maiden name was Molyneux, Richard Tarleton her husband was living in the year 1527; but the precise date of the foundation of her Chantry has not been discovered. On the 2nd March 1442, 21 Henry VI. Thomas Tarleton was the Vicar of Croston, and gave his certificate regarding "a relic of St. Laurence head," which had been brought out of Normandy by Sir Rowland Standish, and given to the Chapel of Chorley, in Croston, by his brother James Standish. — Harl. MS. 1437, fo. 71.

No Incumbents of this Chantry are recorded either at Lichfield or Chester.

In 1535 the Subsidy Commissioners for the Deanery of Leyland assessed the Chantry in Croston Church, "ex fundacione Katrinæ Tarleton, Viduæ," for tenths v^s ix^d q^r, and for the subsidy v^s xi^d ob. — (Lanc. MSS. vol. xxii.) In 1548 Richard Clarke was the Incumbent, and aged seventy-four years. He held another living of the value of ix^{li} a year as well as his Chantry, the clear income of which was ii^{li} xix^s viii^d. — (Lib. B. Duch. Lanc.) In 1553 Richard Clarke, Chantry Priest of St. Trinity, Croston, had a pension for life of 2*l.* 14*s.* — (Willis's Hist. Mitred Abb. vol. ii. p. 107.) The Clearke of Croston's stipend being 3*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.* was charged on the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster, and became payable shortly after the dissolution of the Chuntries; but it does not appear how the payment originated. — Baines's Hist. Lanc. vol. i. p. 180.
